

CROWDS ENJOYING TODAY'S PROGRAM COOKERY SESSION

If you're invited to a party at the home of one of the 500 local women who attended the second day of the Safeway Stores Homemakers' Bureau three-day course in "Kitcheneering" at the Rialto this afternoon, break any other engagement you may have and attend.

This, you may rest assured, is a perfectly grand affair. Having perfected several of her friends in the art since, your reporter expects to follow it herself, for she doesn't see how each and every housewife present can refrain from having at least one party, but not, of course, to "show off." Of course not!

Not that the afternoons' session was without its practical side, for no matter how frivolous a dish was presented, its preparation was within the limits of simplicity of preparation and beyond the limitations of purely party use. What's good for the friends, in other words, is good for the family as far as the Homemakers' Bureau is concerned. And making it easy to make in the first place was obviously a primary consideration in the mind of Julia Lee Wright, national director of the Bureau, in planning the program which Miss Calkins presented today as Mrs. Wright's personal representative.

Miss Calkins started things off right royally with what she chose to call a mystery cake, before she revealed the mystery. Of course, it's the business of a reporter to uncover and explain mysteries. But this is one time when we fall down on our job. If we were to tell you, for instance, that there's tomato soup in it you probably wouldn't believe us, so we might just as well say nothing other than to suggest that, if you weren't present, you ask someone who was. You'll find out something well worth while.

Not content, apparently, with introducing one new thing at a time, Miss Calkins killed two birds with one stone and, hand in hand with the mystery cake, exposed a brand new way of mixing butter cakes in general. It proved, as she termed it, "twice as good in half the time," and it, as well as a new method of making sponge cake over hot water, promises to join the long line of Homemakers' Bureau innovations which have become standard practice in local kitchens over the past few years.

After Estelle Calkins had transformed the sponge cake into a Whirligig Jelly Roll, she did not discard her magic wand but continued and turned tomato soup into a ring salad with a crab meat center, pointing out that the diversity of tastes permits the substitution of pineapple and Royal Anna cherries for the crab meat, which gives one still greater respect for the inventive genius of the Homemakers' Bureau.

Then, flashing from one surprise to another, she demonstrated something that only a few believed possible in the shape of a foundation recipe for smooth, creamy sherberts made in a mechanical refrigerator without beating cream. The particular sherbert made was pineapple, and serving it Long Island style, with maraschino cherries, aroused no end of interested comment.

But perhaps the biggest hit of the day was Goop.

The name fits it perfectly. It is Goop. Nothing else can be said. We tried. We thought of Glimp but Goop alone remains descriptive. Served with butter or garlic bread and platter salad, Goop is a meal in itself. And what a meal. It's made of veal and chicken and spaghetti and seasoning and other nice things, and is as simple to make as the simplest sort of a meat diet. It's grand warmed over, too, and one can just about guarantee that a perfectly marvelous reputation awaits the first housewife to serve it locally, as well as the second and the third and so on. It's that kind of a dish.

Even Goop, however, did not bring the day to a close, for other delicious things were still to come, and they held the audience in excited anticipation until the very end. Broiled grapefruit, for example, and a cheese tray, and a pair of gay treats primarily for the younger generation, Sunbonnet Salad and Ice Cream Clowns.

The clowns, by the way, showed the final disposition of the peanut butter ice cream started on the first day, and with their raisin eyes and chocolate noses and gay little ice cream cone caps, they promised many a treat for lucky children of "Kitcheneers" who came, saw and were conquered.

Miss Calkins will bring the 1934 edition of "Kitcheneering" to its local close with a program featuring complete meals. Mrs. Julia Lee Wright, national director of the Homemakers' Bureau, has recognized, in planning this last day, the widespread interest in delicious, well-balanced menus that will bring a new variety to many a table, and the program has been arranged to provide exactly that.

The program will start promptly at 2 o'clock, with doors open at 1 o'clock.

NUDE CAVORTING FORCES EXIT OF WOMAN VISITOR

Kerby Korynel, 20, charged with the theft of a golf bag and other golfing paraphernalia belonging to Ralph Woodford, Medford druggist, waived preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace William R. Coleman this morning and was bound over to the grand jury on a lacy charge.

