THOMPSON KNEW GOVERNOR ROLPH

Among the local former residents of San Francisco who mourn the passing of Governor James Rolph of California, is J. C. Thompson, California-Oregon Power company official.

Rolph and Thompson both lived in the Mission district of San Francisco, within a few blocks of each other, in the days immediately following the fire of 1906.

When Governor Rolph visited Crescent City, Calif., two or three years ago Thompson made a trip to the coast to see him.

Hohman-Van Dyke Wedding Sunday

In a quiet ceremony at the Methodist parsonage in Ashland on Sunday morning, Miss Naomi Hohman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hohman of Portland and Frank J. Van Dyke, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Van Dyke of Medford, were united in marriage by the Rev. Sidney W. Hall, pastor of the First Methodist church of Ashland.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left on a trip south, to Lake Tahoe and other places of interest before returning to Ashland by the coast route.

Mr. Van Dyke, who with Miss E. Maria Foss has been the inspiration for many social events during the past few weeks, is a graduate of the University of Oregon, where she was prominent in campus activities.

She is a member of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. Mr. Van Dyke was graduated from the Willamette university law school and is a member of the Alpha Phi Delta social fraternity and of the Delta Theta Phi fraternity.

Mr. Van Dyke is now city attorney of Ashland and is associated with the law firm of Briggs and Briggs.

Mrs. Mack Has Guests Here From Corvallis

Mrs. Mabel C. Mack had several guests at her home Sunday from Corvallis, who were in Medford to hear the address given by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, at the opening of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

In the party were Miss Claribel Nye, home economist from Oregon state college; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Clifford, also of Corvallis; Frances Clinton, home demonstration agent for Multnomah county, and Thelma Clayton, home demonstration agent of Clackamas county.

Mr. Clifford is extension secretary at Oregon state college.

Wedding Dress Revue Attracts Many Visitors

The display of old-time dresses and furniture arranged by the P-T-A council at the Baldwin Piano Shop attracted a large crowd of women Monday afternoon.

This afternoon a display of quilts, old and new, was given and Miss Katherine Stewart read a most interesting paper on quilts, their patterns and origin.

The display of furniture will be continued all week. A small admission charge is made and the proceeds of the exhibit will be applied to a playground fund.

No charge for Musical Program

There will be no charge this evening for the musical program being presented at eight o'clock at the Baldwin recital hall by students of Mrs. Rosa Blackmore Willett.

The evening of music is being given by some of the more talented students of Mrs. Willett, for the pleasure of visitors in Medford for the Oregon Diamond Jubilee.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Miss Reynolds Returns Here

Miss Mildred Reynolds has returned to her home in Medford from spending the past several months in Eugene. Mrs. G. W. Reynolds and son Cecil, motored to the northern city to bring Miss Reynolds here. They were accompanied by Miss Claudina Tolle.

No Meet This Week Of Garden Club.

There will be no meeting of the Medford Garden club this week because of the flower show, but the regular meeting will be held a week from Thursday night, when reports of the delegates to the state meeting in McMinnville will be given.

Thursday the flower show will be closed from 10:30 a. m. till 1 p. m. because of the pioneer parade.

The general committee, Mrs. Louis Salade, Jr., Mrs. Ralph Woodford, Mrs. David Rosenberg, Mrs. H. Muirhead, Mrs. Paul Janney, Mrs. Porter J. Neff and Mrs. Earl Tummy have been busy for several days, putting up tables and getting the high school gymnasium in order for the flower show which opens Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

No one will be admitted to the show until after the Queen Mother of the Jubilee, Anne Whiteaker, escorted by Mayor Wilson has entered. She will view the exhibits and be greeted by the president, Mrs. Woodford, and the past presidents of the Garden club, and then in a short address declare the eighth annual flower show open.

The high school play, led by Wilson Wait, will play during the opening of the show. Hostesses for Wednesday afternoon are Mrs. B. Harder, Mrs. T. W. Miles and Mrs. E. M. Wilson.

The entry clerks will be ready to receive all entries Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, and exhibitors are asked to bring their flowers and other exhibits as early as possible.

In charge of entries are Mesdames Leland Mentzer, Charles Wing, R. Fowler, J. P. Fliegel, Curtis Darby, H. P. W. Spilver, John Butler, Winfield Bailey and H. Bengtson.

The doors will be locked from 11 o'clock until 2 while the judges are at work.

Thursday evening Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest, will give an illustrated lecture.

Queen Mother to Be Honor Guest at Tea

Queen Mother Anne Whiteaker of Eugene, crowned last evening to reign over Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration, is the honor guest for the tea being given this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Glen Fabrick, 106 Crater Lake avenue.

Mrs. Fabrick has invited to her home all pioneer women, to meet Queen Anne, who is her house guest while in the city.

