

ROSS OUTSLUGS JIMMY McLARNIN TO WIN DECISION

Jewish Fighter Adds Welter-weight Title to Lightweight Crown — Referee Casts Deciding Vote

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Edward C. Foster, of Providence, R. I., president of the National Boxing association, announced today he had suspended Barney Ross, lightweight and new welterweight champion, for failure to honor a contract in Fort Worth, Texas.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP) Black-haired, flashing-eyed Barney Ross, sensational Jewish fighter born on New York's teeming East Side but reared to ring greatness as a product of Chicago's West Side ghetto, stood out today as a double champion on a pinnacle never before scaled in boxing history.
The 25-year-old Chicago youth, with a speed that was as dazzling as the courage with which he slugged toe to toe with his hard-hitting rival, thrilled a vast crowd in Madison Square Garden bowl, Long Island, last night by battering Jimmy McLarnin to defeat in 15 stirring rounds and thereby added the world's welterweight championship to the lightweight title he has held for a year.
Sixty-five thousand fans, nearly filling the arena, roared their acclaim as the gallant youngster who ended the domination of McLarnin over a long line of Jewish boxers with a rousing finish and shattered a precedent that has been long standing.
It was not a one-sided victory for Ross, nor without its dispute after a savage duel from which both emerged bleeding and somewhat battered. Two of the three officials gave the lightweight king a wide margin, and to the majority of observers it appeared that Bounding Barney had decisively outboxed McLarnin.
Referee Eddie Forbes cast the deciding vote in favor of Ross after the two judges, Tom O'Rourke, old time manager and promoter, and Harold Barnes, disagreed.
There was no doubt in Forbes' mind, however, for the veteran referee scored 13 for Ross, scored the first and gave only one, the 12th, to McLarnin.
McLarnin was penalized by both Forbes and Barnes for landing low punches. Under the rules of the state athletic commission, violation of the code, such as hitting below the belt, is automatically cause for loss of the round, regardless of what else may happen. In at least four rounds—the fourth, ninth, eleventh and 13th—the Irishman was warned by Forbes for falling to keep his punches in the proper zone.
On the Associated Press score sheet Ross was credited with nine rounds, including the second to seventh inclusive, and the last three. The 12th was scored even and the 13th to 15th were tallied for McLarnin.
Ross won, regardless of all controversial angles, because he outboxed McLarnin from start to finish, took the sturdy Irishman's stiffest punches without backing up and landed the cleaner, more effective blows. Against a rival outweighing him nearly five pounds, with dynamite in his right hand and the record of being "poison" to all Jewish lightweight, Ross gave a dazzling exhibition of defensive skill and footwork, in addition to an ability to hold his own in any two-fisted exchange.
Before McLarnin was able to swing his rival's flashing arms and untangle himself from a succession of swift left jabs and hooks to the head, Ross had taken a commanding lead. For the first seven rounds Barney's speed, the ease with which he blocked or dodged McLarnin's most earnest swings, meanwhile countering with swift darting shots to the head, gave the Jewish boy an astonishing advantage.
For five rounds, thereafter, the lightweight champion fought defensively, with flashes of slugging willingness, as McLarnin tried aggressively and desperately to turn the tide, but Ross rallied to out-punch the tiring Irishman throughout the last three rounds, himself a youthful master of ringcraft.
The crowd that saw ring history made was the greatest to attend a fight in two years and marked a spectacular comeback in the boxing industry, which has been at low ebb since 1932. The gate receipts, estimated by promoters at $225,000, also marked a new high for a two-year period and represented the biggest figure for anything outside the heavier classes since Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler were packing them in over ten years ago.
McLarnin was stripped of the welter title he won less than a year ago from Young Corbett III. McLarnin knocked out Corbett in less than a round at Los Angeles. The Irishman's last defeat was by Lou Brouillard in 1932 and he hadn't lost a fight in New York since Billy Petrolle beat him in 1930.