Lillian Ross of Crescent City, Calif., charged with disorderly conduct was dismissed with the promise that she return to her California home. Arresting officers charged that the woman was cavorting in the nude on the Biddle road last Saturday night, due to over-indulgence in malt and hops.

She told the court that nothing was bare but her feet, and that all her clothing were in position. She was en route to Yreka, Calif., and stopped here for a visit, she said.

George Naven and Reuben Fallentine, transients, for the past two months residing at the Federal Transient Relief station at Talent, charged with disorderly conduct in a poolhall were given ten days in the county jail with the proviso that the jail sentence would be remitted if they left the state within 24 hours. Both are desirous of returning to California. They admitted they "might have been a bit noisy" while imbibing beer last Monday evening.

S. F. AIR CARAVAN COMES SATURDAY TO VISIT JUBILEE

Representing the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce, over 10 airplanes will arrive in Medford Saturday, June 9, to take part in Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration. The air caravan will represent the aeronautics committee of the chamber, handling all things aeronautical for both the senior and junior chambers. With most members of the committee identified with the aviation industry, 12 members being pilots and most of them having their own planes, the committee is regarded as being one of the aeronautical groups in the west.

The president of the junior chamber, W. P. Fuller Brawner, also director of the W. P. Fuller & Co., will accompany the tour in his Wasp-powered Stearman, which will have among its passengers Frank Fuller, Jr., secretary of the W. P. Fuller company. Other members of the committee expected to be present are B. M. Doolin, manager of the San Francisco airport; L. B. Daniels, president of Seelye & Company; George Dixon in the Associated Oil company's Hornet-powered Boeing mail plane; Craswell Cole and Brant Rankin; Ivar Akzelson, Thomas Portune, Hugh Fullerton and W. G. Ryberg, chairman of the aeronautics committee.

This flight will arrive in Medford at about the same time a similar flight is expected from Portland and other northwest points, indicative of a big aviation day in Medford for the celebration.

The San Francisco delegation will arrive in Medford early in the forenoon of June 9, returning to the city June 10. It is possible that visitors will spend Saturday evening at some resort along the Rogue river following a scheduled air show.

LAST CAR PEARS GOES TO MARKET EX-LIQUOR STORE WORKER SUICIDES

The last car of pears of the 1934 Rogue River crop was shipped to market this week and none of the fruit remains in the storage plants of this city. It was a car of Winter Nella.

Thirteen cars of apples remain in storage, and it is expected they will be shipped by the end of the week. Nine cars were shipped during the week ending Wednesday night.

It is a complete clean-up of the apples and pears for the 1933-34 season. The 1934 frost season officially ends tonight at 12:01, when the assignment of Frost Expert Roy Rogers to this valley terminates. Rogers has been assigned to meteorological duty at the local airport.

According to an eye witness Miss Williams made two complete somersaults in the course of her fall, alighting heavily on her feet.

She came to this city to work for Mrs. C. C. an Scoyoc, and is a friend of the Van Scoyoc family.

Following the accident, an X-ray was taken. The injury while serious is not permanent. She was returned to her home at Trail.

Last year Miss Williams came to this city and was stricken with appendicitis, which required an operation.

PLUNGE FROM SECOND STORY WINDOW GIVES ONLY SPRAINED ANKLE

Miss Esther Williams, 17, of Trail is suffering from a badly sprained right ankle, sustained Tuesday afternoon, when she accidentally fell from a second story window of the home of J. E. Russell on Orange street. She landed on her feet, on the lawn, narrowly missing the limbs of a tree in her downward flight.

Her escape from serious injury, or possible death, is considered miraculous.

Miss Williams was reading at the window of the Russell home, when she saw a passerby wearing a Diamond Jubilee hat. She leaned far out to catch a better glimpse of the holiday headgear and lost her balance.

Following the accident, an X-ray was taken. The injury while serious is not permanent. She was returned to her home at Trail.

At the Homemakers' Bureau School—Fluhrer's Spun Bread

The TEXTURE Assures Freshness

LONG after ordinary breads lose their freshness Spun Bread remains as tasty and airy as the day you buy it. The unique spinning process accounts for the diagonal air cells in Spun Bread . . . preventing free circulation of drying air through the slices. Fluhrer's Spun Bread has a superior flavor, too.
