CCC MODERN PIONEER TO JOIN OLD TIMERS IN DIAMOND JUBILEE

The Civilian Conservation Corps, most modern of the pioneers, will join with the old-timers next week in celebrating Oregon's Diamond Jubilee in Medford and Jacksonville. The work of the corps in the forests and parks of Oregon will be demonstrated by more than 100 members carrying the tools of their various forest trades in the giant industrial parade Friday, June 8. All types of work projects being carried on by the CCC will be shown as the big company of men march along the route of the parade.

The Lewis and Clark expedition, the great exploration party which opened up the western country shortly after the Louisiana purchase, will be portrayed by CCC men costumed as soldiers, frontiersmen and guides. Even the role of Captain Clark's colored body servant will be portrayed. A giant, good natured colored boy from Illinois having offered to play the part. Sacajewea, the Indian girl who guided the expedition, will be portrayed by a young Indian girl who will be here with the Indian village during the week. The roles of Lewis and Clark and other outstanding members of the party will be taken by members of the CCC, along with those of the other 46 men on the party.

Earl Carroll Hit At Craterian

There have been many backstage and musical pictures; and there have been equally as many dealing with the diabolical designs of fiendish murders; but the Craterian theater, starting today, is showing a picture that successfully combines the two.

"Murder at the Vanities," the film version of Earl Carroll's successful current-season hit in New York, mixes music and mystery for the first time. Jack Oakie, Carl Brisson, noted continental stage and screen star, Victor McLaglen, Kitty Carlisle and Duke Ellington and his famous orchestra, combined with original Earl Carroll beauties, are featured in the cast. The story is about a series of mysterious murders backstage during the performance of Earl Carroll's "Vanities." The show goes on during the solution of the mystery, and the audience sees both the musical entertainment, as well as the drama that goes on behind the sets.

Oasis Cabaret To Open Sat. Night

The only spring dance floor in southern Oregon will be one of the many features of the new Oasis Cabaret, located 11 miles north of Medford on the Crater Lake highway, which opens Saturday night, according to Jack Grove, floor manager. The dancing space is held up by twenty-eight heavy springs and covered with cushioned flooring.

The big feature of the new cabaret will be Al Stewart and his Eleven Nile Owls, who will play all evening. A special stage has been built for the orchestra.

There will be a two acre parking space. The building which is one hundred five feet by ninety-five feet is owned by Ernest and Grace Daack, who have promised some unusual food treats for the opening night.

FORESTRY EXHIBIT JUBILEE FEATURE

One of the biggest entries in the Agricultural and Industrial parade scheduled for Friday forenoon during Jubilee week is jointly planned by the United States forest service, U. S. Army, Civilian Conservation Corps and the Crater Lake National park. R. G. Fowler, parade chairman said today. The entry will be fully two blocks long and will have over 100 men. A large number of which will represent the different phases of CCC endeavor in the mountain country, such as trail building, building construction, telephone line building and numerous other activities. The agricultural parade will be one of the longest presented in Medford for years. Prospective entrants are urged to notify Mr. Fowler as early as possible.

First Run Picture Heads Studio Bill

"Bitter Sweet," first run film which heads the studio theater double bill today, is sheer romance, telling the story of the deathless love of beautiful Sari for her handsome young music master. Sari was betrothed with much pomp and ceremony to a stuffy social registerer from whom she runs away at the fifty-ninth second, with the handsome, but penniless fiddler, Carl.

Carl and Sari elope to Vienna, where Sari sings and Carl leads the orchestra in a gay cafe, and where the bitter mixes with the sweet when a certain dashing captain refuses to be discouraged in his attentions to the lovely Sari.

The romance is told to music. In "Mind Reader," the second feature, William portrays a crystal-gazing fakir.

The story throws an amusing ray of light on the hokum behind the
