COUNTY BRIEFS

Sams Valley

SAMS VALLEY, June 12.—(Sp.)—Sams Valley figured prominently in the Diamond Jubilee with an attractive float, sponsored by the Sams Valley Grange, featuring Chief Sams, in the pioneer parade Thursday and the Grange drill team, with Capt. Albert Straus, marching in Friday's parade and also drilling before a large crowd at the Medford park at noon. Cattlemen are busy gathering up their stock in preparation for leaving for the high hills this week. At the last meeting of Sams Valley Grange the members agreed to accept the offer of the Applegate Grange for a change of dates for the entertaining of the Pomona Grange. Sams Valley's regular schedule is the 4th Saturday in July, but by giving this date to Applegate for that order's convenience, Sams Valley will entertain in January. This alteration will also make a change in the program schedule. The Grange, at the last meeting, voiced much praise for the progress made by the drill team, which led the county right to drill at State Grange by so small a margin to the Central Point team. Mrs. Edwin Jones, by her request, was laid to rest in the local cemetery Friday. Mrs. Jones was formerly Jessie Childers and had made her early home on what is known as the Jack Cornus farm. During her last days of ill health the deceased asked to be brought back to Jackson county and passed away shortly after being taken to Jacksonville. Few residents remain in Sams Valley, who were school mates and friends of the deceased. Several farmers from this district heard the speech of Secretary Wallace at Medford last week. Those unable to attend tuned in on their radios. A crowd of young people gave an old-fashioned charivari for the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Tonn, at Lake Creek Monday night. The bride was formerly Miss Frances Wilson, who held an important part in the social activities of the neighborhood from which she will be greatly missed. The couple are making their home on the Tonn farm at Lake Creek. Mrs. Fred Gaelle was a recent visitor in Klamath county visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. Boetwick at Malin and her son Ernest Howell and family at Bly. Mrs. Blake of Corvallis and Mrs. R. Billings of Ashland visited at the R. N. Chaney home last week. THIS HAT'S SO OLD IT'S NEW!

Many of the hats you will see this summer go back to the mauve decade for their inspiration. Here is an "open car hat" from the summer collection of Lilly Dache, New York designer. The veil dips over the wearer's eyes, then comes down to cover the side hair and ties in a big bow under the chin. (Associated Press Photo)

LIFE IN NAVY HAS MUCH ATTRACTION AVERS RECRUITER

Due to the many inquiries received from young men regarding the necessary requirements for enlistment in the naval service, the following information has been secured from Chief Machinist Walker, naval recruiting officer in charge of the Medford station, headquarters for the southern Oregon district. Applicants must be native born or fully naturalized, must produce a birth certificate or some other authentic proof of birth, and must be not less than 17 and under 25 years of age on date of enlistment. Men under 18 years are enlisted for a minority and will be discharged one day previous to their 21st birthday. If 18 or over they may serve four full years. Applicants must pass a rigid physical examination, be of good moral character and able to furnish at least three references from reputable people who have known them for two years or longer, and must have a credible scholastic and conduct record from the school attended. While a high school graduation is not absolutely required, the applicant must be of sufficient intelligence and education to pass the general intelligence test given all recruits. They must have no police or juvenile record and must have a good reputation in their community. First enlistments are authorized only in the rating of apprentice seaman for general service at a monthly pay of $21. After being sworn into the service all recruits from this district are transferred to the naval training station at San Diego, Calif., for twelve weeks of preliminary training. Upon completion of this period of training recruits are transferred to general service at sea. After four months of total service recruits are automatically promoted to the rank of seaman second class or fireman, third class, with an increase in pay to $36 a month unless conduct should have been such as not to merit this advancement. The service offers a young man an instructive and interesting career, good pay, medical and dental attention, board and room, clothing, the facilities and equipment for all sorts of athletics, such as football, baseball, basketball, swimming, boxing, wrestling, hand and volley ball, tennis, golf, pistol and rifle matches, extensive libraries and reading rooms, talking pictures, vaudeville, and when on a foreign cruise, tours to historic places. Church services are held for all denominations every Sunday morning. All these are given to the navy man free of cost. Men in the service may continue their general education if they so desire. Extension courses from the best universities are available under competent and qualified instructors. There is a wide choice of trade or professional training open to recruits, as the navy embraces some fifty-odd trades and professions, such as steam, electrical and Diesel engineering, radio, artificer (which includes blacksmith welder, boiler-maker, carpenter, molder and mental maker trades) aviation utility, medical corps, gunnery, deck, artificer, typist, yeoman (including clerks, typists, pay clerk, storekeeper) serography, photography, printer, cooks and bakers, and stewards. Schools are maintained ashore and afloat for training in these trades. The schools afloat are the most efficient in that they combine academic and practical instruction. The opportunity for travel is wide and an education in itself, naval men visit places that most people know only through books. Every year the fleet makes an extended cruise. This year the fleet made a trip to the east coast of the United States via Panama Canal, Cuba, and touching a number of east coast ports where liberty was granted to the crews. One has a choice of foreign duty as the navy maintains squadrons and bases in Panama, Porto Rico, Virgin Islands, Hawaii, Philippine Islands, Samoa, Guam, China and Alaska. Daily liberty and week-end leaves are granted to two-thirds of the ship's crew when in port. Thirty days leave annually is granted with pay to enable men to visit their homes. After twenty or thirty years honorable service men can retire with a comfortable and assured retirement pay which in case of twenty years of service is equivalent to twenty thousand dollars invested at 4 per cent interest. Any interested young man who believes himself qualified for the naval service, may receive further and detailed information by writing to or applying at the navy recruiting station, second floor postoffice building, Medford, Ore. Hours are 9 a. m. to 3 p. m., except Saturday, when the office closes at 1 p. m.

