Ken Williams' Grants Pass Merchants entertain the Medford Rogues Sunday for the second successive week in a game which will determine whether the Merchants pull away to a full two game Southern Oregon league lead or fall into another tie with the Rogues for the top spot.

The crucial game, originally scheduled for Medford, has been shifted to Grants Pass due to the Jubilee platform at the Jackson county fair grounds not being torn down in time for the game.

At Klamath Falls, Shaw Bertram will resume their inter-city series with Ewauna with the latter holding two wins to their credit. The game will be played at Modoc field.

Against Grants Pass, manager Halght of the Medford club will start either Jack Hughes or Cliff McLean on the pitching rubber. If Hughes throws, McLean will be behind the bat and if the latter pitches either Dean Joy or Charley Orr, former University of Oregon star, will catch.

Ken Williams, who broke up the game last Sunday with his ninth inning pinch single, will start Nelson on the mound against the Rogues with Al Droulette, league leading hitter, behind the plate.

Representatives from each league team held a meeting at Ashland on Wednesday night and decided to lengthen the schedule three games, making the circuit come to an end on August 5. Following are the added games: July 22, Grants Pass at Medford; Shaw Bertram at Ewauna; July 29, Medford at Ewauna; Shaw Bertram at Grants Pass; August 5, Ewauna at Grants Pass; Shaw Bertram at Medford.

It was also decided at the meeting that the two Klamath Falls teams post a $25 guarantee to Medford and Grants Pass when the latter two play in Klamath Falls and that the latter two post the same when Shaw Bertram and Ewauna play away from home and with the choice that if the regular visiting team out, which is 40 per cent of the gate, exceeds $35 that the visiting team may take the 40 per cent.

KRUSE AND INDIAN TAKE MATCHES ON DOUBLE MAT CARD

"Terrible" Ted Thye, 202 pound master muscle mauler from Portland, should have kept a few more tricks to himself when he showed his former pupil, "Broccoli" Bob Kruse, 210 pounds, how to wrestle years ago, for one-half minute after the gong sent the two together for the second time as of their first real bout staged at the armory last night. Pupil Kruse pinned his former mentor to the canvas with a double Nelson to win the match, in two straight falls. The "Broccoli King" took the first fall with a Boston crab in 17 minutes.

They went after his former pupil from the first gong with no desecration, and jounced him about the ring with shoulder butts, slugging and kicking for the first fifteen minutes. Kruse appealed to Referee Ray Prible to show his old master a few ring manners, but took the situation over for himself and ended hostilities with the crab hold after putting Ted out the ropes and exchanging several punishing headlocks. He showed more strength than his former teacher, and was able to take everything Kruse could dish out.

Champion in One of Many Knockdowns

This Associated Press picture, transmitted by radio from New York to San Francisco and then rushed to the Mail Tribune by air mail shows Primo Carnera on the floor for a no-count in the first round of his fight for the world's title as Max Baer, Livermore, Calif., "Butcher Boy" cooks his fist to smack another blow into the ponderous Italian if he rises too quickly. Baer, after tearing Carnera to pieces, was awarded a technical knockout in the 11th round and annexed the world's championship.

BAER WINS TITLE BY KNOCKOUT OF HULKING ITALIAN

Bell Saves Him in Tenth

Only the bell saved Primo from a knockout in the tenth round, at one stage of which Donovan stepped between them and changed his mind after giving every indication of his intention to stop the fight. Twice in this round and twice more, in the eleventh, the toppling tower of Italy went down under crushing blows. Absolutely dazed, his face a blotchy red from the terrific pounding he had received and his features distorted in grotesque bewilderment, Carnera was led stumbling from the ring after the most severe beating any heavyweight champion has absorbed since Jack Dempsey pounded Jess Willard into a bloody pulp in three rounds at Toledo in 1919.

Spectacular Battle

For the thrills of savage conflict and the howling roar of the crowd for the "kill," Baer's stunning victory surpasses anything that has happened among heavyweights since Dempsey knocked out Luis Angel Firpo of the Argentine in two spectacular rounds at the Polo Grounds in 1923. For two rounds last night there was more blistering action than a whole carload of heavyweight bouts have produced in the last half dozen years and the crowd accorded an ovation to the handsome, carelessly confident youth who has given pugilism another home-crushing puncher to get excited about.

going when a belated flood of waging sent the challenger into the ring a 5-to-5 shot to capture the championship.

Carnera Game

Only Carnera's gameness under the heaviest fire of his career, together with Baer's tactics in merely stalking his big opponent until such time as he chose to turn loose his belting fury, kept the fight from ending in short order. Whether because he was somewhat arm-weary from his opening three-round assault or because he decided to take his time and give the crowd a run for his money as he strutted his fanciest stuff, Baer relaxed his attack for the better part of the next four rounds.

Max Shows Off

Max alternately grinned and glared, stuck out his tongue in boyish contempt and twitted his giant rival. He flected off Carnera's jabs like a man awaiting harmless flies. He did everything but the tango as he circled or slipped away from the Italian. Once, when his footing seemed slippery, Max deliberately went over to Carnera's corner and busily scraped his shoes in the resin before resuming the fight.

Carnera at None of the Stages

Carnera at none of the stages when he was being most severely battered took the advantage of a long count. Only four times out of the eleven occasions when he recoiled and hit the floor from Baer's punches did the time keeper even have time to swing his mallet. There was a count of two for the first knockdown, another for only one second in the third, and two short counts, lasting two and four seconds, in the tenth round.

Primo Out on Feet

Carnera's two trips to the floor in the eleventh and final round were more from his own weakness and unsteadiness than from any greater force in Baer's lunges or punches. He sprawled once along the ropes after being slugged with a right hander and he went down in the middle of the ring soon afterwards from a half-push and half-punch. Altogether, it was one of the most amazing performances ever witnessed in a championship bout, alternately comic with Baer's clowning and tragic for the reeling giant who was trying to ward off the inevitable with the last vestiges of his physical equipment.

Low Blow Claimed

The eighth was officially credited to Carnera by the referee's action in penalizing Baer for hitting low with a left hook to the body, although Carnera absorbed terrific punishment and furnished a comic touch by sprawling headlong to the floor, like a ball player sliding into home plate, as he lunged for his side-stepping foe. The sixth round was called even.

After the fight, Carnera exhibited a swollen right ankle, which he sprained in one of his tumbles to the canvas in the first round and which his handlers declared slowed him up as the fight progressed. He had a swelling on the left side of his face where most of Baer's vicious right handers connected. His nose and mouth were cut and bruised and his body blotchy red from the thundering of Baer's blows.

The gross gate receipts of $428,392.80 marked the biggest "gate" since the Sharkey-Schmeling fight in 1930 and marked another big upturn for the fight industry, with a new champion ready to seek fresh social and theatrical conquests as well as greater fistic laurels.

WINEGLASS CCC TEAM DEFEATS LUMBERMEN 10-4 AT MODOC POINT

The Camp Wineglass CCC baseball team crashed through with a 10-to-4 win Sunday over the strong Lamm Lumber company team on the Modoc Point field. This was the first game which the CCC team has played in Oregon, although the team won the Rockwell Field CCC championship in southern California last winter and was counted one of the strongest non-professional teams in the entire state.

The two high points in Sunday's game were the exceptionally fine pitching of Al Hogan for the CCC team and a home run hit by Rommerskirchen with three on in the sixth inning to score four of the CCC runs and clinch the game for Camp Wineglass.

E. Knauss, Crapo and Nelson showed well for the Lamm lumber team.
