Rotary's Delegates Report on District Meeting in Tacoma

An interesting, detailed report of the recent district conference of Rotary International in Tacoma was given at today's luncheon meeting of the Medford Rotary club by Glen Smith, president-elect of the club here, and Joe Marshall, secretary. In the course of his report, Smith pointed out that the initial Rotary conference was held in Tacoma 20 years ago. Tribute was paid to the Rotarians of the Washington city for their splendid hospitality by the speaker, who also briefly discussed the procedure of the international Rotary board and the important work the organization is accomplishing in Europe and the Orient in encouraging friendlier relations between countries and avoiding open warfare. Joe Marshall also emphasized the spirit of hospitality and good-fellowship that prevailed at the Tacoma conference and briefly told of some of the sessions he attended as a Medford Rotary club representative. H. H. Sanderson of Seattle and Ed Morris of Eugene were visiting Rotarians who enjoyed today's meeting. Club guests were Joe McMahon, former Medford traffic official, Emmett Nealon and Ralph Billings. A special program with illustrated lecture has been planned for next week's Rotary

Craterian Star

Helen Twelvrees has one of the featured roles in "All Men Are Enemies" on the screen at the Craterian theater today and tomorrow, with the "Purple Sage Riders" on the stage in person for all shows.

"The Purple Sage Riders" an aggregation of stars from radio and stage, are headed by the Lonesome Cowboy, whose voice and act are known from coast to coast. A featured performer at the Sunshine International radio station between Texas and Mexico, he is credited with having one of the largest listening audiences of radio. In addition to this well known star, the unit is also composed of picked radio favorites from the Arizona Wranglers, the Happy-Go-Lucky Hour, the Beverly Hill Billies, and the Hollywood Hill Billies. Texas Tommy, with his wonder horse of screen fame, "Baby Doll," a pony of almost human understanding and Johnny Judd, world's champion trick roper, are also in the show.

"The Purple Sage Riders" is a brand new stage unit, direct from Hollywood, and making their first tour together through this territory. Their local engagement at the Craterian theater today and tomorrow will be made at no increase in prices. They appear for all shows, both matinee and evenings.

army, but is purchased from private firms in this district.

Health Guarded

Health of the men in the camp has been closely guarded during the past year, with a medical officer from the army or navy, or a contract surgeon in each camp. Major James R. Bibighaus became district surgeon when headquarters was established and filled that position until his transfer to Montana last week.

Figures at headquarters show that during the year 125 cases of disease and 78 injuries were treated in the hospitals, while 3,770 work days were lost by men in hospitals, and 12,744 by men in quarters.

Two thousand and nine typhoid inoculations were given the men, 2,095 smallpox vaccinations, and 225 inoculations against Rocky Mountain spotted fever. There were two deaths in the district the past year, one young man receiving fatal injuries from a falling tree, and the other died the result of carbuncles.

The medical division spent $1425.87 for hospital care other than government hospitals, and $1096.50 for only ailments other than government doctors. Expenditures also included $1,428.50 for dentists, $363 for nurses, $247.90 for optical service and $93.33 for medicine purchased in open market.

Reserve Officers Used

Camps when originally established were in charge of regular army men, who have since been replaced by reserve officers. Numerous changes in enrollment of the regular men have been necessitated by the ruling that a man can only serve five quarters.

Authority in two camps is divided between the army and the forest service, the latter being in charge of work outside the camp. The army is in charge of administration and supplies.
