

DANGER SPOT ON HIGHWAY CLAIMS ADDITIONAL TOLL

gained themselves into a civilian police force to keep other automobiles from driving down into the turn and running over the injured sprawled about on the pavement. No one dared move the men for fear of doing them further injury.

Richard Hill, Ashland night officer, and the city ambulance removed the septet to the Ashland hospital and state police, called from Medford, cleared the wreckage.

An unusually large number of people saw the injured men, as the accident happened as the first car driving south from the Diamond Jubilee pageant here reached the underpass.

Taken to Grants Pass, after treatment in Ashland, the injured were transported by ambulance during the night to Grants Pass. Everton, Abel and Farthing are reported in the Josephine General hospital there. X-rays are to be taken to learn if there may be serious internal injuries.

Officer Hall said the accident was the worst he had ever witnessed at the underpass. No cause was assigned by him. Hall said the driver apparently did not see the warning road signs and was unaware of the fact that a solid concrete wall was just ahead. The car was demolished. Hall declared it was a miracle no one was killed outright.

In the early accident Mrs. Myrtle Burch of Ashland was driving north and collided with a car going south and in charge of Byron de Ford of Talent. Mrs. Burch and two passengers with her were badly shaken and injured. The passengers were Miss Pearl Gibson and Dow Swartzinger.

Opening of the underpass bids Thursday marked the close of a long drawn out controversy between the highway commission and Southern Pacific railroad to eliminate this danger spot, regarded by many as the most dangerous point on the Pacific highway, between the Columbia river and the California line.

The highway approaching the new underpass has been built from both ends, and as soon as the new tunneling is completed, it is believed this major highway hazard will be eliminated.

DAMAGES ASKED IN AUTO SMASH

An amended complaint in the suit of Catherine Morgan against Homer Ryan, 1, and his parents, Luke Ryan and Ethel Ryan, was filed in circuit court this morning. Damages in the sum of $8,100 are sought as the result of an auto accident on the Sams Valley-Beagle road on the night of March 31 last. The plaintiff alleges that as a result of the crash she sustained permanent injuries.

Young Ryan is named as the driver of the auto and his parents are charged with contributory negligence. The plaintiff alleges that young Ryan drove in a reckless manner with improper brakes and lights and that because of defective eyesight he was not competent to drive.

FICKS DISTRIBUTORS FOR NEW CROSLEYS

Fred J. Fick announced today that Fick's Hardware has been appointed Jackson county distributor for the new Crosley Shelvador and Tri-Shelvador electric refrigerators.

Mr. Fick says: "Crosley refrigerators have so many outstanding features that they literally offer more for the money than can be found anywhere else in the world."

"In the Shelvador models will be found streamline beauty, the exclusive Shelvador feature which has established an entirely new meaning of refrigeration efficiency, the exclusive ventilated front, and an array of other incomparable features."

"In the Tri-Shelvador models will be found all of this and more. They incorporate the greatest combination of refrigerator conveniences ever conceived—those of prime importance being the exclusive Shelvador, Shelvabasket and StoraBin."

"The new Crosley electric refrigerators are available in a variety of models sufficient to meet every need. No matter whether the refrigerator requirements are small and a refrigerator of small capacity is needed, or whether the family is large and does a lot of entertaining—there is a Crosley that is exactly ideal."

MEDFORD VETERANS RECEIVE CITATIONS

The state encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, which concluded its 14th annual meet here Wednesday, before adjournment voted citations to L. D. Canfield, Thomas K. Flynn and W. G. Drummond of Medford post.

Canfield and Drummond were honored for their activities in behalf of the post, and Flynn for his efforts in securing employment for veterans and rehabilitation work.

Foss-Hartman Wedding

Wednesday at "Topsides."

At high noon on Wednesday June 6, Miss E. Marie Foss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew O. Foss of Marshfield, and Henry Hartman of Corvallis, were married at the beautiful country home, "Topsides," of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter on the Old Stage road. The service was read by County Judge Earl B. Day, before 15 guests.

The bride was attired in a suit of powder blue boucle, with a hat of corresponding shade. Her bouquet was yellow roses accented by tiny white blossoms.

Following the wedding, buffet breakfast was served, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to the south.

Mrs. Hartman, who has been principal of the Valley School here, is a graduate of the University of Oregon. She has been much entertained by local society during the past few weeks.

Mr. Hartman is a visitor in the valley each season in connection with the pear industry, as he is horticulturist in the department of pomology at Oregon State college.

Garden Club Program

Enjoyed at High School.

