Choice Is Simple

Making a choice in our display room is a very simple matter. First of all, there is a large array from which to select; something suitable to the wishes and desires of anyone.

Then, the charges of the complete funeral are plainly marked on each casket. This does simplify matters.

MUSIC PROGRAM IS ENJOYED BY PRESBYTERIANS

By Mrs. E. E. Gore

When Mrs. Ruhl editorially felicitated the people of Jackson county on their superiority as follows because they voted the sales tax it is not known to just what particular group he referred. However it is hoped it was to some of the good souls who filled the Presbyterian church to capacity Sunday night when the completed choir of the Christian and Presbyterian churches gave a very choice program of sacred music. Scattered here and there throughout the audience were many past middle age tapping on the triplets of Rubinstein's "Kammermusik Ostinato" when sun gby the Christian choir with orchestra accompaniment, while had the invitation been given, half of these elders could have sung the "Hallelujah Chorus" either backward or forward without missing a note. Surely people who were fed that music in youth and have nourished their adult life with it are to be classified with Editor Ruhl's "high quality of citizenship."

The two directors, Mrs. Elsie Carleton Strang and Mrs. Effie Herbert Yeoman, shared the honors of conducting. Especially lovely was the unaccompanied ladies' chorus "Lift Thine Eyes" by the Christian choir and the cantata "Hear My Prayer" by the Presbyterian choir, both numbers composed by Mendelssohn, who understood as no other did, how to write for voices. Maurine Duncan's beautiful soprano voice was never heard to better advantage than in the solo "Oh for the Wings of a Dove," while Katherine Wendt's popular number was "On Wings of Song."

With so much talent in chorus and orchestra, good musicians like Mrs. Sims and Miss Jones to accompany, and leaders of such devotion to music as Mrs. Strang and Mrs. Yeoman we should have many of these high class concerts.
