GALEN KNOX AND MISS CRANE HAVE CHARACTER ROLES

Character parts in the senior play, "Take My Advice," to be presented Wednesday, are Jud Fenton and Mrs. Nelson-Dodd. Character parts in the senior play, "Take My Advice," to be presented Wednesday, are Jud Fenton and Mrs. Nelson-Dodd.

Jud Fenton, the town philosopher, who does not believe in work, is to be portrayed by Galen Knox. Knox has had much experience in the field of dramatics as he acted in the opera "H. M. S. Pinaref," which was given '33; and also participated in numerous other plays and acts in both high school and junior high.

Miss Helen Crane, who takes the role of Mrs. Nelson-Dodd, who is president of the Social Uplift Society of Eureka, is an experienced dramatist as she has belonged to the dramatic club for two years and has appeared in their productions.

She held a part in the Latin club play presented this year. She has also become proficient in writing through her connection with the H. Times and Crater staffs.

These two characters add a realistic air to the play as they are continually throwing funny and witty remarks at each other.

Properties for the play are to be in charge of Dick Reum who as a member of the senior class has proved his capability this year as business manager of the Crater magazine.

First Medford Aid Society Was Civic Organization Is Shown in Book of Minutes

No desire for elimination of the masculine mind from the woman's club room was existent in the city of Medford in 1884, according to the by-laws of Medford's first aid society, the book of minutes, now treasured by Mrs. John Cochran, reveals.

For the by-laws open with the statement, "Gentlemen shall be entitled to all the privileges of this society, except voting."

The book of minutes was purchased by Mrs. G. H. Haskins, carried on the membership roll as Helen L. Haskins, when the society dissolved in 1892. Her daughter, Mrs. Cochran, now treasures it as one of the interesting relics of early Medford society.

The aid society was organized as a civic, not a church, group in 1884. The work of the organization was directed toward advancement of the interests of good society, fostering learning, stimulating intellectual and religious culture to relieve distress and want.

The first sidewalk to mark the city's streets, was constructed by the society. It was a board walk, leading from the north end of the depot, then located in Main street, to the school, which occupied the block where Jackson county's new court house is now situated.

DIAMOND JUBILEE TICKETS ON SALE IN HEADQUARTERS

Advance sale of tickets for a number of the attractions of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration has begun at the Jubilee headquarters in the Sparta building.

In view of the large number of people expected during the celebration, early purchase of tickets is advised by celebration officials. Held to a minimum figure, several classifications of tickets are available for "Oyer-Un-Gon" (Land of Plenty) an historical pageant with a cast of 500 members.

The production, especially written for the celebration by Prof. Angus Bowmer, of the Southern Oregon Normal school, will be presented Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights at the Jackson county fairgrounds.

The pageant tells the story of the establishment of Oregon statehood, bringing out the struggles and hardships which confronted the early pioneers in building a new country. The story is simply told in pantomime, song and speech and so interestingly presented its two-hour length will seem remarkably short.

Tickets are on sale for the famous Norman Cowan's roundup, composed of the outstanding in the west. There are over 18 of them. Cowboys will compete for cash awards in bucking, steer roping, bulldozing and other feats of skill.

The roundup, second only to the famous Pendleton show, will be presented Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons, with a special showing Saturday night. The roundup organization is known throughout the west.

Tickets are also available for the coronation of the Queen Mother at the fairgrounds Monday evening. Elaborate ceremonies have been planned for this event, honoring pioneer motherhood and the important part it played in Oregon history. Anne Whiteaker of Eugene, daughter of the first governor of Oregon, John Whiteaker, who served from 1859 to 1862, has been chosen for this honor.

Reservations for tickets may be made by calling 463 but they must be purchased by June 1. Mail orders are also accepted and are urged to be made as early as possible.

ENDEAVOR OFFICERS REPORT ON MEETING

The Crater Lake Christian Endeavor Union, represented by Violet Judy, Norman Fraley, president, and Adrian Fraley, publicity manager, attended meetings in Ashland and Phoenix yesterday.

At Ashland the delegation attended a Christian Endeavor meeting, and returned afterward to Phoenix to attend church. Reports were given on the state convention which was held at Willamette university in Salem last month.

Miss Judy gave a report on the entertainment at the convention, and Norman Fraley reported on the speakers, including Dr. Daniel A. Poling, president of the World Society of Christian Endeavor.

Adrian Fraley presided over yesterday's meetings and was in charge of the programs.

SPRAY URGED FOR ELM LEAF BEETLE

Owners of elm shade trees are advised by County Agent L. P. Wilcox that the elm leaf beetle is now working and spraying should be done within the next week if the larvae of this insect are to be controlled.

The larvae of the elm beetle are slug like and feed on the underside of leaves on both the cork and American elms. Valuable shade trees may be damaged to the extent of complete defoliation if control measures are not applied.

Arsenate of lead, four pounds of the powdered material to the 100 gallons of water applied thoroughly to the underside of all leaves will give control for the season.

If spraying is done by commercial sprayers, the property owners should supervise the work to the extent of knowing that the proper strength materials are used, and that coverage of leaves is obtained.

D. A. R. Notes

At the annual meeting of Crater Lake Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, on Saturday, May 19, Mrs. H. F. W. Spilver was elected regent for the coming year.

Other officers chosen were vice-regent, Mrs. C. C. Murray; recording secretary, Mrs. F. J. Newman; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Volney Dixon; treasurer, Mrs. Chas. L. Woods; registrar, Mrs. J. H. Cochran; chaplain, Mrs. A. E. Stratton; historian, Mrs. J. O. Grey, and four directors, Mrs. M. M. Morris, Mrs. Wm. W. P. Holt and Mrs. E. M. Wilson.

Reports of the chapter activities for the past year made an interesting program and the work accomplished is indeed gratifying.

The chapter will sponsor a float in the Diamond Jubilee parade and a conference of the Southern Oregon District of the D. A. R. will be held on a date to be announced later.

Mrs. M. M. Morris, who is retiring from a successful term as regent, presided at the meeting which was held at Mrs. E. M. Wilson's home. Mrs. C. B. Warren, Mrs. C. C. Van Scoyoc and Mrs. Gillings assisted the hostess and Mrs. Bert Anderson presided at the tea table.

Owing to the late hour, the book review by Miss F. J. Newman was postponed until the June picnic.