NRA to Save Suckers From Mail Order Racket

By Harry Ferguson United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, June 12.—(UP)—General Hugh S. Johnson will tickle all of us under the wing of his blue eagle to save us from the fellows who are always trying to make Gammas, Shakespeares and Rockefeller's out of us by mail. Taking the position that the American people are natural born suckers who think they can breathe deeply, read a book, exercise ten minutes before breakfast and then while the tar out of Max Baer, the general has drawn up a code for mail order universities. Johnson doesn't mean to leave the impression that it is impossible to soak up culture by tearing open an envelope and memorizing a schuylkill speech like "quick, Mrs. Van Schuylik, the cleaning fluid," when you spill strawberry jam on your hostess' best linen table cloth. The code conceals that you can acquire a lot of savior faire and even become a bon vivant (they laughed when I spoke to the waiter in French) in ten easy lessons. The NRA takes the position that the mail order universities have been pouring it on a bit thick lately and

BEAGLE AIDS IN JUBILEE PARADES

BEAGLE, June 12.—(Sp.)—Beagle was well represented Thursday at the Diamond Jubilee as nearly every one was there to see the pioneer parade. The Friendly Neighbors had a covered wagon with the old time farm tools fastened on the back and sides and the little lady in the sun bonnet that graced the seat beside Mr. Lucas, the driver, was grandma Parks, 82 years of age and a pioneer of the west. She was born on the way across the plains as her folks were coming to California and was the first white girl in one of the mining camps there for many months. Rose Gillette, and her father, Mr. Gillette, rode in the back of the wagon and played old-time music, Rose with the accordion and her father the guitar. Ray Blaine and Lawrence Sanderson were wagon guards on horseback. The youngsters from here put on an agricultural float Friday and several members were in the grange drill team.

PLANE VICTIMS LAID IN MORGUE

LIBERTY, N. Y., June 12.—(AP)—The bodies of the seven persons who lost their lives in the crash of a Newark-to-Chicago air liner lay in morgues here and in nearby Livingston Manor today pending the arrival of relatives and friends. For more than seven hours during the night undertakers, aided by state police, had carried the bodies through ten miles of densely wooded mountain land from the spot on the side of Mongaup mountain where the huge passenger liner crashed during a storm Saturday. At the end of the ten-mile trek the bodies were placed in hearse and six of them were brought to Liberty. The seventh, that of Harry Finley of New York was taken to Livingston Manor. His body was found lying clear of the plane and was the only one not badly burned. Several of the others were not recognizable.
