CARAVANS COMING WEDNESDAY

News Behind The News

By PAUL MAILLON
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—The existing confusion in congress is not just ordinary congressional confusion. It was started for a purpose.

Most of it can be traced to a well-organized inside campaign to defeat the Wagner Federal Reserve Board bill and the home mortgage bill.

There seems to be the real explanation for the recent republican filibuster in the house, although it is being warmly denied.

Two very influential lobbies started out to kill these bills some weeks ago. Instead of issuing statements and conducting the usual lobbying campaign, these two went to work on the fly, with certain congressmen to create a situation whereby those two measures would be dropped until next session.

The campaign against the labor bill is being led by an association of manufacturers and the congressmen with whom they deal. The strategy against the home mortgage bill is being planned by certain congressmen supposed to be privately connected with building and loan associations.

The democratic leaders know what is going on, but they are not altogether unsympathetic with the campaign. At least they are not personally strong for the two bills.

While President Roosevelt was away they agreed among themselves that the future of those two measures was up to him. They will do nothing until they get orders from the White House. If they had their own way, they would wind up the session June 9 and toss both bills in the waste basket. They probably will not have their way.

The fact that Mr. Roosevelt is considering putting his ace administrator, Harry Hopkins, in charge of the mortgage set-up shows what important use the White House hopes to make of it. It probably will be ballooned even more than the NRA was.

The man who wrote the bill for the administration is Winfield Riefler, of the central statistical board. He is not a brain-truster or a college professor, but until recently was an economic adviser for the federal reserve board.

Working through several senators, Frank Walker's outfit believes it has fixed everything so the mortgage bill will get through the senate. They are having trouble again with Chairman Staggall of the house banking committee. He does not play ball closely with the administration, and no one knows what he will do next.

There is no question but what the quiet congressional resistance to the mortgage bill is sincere. No one can deny that the bill would encourage home owners to go into debt for renovating and new home construction.

One republican leader went around the floor of the house the other day advising all his friends to get "some of the mortgage gravy for yourselves if this bill goes through."

The AAA and the press have started a little private feud. When the sugar allotment figures were announced the other day, news men were gathered into a room for a conference. An arrangement was made so the news could not be sent out until the conference was over and the matter thoroughly explained.

The conference lasted about half an hour, but when the news men dashed to their wires they found the figures were out in the financial district in New York and actually had reached the top.

JUBILEE MAGNET TO DRAW VISITORS FROM DISTANCE

Education Day Activities Centered in Ashland Today — Roundup and Pageant Features Wednesday

With favorable skies forecast, with auto caravans arriving from numerous points and the first performances of Norman Cowan's famous roundup and the historical pageant, "Oyer-Un-Gon" scheduled, tomorrow promises to be a banner day in Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration, which opened last Sunday.

It was announced this afternoon. Judge Albert F. Ross, representing the governor of California, will be the main speaker.

PARTIAL PAYMENT BY BRITAIN LOST BY F. D.'S STAND

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house of commons today that Great Britain—which announced yesterday she would pay nothing on her forthcoming war debt installment—would have paid at least a "token" June 15 but for the fact that President Roosevelt could not guarantee that Great Britain would not be classed as a defaulter.

His statement was heard by an eager audience which jammed the chamber. The treasury bench was crowded with ministers and so were the seats allotted to foreign ambassadors and distinguished strangers.

The treasury head said that the British debts note, made public last night in Washington, had been intended to be published simultaneously here and in Washington.

"Owing to a misunderstanding for which the American government was in no way responsible," said Chamberlain, "the terms of our note which was delivered at 8 p. m. by our time in Washington a few hours later in the evening."

Chamberlain said that the United States government, in a note of Dec. 7, 1932, welcomed a suggestion for a close examination of the whole subject between the two countries.

Only eight golfers entered the second round of the Oregon Diamond Jubilee golf tournament yesterday at the Rogue River Valley golf course. Leland Clark, who won first prize, a Spalding iron, in Sunday's tournament, carded the lowest gross score, a 79.

Low net score, a 70, was turned in by E. C. Bolinsky. Thirty-two golfers participated in Sunday's rounds, and it is expected a large turnout will feature the closing 18 holes of the tournament tomorrow.

The other entrants in yesterday's event were: E. E. Kelly, 79; G. E. Pierce, 75; Alfred Carpenter, 77; Leonard Carpenter, 71; Bob Hammond, Jr., 84; and Cap DeVaney, 73.

