P. E. O. CONVENTION ELECTS OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

members, in Alhambra, Cal., and one in Iowa.

The delegates greatly enjoyed a beautiful trip to Crater Lake Tuesday afternoon as the guests of B. I. L.'s and their friends. A stop was made for lunch at the Rogue Elk hotel, then the round trip was completed, returning for a banquet at the Medford hotel at 7 p. m. J. F. Pflegel acted as toastmaster, presenting Ellow Mae Wilson and George Peckham, who sang, in costume.

MRS. C. H. PASKE
A Song Leader at Convention Sessions

Lake Pictures Given.

Judge E. B. Day, Dr. C. H. Paske, Leslie VanDoren and Wilson Watt, who each gave a toast to the P. E. O.'s and Lois Young presented a framed picture of the lake to each delegate.

Following the banquet, an open meeting was held in the church. Louise Woodruff and George Peckham gave musical numbers. Miss Doud extended greetings and Mrs. Arthur E. Welch of Portland, state president, addressed the audience.

Many See Change.

Her subject, "Shifting Sands," Mrs. Welch said in part: "This thought of 'shifting sands' in the affairs of men is not a new one. Every newspaper, every magazine you read, tells you in terse American fashion that we are headed for the bow-wows, fascism, or a dictatorship—or by contrast they counsel in language masterly and erudite that we are passing through a bloodless, a psychological revolution—a revolution which President Roosevelt insists should be spelled without the 'r,' and which one of our columnists has dubbed 'the laughing revolution.'

"On the one hand we have those who cry, 'It does not matter what we think. There is nothing we can do about it.' While upon the other, there are pioneers in forging the rebirth of idealism who say 'the thought precedes the action and it is apathy that is killing us.'

"A bright, precious medal was awarded to the paper of this community and its editor, Mr. Ruhl, who cautioned 'sanity and straight thinking when revolution flamed over a political misunderstanding.' The Medford Mail Tribune has done more than win for itself a medal. It has blazoned anew the shield of defense through calmness and saneness; it has kept its head when all around was swirling malice and discontent.

Basic Ideal Upheld.

"It has placed in the opinion-making editorials of the nation new hope that our people still hold to a basic ideal of justice that is worth a whole soul's tasking. Our hearts beat a little faster as we read that the Pulitzer prize judges set their basis of selection upon a public service that counseled sanity of thinking, clearness of action, and patience of utterance."

Speaking of the P. E. O. organization, Mrs. Welch said: "We have met here in this Garden City of Oregon, in a state convention of Sisterhood, representing a national organization of some 60,000 members. We do not carry our precepts blazoned upon banners, nor do we shout our causes from platforms, trying to reform the world to our patterns, but we do carry our precepts blazoned upon our hearts and we do let ourselves be known to the world of men, not by our words, but by our works.

"P. E. O. renders a service to humanity through its three educational projects, sponsored and financed entirely by voluntary gifts from its members.

Education Aid First.

"The first, because of its greater magnitude is our educational loan fund of $725,000, which is loaned to worthy girls who are seeking the completion of their education. Each girl must be sponsored by a local chapter which votes favorably for a loan if convinced that the girl will have above the average chance to succeed in her chosen profession, and that she will be an asset to the community into which she goes.

"Young women going out from our colleges have a vital place to fill in society and leadership is the crying need of America today. We take pride in our 'loan girls.'

Library Outstanding.

"Our second educational project is our memorial library, built to honor our founders at Iowa Wesleyan university. To it every member contributed a free-will gift, and it stands now in classic beauty on the campus where P. E. O. had its birth. It houses the general offices of the Sisterhood, its halls echo with the laughter of youth and its book stacks shelter the seeker after the great thoughts of the ages. But the shrine to every P. E. O. is the memory room where hang life-sized portraits of the seven (founders) furnished with the things of their time, and breathing a very presence of eternal life for the Sisterhood they loved.

"Our third educational project is a junior college for women, known as Cottey Junior college and located at Nevada, Missouri, a town of about 10,000, beautiful with parks, lovely old oak trees, and wide paved streets. The college is celebrating its golden jubilee this fall, having been founded 50 years ago by Virginia Alice Cottey, now Mrs. Stockard.

"Mrs. Stockard is still living, is president emeritus, and everyone who has known her, honors her for the life work she has given this junior college. Hundreds of girls have passed through its portals and have scattered over the nation and into other parts of the world, but they testify to the splendid Christian influence and the thorough training of this, their college."

CITY'S BEER TAX PLAN DELAYED BY LEGALITY QUERY

cents on each container containing in excess of 15 gallons, and 25 cents on each container containing 15 gallons or less, and upon bottled alcoholic bexerages a license stamp of 1 cent for each quart bottle and a half cent for each pint bottle.

The ordinance provides that: "It shall be unlawful for any such dispenser to sell to any person for consumption on the premises where sold, any alcoholic beverage by the barrel or keg unless such dispenser shall affix to each such barrel or keg containing such beverage when the same is received, and any bottled alcoholic before the same is sold as aforesaid, the license stamps as in this ordinance provided."

Reames Cites Rulings

Attorney Charles Reames, representing a number of dispensers, spoke at some length before the council, reading from the Knox law and from the supreme court ruling in the Klamath Falls case in which that city attempted to prove its right to control the sale of liquor there.

Attorney Farrell said that it is obvious some control of beer dispensaries in Medford is necessary and, with the police protection, which at the present time is only two-thirds adequate, that some form of taxation amounting to about $3600 must be worked out to provide for additional police. He indicated that this tax should come from the dispensers themselves.

Mrs. Alice Koppen, a dispenser, also appeared before the council and said what dispensers really need is an established price, and that they should not come to the council asking for regulations.

Says Opinions Vary

Attorney Farrell said that legal opinions varied on whether or not the cities have the right to tax beer. William Briggs, attorney for the League of Oregon Cities, told Mr. Farrell he believed the city can so regulate the dispensing if it is not contrary to the Knox law.

George Neuner of Portland, attorney for the Oregon liquor control commission, has written Attorney Farrell that the cities absolutely cannot control the sale by taxation.

A resolution, proposed by Mayor Wilson, was adopted by the council as follows: "That it is the sense of the Medford city council in session assembled, that the condition of traffic in such city is such that henceforth no applications for approval of state liquor licenses will be received, considered or approved, and that wherein it is possible the number of licenses now dispensing beer will be reduced and that strict compliance with city ordinances will be invoked."

The city granted J. E. Gregory's application for an electrician's license, and the mayor read communications concerning the PWA, and Attorney Farrell was instructed to communicate with the congressional representatives concerning Medford's request for funds to put in a new sewer system.
