

Ben Ali Bringing Colorful Marching Units for Joint Ceremonial

PLANS PERFECTED COLORFUL SHRINE PARADE TOMORROW

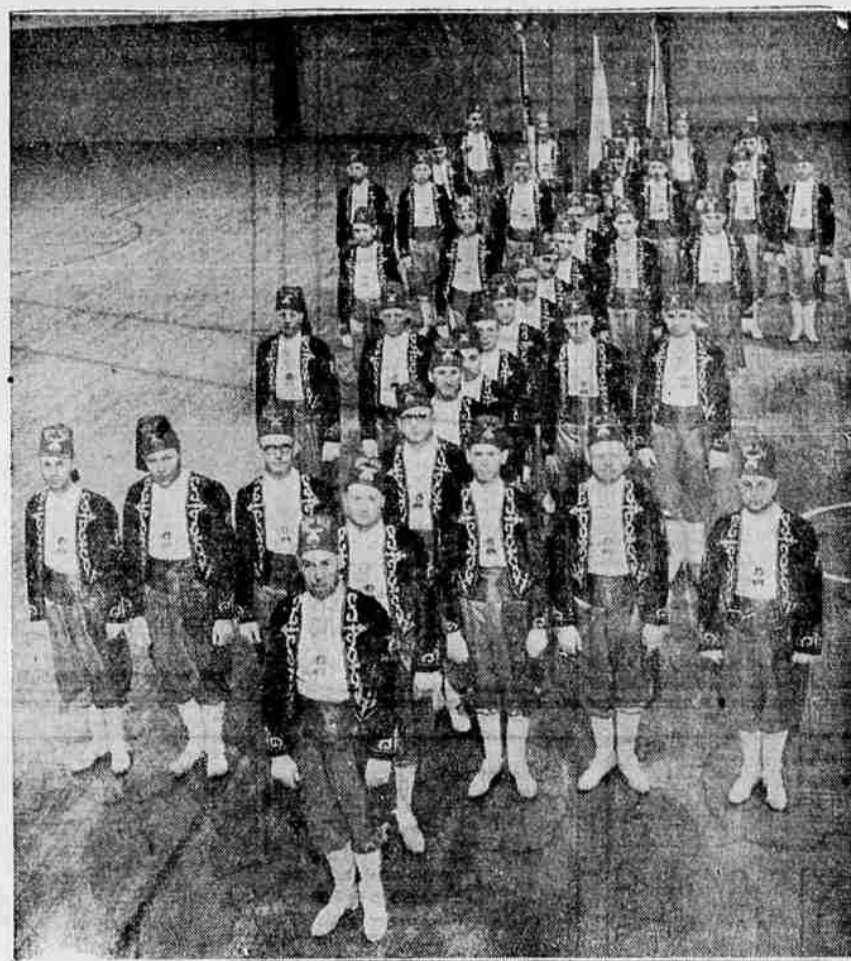

The most colorful Shrine parade in the history of southern Oregon is promised at 7:00 o'clock Saturday evening, when Ben Ali and Hillah Temples hold their joint ceremonial in Medford. Edward Dell, marshal of Ben Ali, will confer with H. S. Deuel, chairman of the parade committee and Director Dade Terrett immediately upon his arrival in Medford tomorrow morning.

According to present plans, the parade will begin at the Elks' Temple, on North Central avenue at 7:00 p. m., the line of march being south on Central to Sixth, west on Sixth to Oakdale, south on Oakdale to Main, east on Main to Riverside, north on Riverside to Sixth, west on Sixth to Bartlett and north on Bartlett to the Medford armory where the ceremonial will begin at 8:00 p. m.

The tentative line-up of the parade will call for an escort of California state motorcycle police and Oregon state police. Ben Ali's band will head the column, followed by the California temple's drum and bugle corps, patrol, chanters, wrecking crew and divan. Next in the long line will be distinguished visitors, potentates of other Pacific coast shrine temples. Shrine nobles will then fall in line, followed by the Hillah band, patrol, divan, candidates and drum corps.