A letter from The First Lady of the Land, addressed to the queen, was read by Mr. Vining, then presented to her. From the White House, Washington, dated May 26, 1934, the letter stated:

"I am very much interested to hear of the celebration of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee. I know that you have been selected as the Queen Mother for the celebration. I want to send you this little note to congratulate you on the honor which has come to you and to send you my very best wishes, and to ask you to give your fellow citizens my very cordial greetings and congratulations. I hope the Jubilee will be a tremendous success.

ANNE WHITEAKER RECEIVES CROWN AS JUBILEE QUEEN

Daughters of Oregon's First Governor Hailed by Huge Crowd at Brilliant Ceremony—Vining Officiates

In an old stage coach, drawn by four horses, with Fred Tice, southern Oregon's veteran stage coach driver at the reins, Anne Whiteaker, queen mother of the Diamond Jubilee celebration, rode to the picturesque setting of her throne, last night at the Jackson county fair grounds, and while trumpets blared, was escorted to the platform by Professor Irving E. Vining of Ashland, speaker for the evening, and E. C. Jerome, general chairman for the Diamond Jubilee. Little Nancy Swann attended the queen, and the children's chorus sang "Hall Mother Queen."

Her regal gown, bouffante style, in white satin and lace, with a train, accentuated the beauty of the queen mother. She wore an evening wrap of purple velvet, lined with white satin.

In his coronation speech, Professor Vining said: "Anne Whiteaker, daughter of the first governor of our beloved state, on this, the 75th anniversary of the admission of our state to the union, with authority vested in me by the jubilee committee, it is my duty and privilege to crown thee Queen Mother of Oregon."

Crowd Hails Queen. The sparkling crown was placed on Queen Anne's head by Professor Vining, and with the words "All Hail the Queen," the cheering crowd of nearly two thousand rose to its feet.

The queen then stepped before the microphone and told her subjects: "I believe this evening marks one of the happiest events of my life. Your choosing me to be honored, as the queen mother of this diamond jubilee anniversary of Oregon into statehood is most pleasing and gratifying to me."

"Proud indeed am I to feel that 75 years ago my father, together with his official co-workers, laid the foundation upon which our beautiful state of Oregon now rears its head among the sister states of the union, second to none in its aggressiveness along all lines tending to the betterment of Oregon citizenship."

"The few counties which 75 years ago comprised the new state were as the cornerstones of that foundation. And Jackson with its beautiful scenery of mountains and lakes, rivers and valleys, was one of great importance in that event, inasmuch as a number of early pioneers made this their home for their years on earth."

"And to them, if any are alive, and to their descendants and to the good people of Medford I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the honor you have done me this evening."

The staging of this coronation in the open arena, under the stars of heaven, accentuated by the beautiful electric lighting, what mind could conceive of anything more fitting. Again I say I appreciate it all and hope to enjoy my reign among you."

First Lady. Congratulations. A letter from The First Lady of the Land, addressed to the queen, was read by Mr. Vining, then presented to her. From the White House, Washington, dated May 26, 1934, the letter stated:

"I am very much interested to hear of the celebration of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee. I know that you have been selected as the Queen Mother for the celebration. I want to send you this little note to congratulate you on the honor which has come to you and to send you my very best wishes, and to ask you to give your fellow citizens my very cordial greetings and congratulations. I hope the Jubilee will be a tremendous success.

SONS GRADUATION FEATURES JUBILEE DAY AT ASHLAND

Forty-Six Receive Diplomas in Impressive Ceremony—State's Education Head Gives Principal Address

Threatening storm clouds parted over the city of Ashland this morning for the observance of Education Day. A feature of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee, which included in its list of events the commencement exercises of the 1934 class of the Southern Oregon Normal school, a tennis exhibition, a trap shoot, a pioneer horseshoe pitching contest, a children's field meet, swimming exhibitions, and free golf throughout the day at the Ashland golf course.

Unsettled weather this morning necessitated a change of setting for the Normal graduation exercises, from Litchia park to the school's auditorium, the program starting at 10 o'clock. Forty-six graduates received diplomas in an impressive ceremony, and the auditorium was filled to capacity. The main address was given by Dr. A. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, and awarding of diplomas was by Dr. Walter Redford, president of the Southern Oregon Normal school.

Medford students who were graduated are Eileen Amidon, Gene Amidon, Bertha Jane Arnsperger, Mary Helen Arnsperger, Kenneth Barneburg, Leona Daugherty, DeLoris Durkee, Minnie P. Guy, Ruth Hancock, and Jennie Alice Heninger.

