Making Strawberry Jam and Jelly? Give Them a Chance to Set Properly

Time tells the tale - In jelly and jam making, as well as in everything else.

Now that strawberries are plentiful and housewives everywhere are busy converting this delicious fruit into jams and jellies, this is the moment to remind them that they must not judge their work too quickly. Give your jellies a chance - time to set. Jellies - and jams, too - grow progressively firmer for a week to a month after they are made.

Jelly experts are telling us, too, that weather conditions have been unusual this year and fruits may vary more widely than usual in moisture content. For 1934 berries they say that strawberry jam, made by the short-bottle method, should be boiled four minutes instead of the usual one minute. For even better results and keener flavor, add the juice of half a lemon to the fruit and sugar mixture.

For strawberry jelly they say to boil the fruit juice and sugar mixture four minutes before adding the pectin, as well as half a minute after, and be sure to add the juice of one lemon.

The recipes below have been adjusted to the special needs of 1934 strawberries:

Strawberry Jelly

4 cups (2 lbs.) juice, 1 1/2 cups (3 lbs.) sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1/2 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain the juice from 1 medium lemon.

Measure sugar, strawberry juice and lemon juice into large saucepan, mix well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. To reduce foaming, 1/4 teaspoon of butter may be added. Boil hard 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Add bottled fruit pectin, then bring again to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Strawberry Jam

4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared pint, 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar, 1 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries or crush so that each berry is reduced to a pulp. Squeeze juice from 1/2 small lemon.

Measure sugar, prepared fruit, and lemon juice into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. To reduce foaming, 1/4 teaspoon butter may be added. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 4 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).
