

A ROOSEVELT GOES OUT FOR CREW

President Roosevelt's athletic young son, Franklin, Jr., is a candidate for the Harvard freshman crew. He is shown at right, helping to lug out a shell for a practice drill on the Charles river at Cambridge, Mass. (Associated Press Photo)

"Ould Sod" Comes to Life at New Fair

Irish Village for New World's Fair. One of the principal features of this village, nestling in the quaint beauty of its native heath, will be historic Tara Hall, at the right of the picture. A Chester Danforth, artist, has placed special stress on this building, it being constructed in minute detail similar to the gathering place of the old Irish chief. (Associated Press Photo)

New Deal Scored By 'Young Teddy'

Speaking in New York at his inauguration as president of the National Republican club, Col. Theodore Roosevelt (above) denounced the "new deal" regime of his distant cousin, the President, as "reactionary and un-American." (Associated Press Photo)

World-Famed Gem in New Fair

You can hardly blame Miss Charlene Tucker for looking happy, for she is wearing the famed Maximilian diamond, a 42-carat solitaire, valued at $150,000. It is part of the diamond exhibit at the new World's Fair which opens in Chicago May 26. Negotiations are under way to bring some of the Russian crown jewels to the Fair. (Associated Press Photo)

TEXAS BAD MAN CAPTURED

Raymond Hamilton (seated, left), 20-year-old escaped Texas convict who has been a key man in the Clyde Barrow crime organization, was captured near Sherman, Tex., with T. R. Brooks (seated, right), a vagrant who aided Hamilton in his last bank robbery. Texas authorities planned to convict Hamilton under the habitual criminal act and if possible send him to the electric chair. (Associated Press Photo)

FOUR DIE IN ILLINOIS CRASH OF ICE-COATED PLANE

Four persons were killed near Petersburg, Ill., when a St. Louis-to-Chicago American Airways plane crashed at night in a blinding blizzard. This was the wreckage of the ice-coated monoplane in a farm field. (Associated Press Photo)

Tries To Kill Self

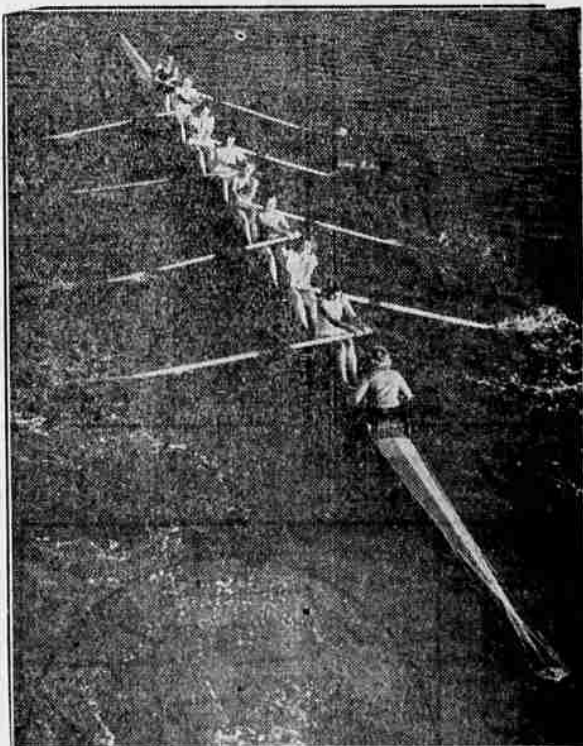

Glenn Horn, 19, was given an even chance to recover after he had attempted to commit suicide in the basement of the Frank Flieder home at Erland's Point, near Brenton, Wash. The youth had been deputized to guard the building after the discovery of six murders in the house and authorities thought memories of the massacre influenced his action. (Associated Press Photo)

SOUGHT AS OUTLAW KILLERS

Two of the men sought with the John Dillinger band of killers are Tommy Carroll (left), St. Paul bank robber believed to be one of the latest recruits to the outlaw gang, and George "Baby Face" Nelson (right), Dillinger henchman who was identified as the gunman who shot and killed W. Garter Baum, a federal agent, in one of the skirmishes near Mercer, Wis. (Associated Press Photo)

GIRL CREW ROWS FOR BEAUTY

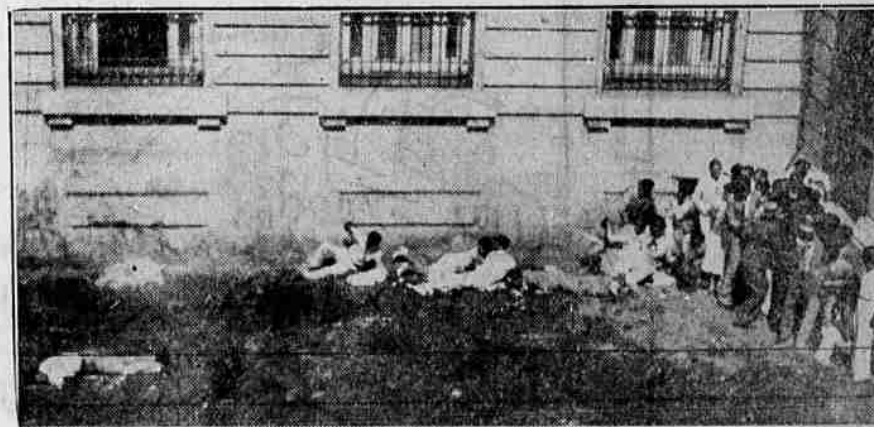

The titles sought by this boatload of girls from a Long Beach, Cal., high school are health, poise and grace. The feminine eight does not enter competitive events as their coach believes speed races are too strenuous for them. (Associated Press Photo)

