Attractive Garden Show Opens at High School

The Medford Garden club flower show, which opened yesterday afternoon, is declared by all to be the most artistic and attractive one ever given by the club. It will remain open until a late hour Friday night with an illustrated lecture by K. P. Reynolds tonight at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Maude Lamm and Mrs. George E. Phyllis are hostesses tonight.

Tomorrow afternoon the hostesses will be Mesdames L. E. Williams, Milton Ottomano and C. H. Paake. Friday evening Mrs. Louis Brown and Mrs. Wilken Walt will be hostesses.

No containers or flowers may be taken from the exhibit room before 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Every one is asked, however, to call for his things between 9 and 12 o'clock Saturday morning.

A very attractive Japanese arrangement entered by Mrs. M. Maruyama adds an Oriental touch to the southwest corner of the room. The exhibit includes Japanese dolls and vases grouped about an Oriental plant.

The coral and penguin arrangement by Mrs. Black is another outstanding feature of the show. F. H. Reum's display of gladiolus brightens the west end of the room and only hints at what may be expected from the Reum gardens later in the season.

Chas. Voorhies took first place for the most artistic background arrangement. A beautiful array of flowers arranged in the same colors as those in the large vase make a delightful background for the tea tables in the northwest corner of the display room.

Other garden clubs and the Eagle Point Civic club responded to the invitations sent them.

The east end of the building was turned into a small lily pool with ferns, a rock garden and shrubbery climbing up the hillside.

The exhibits by the various business firms gave an added touch to the flower show this year.

Gold Hill and Ashland garden clubs each have a lovely table of cut flowers. Eagle Point Civic club arranged a basket of flowers.

of any metropolitan center at prices much higher than asked in Medford. The pageant was filled with dramatic moments, and was so smoothly presented spectators were reluctant to see it end so quickly, despite its two-hour length. # Roseburg Junior Band Coming Friday

The Roseburg Junior band, composed of 77 boys and girls, ranging in age from 10 to 17 years, will be an active competitor for the $100 high school band prize at the Medford Diamond Jubilee June 8. Accompanied by the Umpqua Chiefs and a large delegation from Roseburg and vicinity, the band will leave Roseburg at 6 a. m. Friday in a caravan to be led by state police officials.

The youthful musicians will participate in the parades and other festivities of the day at Medford, and will return to Roseburg at night.

The Roseburg Junior band was organized, under authority of the board of school directors, in April, 1932, the course in band music being made a part of the curriculum of the Roseburg schools.

Organized by 66 youngsters, the band was soon increased to a membership of 77 of which number 63 are boys and 14 are girls. The youngest member is 10 years of age and the oldest 17.

The first out-of-town engagement was in the fall of 1933 when the band was engaged to play at the Oregon state fair at Salem, receiving great acclaim from the fair crowd. Since that time the organization has represented Roseburg in several state affairs, and in addition to the Medford trip, this year is planning a visit to the Rose Festival in Portland.

One reason the Roseburg band will contend so eagerly for the prize at Medford is that the winning of that prize will assure ample finances for the proposed Portland trip.

The band is directed by J. D. (Snap) Gilmore, recognized as one of the leading band directors and instructors in the state of Oregon. Prior to coming to Roseburg in 1933 he was director of the municipal band at Bend, Oregon, and of the American Legion drum corps at Bend.

In Roseburg he is director of the municipal band, instructor for the Umpqua post, American Legion drum corps, and has three classes of boys and girls in band music.

In addition to the band of 77 pieces that will be seen at Medford, Mr.