BEND GOLFER IS FIEND FOR 'FIVE'
BEND, Ore., May 29.—(AP)—George F. Gove, president of the Bend Golf club, is thinking about investing in a rubber stamp to mark his golf score. He could have used one 15 times while playing 18 holes Sunday. His card for the first nine looked like this:
Gove 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 5
He shot fives on the next two holes to run the string to 11, unprecedented on the Bend course, John Grayson, club pro, reported.

ROBBINS LEADING FOR ANNUAL STATE GOLFING TOURNNEY

PORTLAND, Ore., May 29.—(AP)—Roaming over the excellent but none the less grueling Oswego Country club course, a field of 51 golf players today stroked their way through the second 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round in the annual Oregon State Golf association championship tournament.
The field of 51 was the smallest in several years. At the end of the 36 holes today, the 32 low men will have qualified. It was believed, on the basis of yesterday's scores, that a score of 178 would put a player in the championship flight.
Johnny Robbins of Portland, defending champion, led the field in the first 18 holes with a 74. Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland veteran campaigner, has a 76, and Lee Nichols of Lake Oswego shot a 77, as did Bob Hofer of Corvallis.
Other 18-hole scores included: Bill Stanley of Astoria, 78; Laddie Martin, Roseburg, 84; M. Clark, Grants Pass, 85; Johnny Boyd, Eugene, 85; Robert Woods, Medford, 89; Lyman Spencer, Grants Pass, 99; E. E. Voorhies, Grants Pass, 101.

ANCIENT CULTURE FOUND IN ARIZONA

WASHINGTON.—(UP)—Primitive pottery and remains of ancient vegetation are among finds by archeologists at work on Koet Seel, a prehistoric ruin in the Navajo National Monument, Arizona, the department of the interior revealed.
The information was reported to the national park service of the department by John Wetherill, known to his Navajo Indian friends as "Hos-teen John," custodian of the monument and a pioneer.
In a trash pile below Koet Seel was uncovered the body of a child. Buried with it were two pieces of pottery of great interest to archeologists due to the fact they are reported to be of a much earlier type than the culture of the ruin itself.
The stump of a tree, uncovered in a nearby creek 35 feet below the ground level, is believed to be a part of a tree which grew to maturity at the time the elephant and camel roamed the country.

Last night the field was dry enough to play on but quite a number of the players calculated that the heavy rainfall that afternoon had made the field too wet to play on and did not show up.

SISTERS AND HUSBANDS SET WORLD RECORD OF 31 YEARS SANS BATTLE

ST. LOUIS.—(UP)—Two sisters and their husbands living here claim to hold the "world record" for friendly relations as neighbors.
The story began 31 years ago when two room-mates married sisters. One sister became Mrs. George Bullerick and the other Mrs. Louis Kroener, in a double wedding ceremony.
The couples started housekeeping in adjoining flats and since then, with the exception of two brief periods, they have lived as neighbors.
At one time, when the families lived in the same flat—one upstairs and the other down—the mother went to live with one daughter on the first floor, and the father lived with the other upstairs.
Their romances began about the same time and the sisters announced their engagements jointly.
Although one is several years older, the two, as girls, dressed as twins.
They attended the same church, the same social organizations and during the daytime, the women are constant companions.
And, the women say, "we've never quarreled."

ICKES CONTROL OF OIL INCREASED

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—The senate mining committee today approved the Thomas-Disney bill to increase control by Secretary Ickes over oil production.
Chairman Logan (D-Ky.) said the bill probably would be reported to the senate later in the day.
The measure, a combination of both the original Thomas and Disney bills, included provisions empowering Ickes, as oil administrator, to ban from all commerce any oil produced in excess of quotas he may set and also authorizing him to fix allowable production figures not only for states but for individual producing units within states.

The ballots, the state contended in the trials, were stolen to prevent an ordered recount on the sheriff's office. A Jackson county jury returned a guilty verdict after 18 hours of deliberation. It was also hinted that Fehl feared the recount would reveal discrepancies in his own election.
Schermerhorn is well along in years and for some time there has been talk among acquaintances to petition the governor to extend leniency. Friends