Last night at the Medford Garden club flower show, K. P. McReynolds, assistant to Karl Janouch of the forest service, gave an interesting illustrated lecture showing pictures of native trees and explaining how to identify the different varieties. He also showed pictures of the Cascade Skyline Trail, from Mt. Hood to Diamond Lake. At the close, while Mr. McReynolds threw onto the screen lovely pictures of Oregon trees, Robert Mansfield, accompanied by Miss Houston, sang "Trees."

The flowers in the display are still beautiful and the show will remain open until a late hour tonight, when Mesdames Louis Brown and Wilson Wait will be hostesses.

On account of the weather condition Wednesday, the Illinois Valley Garden club display did not arrive until after the judging had been completed, but the flowers they brought were beautiful and well arranged.

The wild flowers collected and arranged by Mrs. Ethel Willets is very interesting and unusual for this time of the year, and is attracting a great deal of attention.

Every one who entered vases, baskets or furniture is asked to call at the high school tomorrow morning between 9 and 12 for them.

The exhibit by troops 5 of the Girl Scouts is another lovely entry.

Minstrels Draw Capacity Crowds

Capacity crowds at the Craterian theatre yesterday afternoon and evening greeted the Georgia Minstrel, who, combined with the Harlem Night Club Creole Girls, opened a three-day engagement on the stage.

Tradition has stamped its approval on the minstrel show as America's favorite form of blackface entertainment and yesterday's audiences were no different. Hearty applause greeted each different act with uproarious laughter following the quick-witted sallies of the comedians. The entire show has been completely revamped from the routine used the last time they played here, with new songs, new jokes, new dances all combining to keep the customers well satisfied, and asking for more.

A male ensemble chorus, a brass band, end men, gag men, singers, everything that goes with a big time show has been included in the Georgia Minstrels.

On the screen, Joan Blondell, who excels in fast talking, smart cracking repartee and rough and tumble, has one of the fastest roles of her career in "Smarty." The story revolves about the love affairs of a beautiful but tantalizing bride, who has a secret yet to be treated rough and immediately fires of men she can wrap around her finger. It is not until her first husband has lost her that he realizes that what his wife needs is a thorough thrashing, and in a hilarious climax he wins back her love by giving her a caveman beating that thoroughly satisfies her cave woman's instincts.

The stage and screen show plays until Saturday night.

ROOSEVELT PLANS SOCIAL INSURANCE FOR U. S. CITIZENS

"stimulate the lending of money" to modernize homes and build new ones.

Of the "problem of readjustment of the population," he said "hundreds of thousands of families live where there is no reasonable prospect of a living in the years to come."

Ready Next Congress. "When the next congress convenes," he declared, "I hope to be able to present to it a carefully considered national plan, covering the development and human use of our national resources of land and water over a long period of years."

It involves abandoning millions of acres for agricultural use and replacing them with better land. The president disclosed he has begun actual studies looking to a unified system of social insurance, including unemployment and old age.

"I believe," he said, "there should be a maximum of cooperation between states and the federal government. I believe that the funds necessary to provide this insurance should be raised by contribution rather than by an increase in general taxation."

States Should Help

Mrs. Gore Has

The states, he said, "should meet at least a large part of the management cost," leaving the federal government the task of investing and safeguarding the reserves.

The present strike at the critics who say the government should devote itself to recovery first and reform later.

"It is childish," he said, "to speak of recovery first and reconstruction afterward. In the very nature of the processes of recovery we must avoid the destructive influence of the past."

Defends New Deal

About the new deal in general, the president said:

"We have sought to put forward the rule of fair play in finance and industry."

"It is true that there are a few among us who would still go back. These few offer no substitute for the gains already made, nor any hope for making future gains for human happiness."

"They loudly assert that individual liberty is being restricted by government, but when they are asked what individual liberties they have lost, they are put to it to answer."

This was clearly Mr. Roosevelt's reply to any opposition his administration encounters in the coming campaign.

A COFFEE-HATER Surrenders

"Dear S&W

"I have been a coffee-hater until after listening to your descriptions of S&W Mellow'd Coffee over the radio every Sunday evening."

"I decided to try this mellowed blend. In trying it I have found it to be all that you say—and more. Why, it is fit for a king to drink!"

"(Signed) B.....B....."

Once again the full, rich mellowness of S&W Coffee makes a "coffee-hater" surrender. Once again S&W says, in all sincerity, maybe you are missing something if you have not tried S&W Mellow'd Coffee. Try, compare, convince yourself!

AS FINE AS MONEY CAN BUY

MODERATELY PRICED

— a reason

FRANKLY, one of the chief reasons why I enjoy Chesterfield is the fact that I don't get little crumbs of tobacco in my mouth.

Rarely ever do I find a Chesterfield that isn't well filled. The tobacco in them seems to be of the right length, and they must be the right size because they burn right and smoke right.

I like them also because they are milder.
