

Walter 'The Great' Mails Only Foolin' But His Umps Wasn't And It's 'Showers'

Recognized as "public comic number one" of the Pacific Coast League, Walter "The Great" Mails, San Francisco Seals' southpaw pitcher, found out his humor wasn't liked by the umpire. When Mails rushed forward, in this disguise, to protest a decision he was given the "grand rush" by Umpire Bill Guthrie. So, now Walter has decided to quit talking. He'll talk to the "umps" like this hereafter. (Associated Press Photo)

Mechanical Man Rests at Beach

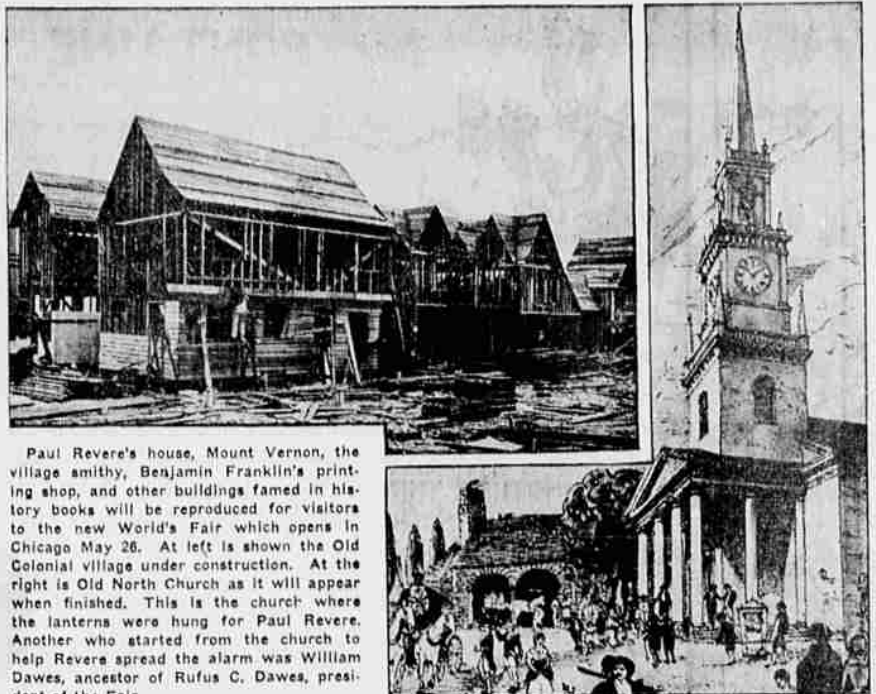

Mac likes the seashore and some of the mermals at Venice, Cal. but he doesn't go near the water because he's a complex mechanism and he'd have a short circuit if he got his feet wet. The robot is seven and a half feet tall and is controlled by wireless. Leighton Hilbert, the inventor, is acquainting Mac with Grace Chamberlin (left) and Alberta Reedy. (Associated Press Photo)

SUGAR HEIRESS WEDS IN NEW YORK

Historic Buildings in Colonial Village at New Fair

Paul Revere's house, Mount Vernon, the village smithy, Benjamin Franklin's printing shop, and other buildings famed in history books will be reproduced for visitors to the new World's Fair which opens in Chicago May 26. At left is shown the Old Colonial village under construction. At the right is Old North Church as it will appear when finished. This is the church where the lanterns were hung for Paul Revere. Another who started from the church to help Revere spread the alarm was William Dawes, ancestor of Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair.

NATION'S BIGGEST PASSENGER PLANE TRIES WINGS

The giant flying boat S-42, built by Sikorsky for Pan-American Airways, is shown as it proved itself airworthy on a test flight over Bridgeport, Conn. The plane, powered by four engines and capable of flying 2,500 miles non-stop with a mail load and crew, was planned as America's largest passenger plane. It is 76 feet long, has a wing spread of 114 feet, and has a gross weight of 38,000 pounds. It will be fitted with 32 passenger seats for the South American service. (Associated Press Photo)

DANCER WEDS SANS STOCKINGS

Breathless and excited, Bobbe Arnst, the dancer, arrived 25 minutes late for her marriage to Robert Cavanaugh, Chicago attorney, at Larchmont, N. Y. She said a shopping trip delayed her. Miss Arnst, former wife of Johnny Weissmuller, screen and aquatic star, wore a brown straw hat, mink coat, white crepe dress, but no stockings. The couple is shown as Justice Wesley Massersmith performed the ceremony. (Associated Press Photo)

CROWD HEARS DR. WIRT MAKE REVOLUTION CHARGES

This picture shows the packed committee room in Washington where Dr. William A. Wirt (seated left) told of a Virginia dinner party last September, at which, he said, he heard that the "brain trust" planned revolution. Several of the six persons at the party denied his statements. James A. Reed (standing), former fiery senator from Missouri, appeared as Wirt's counsel. (Associated Press Photo)

U. S. Agent Shot In Dillinger Hunt

NEW TULIPS AT NEW YORK SHOW

The greatest number of exhibitors and the greatest variety of blooms that have ever appeared on the show's program were attracted to the annual international flower show in New York. Betty Worth, pretty New Yorker, is shown with a new tulip, entitled Mrs. John T. Scheepers, which is on display for the first time in this country. The tulip is chrome yellow and has won many first awards in European flower shows. (Associated Press Photo)

Science at Fair

Exhibits in the Hall of Science are being changed and improved for the opening of the new World's Fair in Chicago May 26. E. Pantano is shown here repairing an exhibit in the chemistry section.

ROOSEVELT AND HEPBURN STAR

Probably you won't recognize them, but here is a grandson of the late "Teddy" Roosevelt, and a brother of Katharine Hepburn, film star, all decked out to take feminine roles in "Hades, the Ladies," stage production of the Hasty Pudding club at Harvard university. In addition, the grandson of another President is in the play. Left to right: Theodore Roosevelt III, Irving Garfield, Robert Hepburn. (Associated Press Photo)
