Now at Studio

When a butler poses as a wealthy, titled Englishman and runs amuck in Atlantic City, the result is bound to be funny. Charlie Ruggles, starring in "Good-bye Love," which heads the double bill at the Studio theater, provides the hilarity in just such a role. "The Keyhole," starring Kay Francis, is the second feature.

At Craterian

Charles Farrell, one-half of the famous team of Gaynor and Farrell, the pleasing patrons at the Craterian theater where "Change of Heart," which reunites the popular players after a screen separation of over two years, is now playing. It tells the story of modern youth seeking love and happiness in the teeming life of Manhattan. Ginger Rogers and James Dunn head the supporting cast.

At Roxy Today

In "State Trooper," which opened today on the Roxy theater double feature program, motion pictures reached out past the traditional settings and plots, and succeeded in presenting a smashing story against a new, unique, and tremendously colorful background—that of an oil refinery at the height of operation. Regis Toomey is the trooper. Being married to an extravagant wife on a small salary, and listening to a friend's advice which induces him to pose as the heir of a millionaire, is the experience of Lew Ayres in "Let's Be Ritzy," the second film.

Smoking and Drinking? Watch Your Stomach For quick relief from indigestion and upset stomach, due to excessive smoking and drinking try Dr. Emil's Adia Tablets. Sold on money back guarantee. Heath's Drug Store.

"Private Scandal" at Rialto

With "Private Scandal," featuring Zasu Pitts, Phillipa Holmes, Mary Brian, Ned Sparks and Lew Cody as the feature picture and Corp. Bob Ingleson in person with his films of the World War, "America Under Fire," as a special added attraction, the Rialto theater's program starting today promises much in the way of entertainment. Corp. Ingleson, official photographer for the war department during the fracas, secured some exceptional battle scenes, along with numerous humorous incidents in the life of the doughboy. Supplying the dialogue with Lew Ayres starring and Patricia Ellis, Frank McHugh, in supporting comedy roles.

Georgia Minstrels Coming Thursday

As a special attraction for Jubilee week, the Craterian theater has secured the services of the famous Georgia Minstrels who, combined with the Harlem Night Club Creole Girls, open a three-day engagement at the theater Thursday. Among the many featured performers are Lassie Brown and Tommy Harris, whose continual joking and comical actions furnished many laughs when the minstrels played here last year. These two jads are starting out their 12th consecutive season with the Georgia Minstrels, and are but two of the many reasons why this great stage presentation plays to capacity houses daily. There are over 40 people in the act with the famous dance team of Broomfield and Greeley featured. A complete screen program, headed by Joan Blondell's latest "Smarty," a story of a giddy blonde, will also be shown. Mr. Gustin Improved—H. K. Gustin, local school teacher, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Community hospital Friday, was today said to be getting along satisfactorily, and will probably be able to return to his home within a few days.