Immediately following the exercises an annual luncheon was held at the Litchia Hotel, with picnic lunch accommodations at Litchia park available to those visitors in the city who wished them. This evening at 7 o'clock the education banquet will be held at the hotel, with those present including Superintendent Howard, Dr. C. V. Boyer, president of the University of Oregon, C. A. Brand, member of the state board of higher education, and Bert Brown Barker, vice president of the university, who will deliver the main address. Professor I. E. Vining will introduce the speakers.

Open house at the Normal school will be conducted from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m., and will include an exhibit of pictures of former Normal teachers and students, and of the old school building. The display was arranged by Mrs. O. Winter, Mrs. F. G. Wagner and Mrs. Emil Piel, who graduated from the old Southern Oregon Normal. During the open house the Jackson County Glee club, under the direction of Harriet Baldwin, will present a group of numbers.

Tennis in Afternoon. A tennis exhibition, beginning at 2 o'clock at the Litchia park courts, is being sponsored by the city of Ashland under the direction of H. G. Wilson of Medford. The participants are Wayne Bablin, amateur Canadian champion, Jimmy Johnson of Portland, Wesley J. Hartman, of Portland, and Elwood T. Cook, of Portland, who was winner of the men's singles event of the Oregon Diamond Jubilee tennis tournament held in Medford Sunday and Monday. The exhibition includes both singles and doubles matches.

A trapshoot held at the Ashland Gun club was underway at 10 a. m., and will be completed this afternoon. The shoot includes a 100 yd. trap targets event, 50 handicap targets event, and 24 double event. Cash prizes will be offered as prizes. H. L. Claycomb is the committee in charge of the event, which is sponsored thru Dr. W. E. Blake, president of the Ashland Gun club, and Fred R. Neil, its secretary.

The pioneer horseshoe pitching contest, which started at 2:30 this afternoon, is an event which attracts wide interest, especially among the pioneer residents of the valley. It is open to the public. Children in Field Meet. Another sport feature of the celebration, the children's field meet, started in the Litchia park this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Howard Hobson, athletic coach of the Southern Oregon Normal, is in charge, with Carl Ayers, and Paul Goddard, students, assisting. Ribbons will be awarded the winners of the foot racing, baseball throwing, and broad jumping contests.

Also at 3 p. m. swimming exhibitions at Twin Plunges, Helman's and the Jackson Hot Springs, are being staged, with races, diving competition and exhibitions drawing wide interest.

The city of Ashland is fittingly decorated for the occasion, and several store windows display interesting pioneer exhibits. Lee Ryan is the general chairman of the Education day celebration.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harper of Columbus avenue, a son, weighing 7 pounds, 11 1/2 ounces, Monday, at the Sacred Heart hospital.

ORCHARD WORKER MISTAKES POISON FOR WATER DRINK

Ben Eckholm, 48, an orchardist, drank a spray solution composed of cyanide and bi-chloride of mercury, in mistake for water, while at work in his orchard this morning, and lies at the Sacred Heart hospital recovering.

Eckholm was pruning, and using the solution to disinfect his pruning shears. He also had a water bottle. While talking to a neighbor, he reached for the water bottle. One draught warned him of his mistake. The poison, like water, is colorless.

Eckholm was rushed to this city and first aid was administered by Dr. J. C. Hayes. He was filled with milk and eggs, and a vein injection was made. Later the stomach pump was used.

Dr. Hayes said this afternoon Eckholm was improved, and his condition not serious.

Eckholm has been a resident of this county for ten years, and is employed at times by the Big Timber company, as a lumber piler.

ROLPH TO FINAL RESTING PLACE IN SIMPLE RITES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—(AP)—Sunshine burst through somber rainclouds as the body of Gov. James Rolph Jr., was borne from his Mission district home to its final resting place in Greenlawn cemetery today.

In contrast to the public services accorded to the governor yesterday, his family and a few close friends gathered at his old home to pay him final honors.

Before a gardenia covered caquet, Rev. Wilton Ford, pastor of the Episcopalian church of the Holy Innocents, officiated at the final, simple services.

An old family organ was taken into the parlor and mourners gathered nearby heard the strains of "Nearer My God to Thee," played by Uda Waldrop.

Outside the residence gathered some 4,000 friends who had known the governor during his lifetime.

Mildred Oathes Is Designer Official Chapeau of Jubilee

Clever Jubilee hats, in blue and gold, are lending considerable color to crowds of visitors in Medford this week. The official hats were designed by Miss Mildred Oathes, proprietor of the Adel Lee Millinery shop in the M. M. Department store, who has been receiving many compliments upon their attractiveness.

Boy Hikes From Illinois To See Diamond Jubilee

"She'll let me in, I'm her nephew," was the startling remark of a 17-year old boy who was found on the doorstep of the residence of Mrs. Wm. A. Gates, 31 Crater Lake avenue last Wednesday afternoon, when he rang the doorbell and asked to be admitted.

