CUBAN PARADERS SLAUGHTERED BY POLITICAL FOES

(Continued from page one) Thousands of bystanders watching the parade continued. A number of marchers, including several women fell, dead or dying. Spectators in Panic The thousands were thrown into a panic and trampled one another as they rushed for shelter. Women screamed. Some fainted. ABC members who were armed dropped to their knees and returned the fire. The attack came from behind the parade pillars. After six or seven minutes the assailants fled, leaving at least 12 dead and scores injured. The line of march was reorganized and the parade continued. During the shooting the ABC flag-bearer coolly held his banner aloft as comrades dropped about him. Havana's population was left dazed by the outbreak. A number of the wounded were in a grave condition and physicians said they expected the death toll to grow. Cooler Heads Prevail Coolers in the ABC prevailed last night and prevented threatened counter attacks on known enemies of the society. No serious disorders occurred, although a bomb exploded downtown. Government spokesmen said every effort would be made to run down the assassins. Reports that four men who led the attack were captured by ABC's and burned to death in their automobile were denied by police. Rafael Escalona, allegedly one of the four, spoke by radio from a hospital to deny the report. A number of observers expressed the opinion that the killing of the ABC paraders demonstrated the nation was not ready for normal political functions and it would be dangerous for the various parties to hold political rallies now. Karloff Appears In Cast Gripping Drama At Rialto

Could "Frankenstein" have defeated "Dracula" in mortal combat? The issue has finally been put to a test together for the first time on the screen, those two terror inspiring "monsters," Karloff and Lugosi, in a horror picture that promises to end all horror pictures. "The Black Cat," which is a gripping story, full of unusual and unexpected thrills and chills. "The Black Cat," coming to the Rialto theatre tomorrow, promises to outdo both "Frankenstein" and "Dracula." It is said Karloff, the creator of "Frankenstein," takes on a new guise of horrible and terrifying proportions, while Lugosi, the originator of "Dracula" braves the laws of life and death when he clashes with his sinister adversary. A splendid cast has been assembled for this production, including David Manners and Jacqueline Wells, who supply the romantic interest. Poelzig and Dr. Vedregast, portrayed by Karloff and Lugosi respectively, are old-world characters of sinister, mysterious bearing, yet carrying on their deadly machinations in this present day among very modern young people.