Assisting Mrs. Fabrick as hostess are Mrs. E. C. Jerome, Mrs. A. H. Banwell, Mrs. T. E. Daniels, Mrs. A. C. Hubbard, Mrs. W. S. Bolger and Mrs. O. O. Alenderfer.

Mrs. Sweeney Leaving Tonight for Cleveland

Mrs. Charles T. Sweeney, president of the Women's Auxiliary of the State Medical society, is leaving this evening for Cleveland, Ohio, to attend the national auxiliary meeting being held in connection with the American Medical association meet, in the same city.

While on the trip, Mrs. Sweeney will visit the Century of Progress fair in Chicago. She expects to return here about June 20.

Mrs. Fabrick Has Guests During Jubilee

Mrs. Glen Fabrick, who has as her house guest Queen Mother Anne Whiteaker of the Oregon Diamond Jubilee, also has several other guests in her home this week.

They include Mr. and Mrs. Harry Buxton of Corvallis, Mrs. Elizabeth Rand of Los Angeles, Miss Dorothy Sly of Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. W. C. Underwood of Eugene.

ANNE WHITEAKER RECEIVES CROWN AS JUBILEE QUEEN

derful presentation was put on for the Queen of the Jubilee, with a minuet dance, followed by a Virginia reel. The chorus sang "The Land of Hope and Glory," after which a scarf dance was well executed by a group of girls.

Vining Eloquent

"The Spirit of the Pioneer" was Mr. Vining's subject for his address. He requested his audience to "ring out the new, ring in the old, and once more be in the land 'where rolls the Oregon,' the land of mystery and enchantment—the land of vision and hope."

He referred to Oregon as the "sun-derland of the west, where the sun seeks its rest in a lair of gold, with mountain ledges of ore increasing its splendor until crowned with the stars mingled with 'Ho! Hosanna!'"

Mr. Vining related the story of pathfinders and trappers from the western forests returning to the Atlantic seaboard to tell of the great land beyond the Rockies. The picture he portrayed showed merchants, closing their shops, lovers plighting their troth to start a honeymoon westward, and zealous missionaries looking longingly to work beyond the Rockies.

"And while congress bickered over the value of the land, without government aid and without government direction the west grew—a pathway westward across the Old Oregon Trail—built by the hand of destiny, marked by the bleaching bones of man and beast. What a drama of heartaches if the trail could speak!"

"If the west could resurrect men of the early days, No artist could paint, nor any author depict their lives."

Homage to Pioneers

"We must pay our respects," he went on to say, "homage and tribute to those who, with weary footsteps, plodded westward—ever westward, along the Oregon trail, carrying the greatest civilization the world has ever known, where the stars and stripes were to reach their greatest triumph."

"We must pay our respects," he went on to say, "homage and tribute to those who, with weary footsteps, plodded westward—ever westward, along the Oregon trail, carrying the greatest civilization the world has ever known, where the stars and stripes were to reach their greatest triumph."

Professor Vining told how those who came west carried the instincts of home builders.

"Oregon was won, not by sword, not by bugle call, not by the Argonaut coming for treasure, nor the comerner for furs, but was won by the home builder, father and mother."

Pioneers, when asked why they came to Oregon, said "to improve their own conditions" and "to improve their health." It was in this way, Professor Vining said, that Oregon became known as the land of opportunity, health and heart's desire.

Reciting Juvaquin Miller's poem, "Mothers of Men," the eloquent speaker told Queen Anne "We open Oregon's book of cherished memories, and place it before your throne. I can see the Mother Madonna of Creation, writing in letters of living gold, 'Mother, I dedicate your reign to the motherhood—pioneer motherhood of our beloved Oregon.'"

Fairy Queen Enthroned

All for the pleasure of the queen, many additional dances were given with little bunnies carrying a large mushroom onto the large canvas floor, with the tiny fairy queen being enthroned upon it. Several little white bunnies, each carrying carrots then joined the group. One little miss had trouble keeping her tall rabbit ears in place, and with each hop, down they fell.

dress, and flowers of every description put on a colorful dance, and with soft violin music, the rustling of the petals could be heard.

A sword dance was given by some Scotch lassies, and three acrobatic spiders but on some difficult numbers. A modern dance, with the girls dressed as cats was given. Other numbers on the program included an Irish jig, and an old fashioned square dance.

Beautiful costumes were worn by the participants in all of the dance numbers.

With the closing of the presentation, Mr. Jerome thanked Mrs. Benson, the dancers, Miss Baldwin and Mrs. Steven A. Nye for their direction of the chorus, the children of the chorus, mothers and fathers of the participants, women who made the many costumes, and Professor Vining.

In contrast to her entry in the stage coach, Queen Anne was escorted to a late model automobile, where she was presented a huge bouquet, a gift from the Medford Flower shop, before departing. The procession, led by a state police escort, included a number of new automobiles, in which the ladies in waiting rode.