SPENDS 1000 HOURS BUILDING MODEL

Ben Hammer, 19, of Pasadena, Cal., with his completed model of a navy amphibian plane. The model has a wing spread of 67 1/2 inches and weighs 10 1/2 pounds. It has demountable cowling, retractable wheels, movable ailerons, instrument board and adjustable stabilizer operated from the cockpit. There is also a machine gun mounted on it. Young Hammer spent 1000 hours completing the model. (Associated Press Photo)

CUBAN TROOPS FIRE ON HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Here is an actual scene in the early May riot in Havana showing high school boys and girls cowering before the gunfire of Cuban soldiers. One student was slain and five were wounded in the disturbance which has had many repercussions including a call for a 48-hour island-wide strike. The student shown at the extreme left was one of those seriously wounded. (Associated Press Photo)

LEAD REVOLT AGAINST VOLIVA

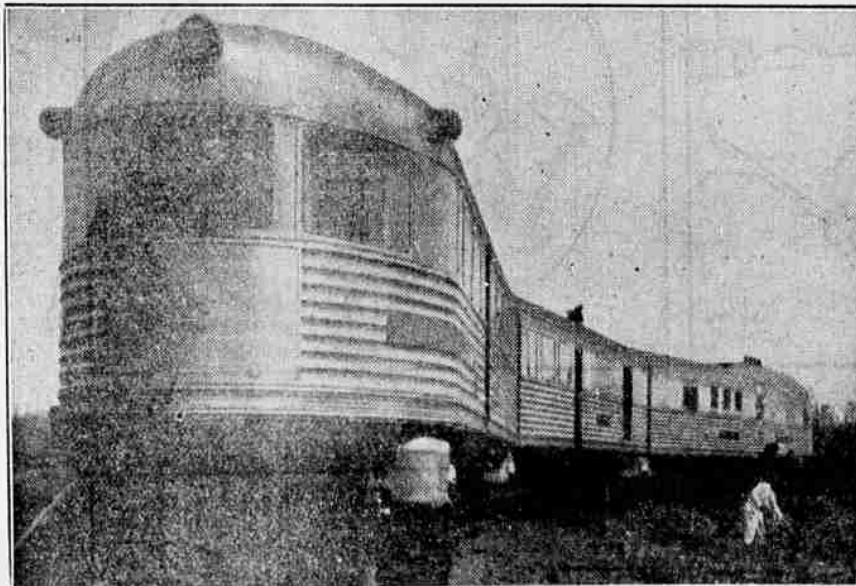

Leaders in the rebellion against the rule of Wilbur Glenn Voliva in the religious colony of Zion, Ill., were Onias W. Farley and his wife (above). Farley was named president of the school board, in competition with Voliva's candidate. In reprisal, Voliva closed the town's parochial schools. Mrs. Farley created a sensation by appearing in front of Voliva's apartment and denouncing him in a sidewalk speech. (Associated Press Photo)

On Comeback Trail

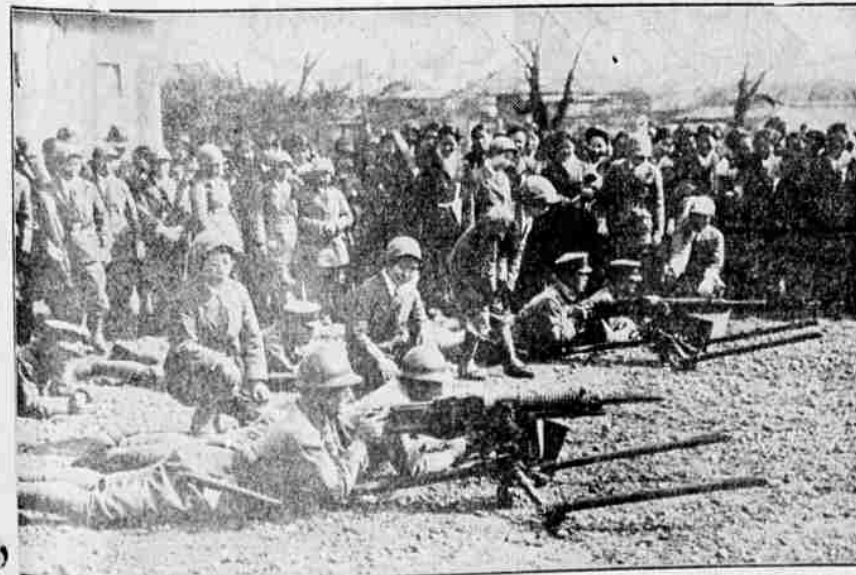

Ben Eastman, former Stanford 440-yard runner and holder of the recognized record for that distance, plans to run in the Fresno, Cal., relay. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW STREAMLINE TRAIN READY FOR FAST TRAVEL

The nation's first Diesel electric streamline train, shown here, was formally christened in a Philadelphia ceremony attended by some of America's leading industrialists. Built for use by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, the train accommodates 72 passengers and is capable of traveling more than 100 miles an hour. (Associated Press Photo)

JAPANESE GIRLS LEARN ART OF FIGHTING

Members of the Women's Patriotic Association in Tokyo are shown receiving instructions in machine gun operations by soldiers of the third infantry regiment. The amazons of the orient are dressed in field regalia. (Associated Press Photo)