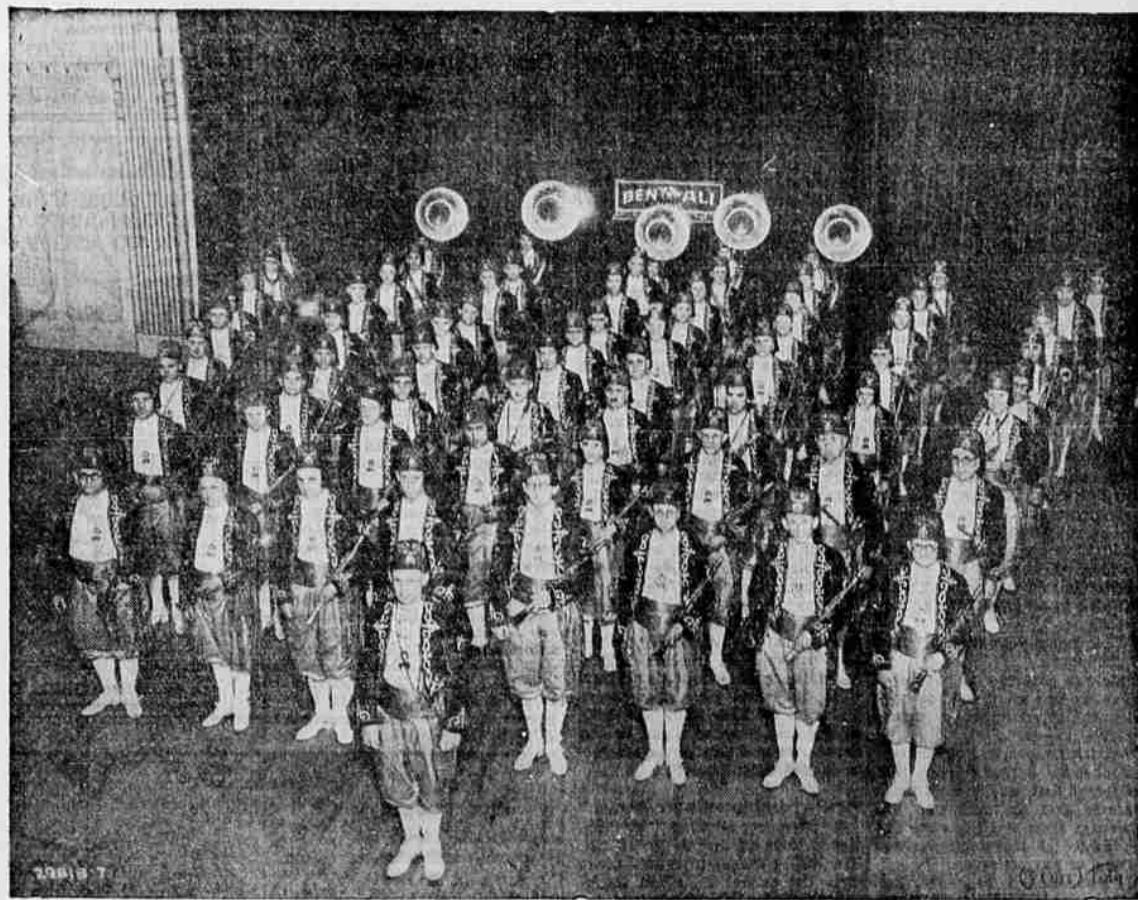

A number of innovations have been planned by those in charge of the parade and indications point to the most colorful display ever presented to southern Oregon people.

Ben Ali Patrol, Crack Marching Unit Coming

One of the most noted marching units in the west is the patrol of Ben Ali Temple of the Mystic Shrine in Sacramento. This group of 44 splendidly drilled men will form a part of the parade to be staged in Medford tomorrow at 7:00 p. m.
