

STORES SIGN UP FOR DECORATIONS

Remarkably good daily progress is being reported by the street decorations committee for Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration next June 8 to 9. Harry Parkinson, representing the Flak Flag & Decorating Co. of Portland, has spent the past week or two in the city contacting local business establishments in regard to the decoration of store fronts. He stated the co-operation of merchants has been 90 per cent perfect, giving assurance Medford will be well decorated for jubilee week. Decoration rates are being held to a low figure, Mr. Parkinson said, adding the rates will not fluctuate whether decorations are ordered now or during the last week preceding the celebration.

Throckmorton of Huch Observe 60th Anniversary (By Maude Pool)

It's a long, long journey back through the years to the time when a young married couple, eagerly awaiting the promise of the golden future, made their way by covered wagon to southern Oregon from California, yet Mr. and Mrs. Aris Throckmorton of Huch were able to look back over the past together when they celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday.

In recognition of the anniversary, a family reunion was held on that day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Throckmorton at Eagle Point, at which 18 guests were present. The four children surviving from a family of six were present, including the sons and daughters-in-law: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McDaniell and Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Throckmorton of Applegate, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hansen of Medford, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Throckmorton. Of a group of nine grandchildren, four were able to join the reunion: Eleanor and Dale Throckmorton and Mrs. Lawrence Loy and Mrs. Ray Anderson and their husbands. The only two great-grandchildren, Jimmy and Barbara Anderson, also were present. Mr. and Mrs. Throckmorton have lived in the Huch vicinity since their arrival from California 50 years ago next month, having been married at the farm home of the bride's parents on the Sacramento river in Sutter county, May 8, 1874.

Mrs. Throckmorton, formerly Miss Sarah Bistwick, was born in Missouri and will reach her 79th birthday anniversary October 29. She crossed the plains in 1858. Mr. Throckmorton was born in Kentucky and was 31 on April 8. He crossed the plains in 1860, and later made two trips to New York by boat, crossing the Isthmus of Panama.

MARTIN MEETING ADDS NEW NAMES TO BACKER LIST

"A New Deal for Oregon, through the election of General Charles H. Martin, the one man in the gubernatorial race who has the qualifications demanded by the office of chief executive," was asked of Democrats and Republicans here last night, gathered at the Hotel Medford for the address of former State Senator Edward P. Bailey of Eugene. Following Senator Bailey's address, 40 new memberships in the local "Martin-for-Governor" club were obtained in signed pledges to support the nomination and election of the general.

"This is no ordinary political campaign," the speaker told his audience. "It is one filled with many dangers. In the Republican party there are six men scrambling for nomination, not one measuring up to the qualifications of governor. In the Democratic party we have two candidates, one making a definite appeal to the radical element. He is not and has never been a taxpayer in this state. He comes before us on a platform designed to get votes, making promises impossible of fulfillment."

"If the thinking people of the Democratic party do not nominate Charles H. Martin in the primary, both parties will be represented by people wholly unfit to hold the office of chief executive. If they do nominate General Martin May 18, they will be nominating the next governor of Oregon."

Senator Bailey then explained that many Republicans in the state have already pledged their support to General Martin if he wins the nomination. The situation, he added, should be one easily understood by southern Oregonians, who have had much experience during the past year with inefficient office seekers, who made their appeals to the radical element.

The state, he explained, is in danger of facing the same trouble experienced last year by Jackson county. "General Martin is a man who is soundly progressive, not radical," the speaker continued, adding, "There are many problems to be solved in Oregon in the immediate future—future development of the Columbia river, regulation of utilities, unemployment insurance, the liquor question. All should be solved in a sane and sensible manner for the good of the greatest number."

Fred L. Heath, Sr., president of the Medford "Martin-for-Governor" club, presided at the meeting and speakers were introduced by District Attorney George Coddling. Others heard were: Mrs. A. E. Reames, president of the women's division of the "Martin-for-Governor" campaign here, and John H. Butler of the Ashland club. Each told of progressive work being carried on in the two groups, Mrs. Reames emphasizing the women's desire to work with the men in furthering General Martin's candidacy.

Candidates introduced at the meeting were: J. N. Devers, Republican in the congressional race from this district; Sid Brown, Robert E. Bell and Gene Narreagan, seeking the Democratic sheriff nomination; R. S. Anderson and A. C. Hough of Grants Pass, candidates for circuit judge. Mr. Walls, president of the Ashland club, was also introduced.

Would you bake

a new potato?

A new potato and a winter potato are both potatoes—but you prepare them differently. Also, drip coffee and percolator coffee are both coffee—but you prepare them differently, using two different kinds of coffee. Here's the reason.

In a Drip Coffee Maker, boiling water drips only once through a coffee specially prepared to yield its flavor quickly. While in a Percolator, the water continues to pass many times through a coffee prepared to yield its flavor slowly. The same coffee can be used for both methods, but like a "Jack-of-all-trades" it is "master of none"—neither drip nor percolator. In one or the other, little things happen. It's a little weak, or a little strong, or a little cloudy, or it has a little less flavor. It's these little things that make or mar good coffee. Be sure to use the correct coffee for each method.

Your grocer has two Schilling Coffees, identical in flavor, but each is specially prepared for its purpose—each one different in blend, roast and grind.
