Dog Star of Roxy First Run Picture

The remarkable intelligence of a dog, and a gripping story of melodramatic action, with suspense and nerve-thrilling episodes, make "Jaws of Justice," first-run picture coming to the Roxy tomorrow, real entertainment. The dog is Kazan.

The plot of this exciting piece revolves around the attempt of outsiders to learn the secret of a hidden lode of gold ore in a northwestern mining community.

When the leader of the settlement fails to return from a trip to Canada to settle the rights to the hidden lode, a series of mysterious and sinister events follow that are finally solved through the sixth sense of Kazan.

A thrilling climax to the sequence of rapidly moving episodes is where Kazan saves the hidden mine from being blown up by tracing the stranger to the scene, pulling the burning fuse away with his teeth and gnawing through the rope from which the man is suspended, sending him crashing to the bottom of the ravine.

Two of the biggest climaxes of the picture show a herd of maddened elephants charging a safari of natives and white men and later an attack of dozens of lions upon a camp. Wild animal men and a crew of 1,000 production men were recruited from all parts of the country to assist the studio in obtaining the scenes.

The new story continues the adventures of Tarzan, played by Weissmuller, when a safari of white men attempt to raid the elephants' burial ground of millions of dollars worth of ivory. Tarzan attempts to protect the sacred jungle hoard get him into breath-taking hazards that far surpass the thrills of "Tarzan, the Ape Man."

Of special interest in the picture are scenes taken under water by a special process that has recorded the strangest sight ever seen by human eye—a battle between a man and a giant crocodile.

The notable supporting cast includes many players remembered for their roles in "Tarzan, the Ape Man," including Neil Hamilton, Forrester Harvey, Doris Lloyd, of the original cast.