Tony Turk had hitch-hiked from his home in Washburn, Ill., to see Oregon's Diamond Jubilee, and as the weather in Illinois was hot, he arrived blissfully in his shirt sleeves. He made the trip in less than a week, leaving home on a Thursday evening, and arriving here last Wednesday morning. His expense account for the 2000-mile trip was $4.10.

To the query that wasn't it a long journey, Tony replied, "No, I hitch-hiked down to Old Mexico last year."

TWO NABBED FOR ALLEGED PASSING OF BOGUS BILLS

Tom Dunn, alias "Shanko Red," and Sam Hartman, transients posing as rodeo riders, were arrested by the state police yesterday afternoon, and are held in the county jail, charged with possession and passage of counterfeit money—both silver and currency. The pair are held for the arrival of federal authorities from Portland.

Three persons—names not revealed—by the state police, are held as material witnesses.

According to the authorities, Dunn and Hartman operated extensively on Saturday night and Sunday, in beer parlors and roadhouses, adjacent to this city where they succeeded in passing a number of the bogus $10 bills.

Both men, the authorities state, were plentifully supplied with counterfeit coins, and passed them wherever possible.

Captain Lee M. Bown of the state police stated that Dunn and Hartman had no connection with any reputable rodeo company.

They came to this city from Portland last Saturday.

The state police say that reports continue to come in today of the counterfeit coins, being accepted by merchants and others. All have been urged to be on guard. Several did not know they had bogus money, until they took it to the banks for deposit.

Captain Bown also warned the public to be watchful of "slickers" attracted here by the Jubilee crowd. Five reputed swindlers of the "circus variety" were ordered out of town today, by the state police.

This afternoon, a young man reported to the state police that a stranger approached him and asked if he had any currency. When a $5 bill was produced, the stranger said: "That's counterfeit. I'm an inspector. I'll have to keep it." The stranger then disappeared.

Convention to Consider Resolutions at Afternoon Session—Committee Reports Slated Late Today

Resolutions dealing with future veteran legislation, and the national economy, insofar as it affects veterans aid, were scheduled to be introduced this afternoon, at the session of the fourteenth annual state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Another proposed resolution would have the organization lighten or take over the observance of Memorial day, now conducted by the fast thinning ranks of the G. A. R.

Ward Cummings of Roseburg, is chairman of the resolutions committee, and will file the committee's report at the opening of the afternoon session.

Reports of the legislative committee, H. G. Day, Portland, chairman, and the ways and means committee, B. J. Walsh, Eugene, chairman will also be made.

The convention ends tomorrow with the election of state officers for the year, and the selection of a convention city for 1935. Newport, Oregon seeks the convention.

James E. Van Zandt of Altoona, Pa., national commander-in-chief in attendance since the opening of the encampment, bid the gathering goodbye this morning, and announced that he would fly to Seattle, Wash., this afternoon.

Joe E. Dunne of Portland, Republican gubernatorial nominee, addressed the encampment again this morning, in a general talk.

Most of the morning session was devoted to a discussion of legislation—passed and proposed—and the transaction of routine business.

Last night the veterans held a (Continued on Page Two)

CHIEF SCONCHIN AT INDIAN CAMP

His copper skin hardened by the suns of many summers—so many he can hardly remember—Indian Chief Sconchin of the fast disappearing Modoc in Medford this week to help Oregon celebrate its diamond jubilee. He was a young warrior, happy on unmoiled hunting grounds in the wide expanses of the Klamath country, when Oregon donned the robes of statehood in 1859.

The chief is one of 50 Indians who make up the Indian village, representing the aborigines in their native dress, war dances and home-life. This feature of Jubilee week brings more Indians to the Rogue River valley than there has been since Indian wars were fought here over 80 years ago.

MINOR EARTHQUAKE SHAKES SANTA CRUZ

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., June 5.—(AP)—A slight earthquake was felt here at 1:54 a. m. today. No damage was reported.

WILL ROGERS SAYS: SANTA MONICA, Cal., June 4.—That Mussolini, who is the "sire" of the present dictator epidemic, knows just what to do to drive those other nations "nutty." He knows his sociology (that's not spelled right but it sounds right). He asked his soldiers Saturday "are you ready to fight?" He he did it so loud that the adjoining nations could hear. Now that is how he has kept out of a war all this time. (When everybody predicted he would have one every week). But here is something he did tell his people that will bear repeating all over the world: "We must accept hard times; we must get used to hard times."
