

COUNTY BOURBONS NAME COMMITTEE; BARKDULL RESIGNS

The Jackson county Democracy held a meeting last Friday at the Hotel Medford, perfected their organization and passed a resolution declaring there was no disruption in the ranks. J. Emmett (Moe) Barkdull resigned as precinct committeeman from the North Riverside precinct.

The estrangement of Barkdull, it was declared, was due to general disgust at the way things showed up in Jackson county and not to any lack of faith in the "New Deal" or President Roosevelt. He is with the national organization but not with the local pilots.

The Democracy of Barkdull is one of the landmarks of politics in Jackson county, and he yielded to no man in the staunchness of convictions. He has been a valiant worker for success when Democrats were scarce and had no chance of success, and his resignation, while not exactly a bombshell, is akin to Dr. J. M. Keene suddenly breaking forth in oratorical glorification of the Oregon primary system.

Last spring George J. Carstens, a Democrat for 20 years, registered as a Republican to show his disgust with county leadership, he said. Further evidence of the deep harmony prevailing is attested in the fact that a number of rural precinctmen came to the meeting with snickers on their sleeves if a certain candidate bobbed up for any office. The intended victim did not run for anything so there was no discord.

The following were elected to the county committee: R. O. Stephenson, Medford, chairman; William Grenbrenner, Ashland, secretary; Dr. Charles T. Sweeney, Medford, chairman; Attorney A. E. Reames, Medford, state committeeman; Lewis Ulrich, Medford, congressional committeeman.

FINAL DAY FOR SCHERMERHORN

This is the final day for the filing of a petition for a rehearing in the case of Gordon L. Schermerhorn, former sheriff, under a three-year sentence in state prison for conviction of ballot theft. The next step, according to the district attorney, if the petition is not filed, is the issuance of an order of commitment on the mandate of the supreme court, directing that Schermerhorn be removed to the penitentiary. Executive clemency will then be the only hope of the long-time well-known valley resident, who came upon evil days when he aligned himself with L. Z. Banks and E. H. Fehl, local agitators, now state prison inmates for their criminal activities. Lifelong friends, the court and state authorities have characterized Schermerhorn as the "dupe and tool" of the two.

For many years Schermerhorn was a highly regarded and exemplary citizen with a wide acquaintance among old-time residents of the county. He has been at liberty on $7500 bonds since last August, when sentenced. Deputy Sheriff Ed F. Leach is nursing a fractured right hand and a severe blow on the forehead, received when the crank of an auto flew up and hit him. He will be carrying his hand in a splint for some time but the discoloration of the right eye is fading rapidly. It was the first auto crank casualty in several months.

WILSONS RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS ON GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

It was June 19, 1884—fifty years ago today—that a young lady, named Miss Ida Frances Hawley was wed to Richard L. Wilson, in the city of Chicago. They are making their home in Medford, and today are observing their golden wedding anniversary.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are members of pioneer families of Chicago. Mr. Wilson's father, John L. Wilson, with his brother Charles L. Wilson founded the Chicago Journal, a widely circulated newspaper during the Civil war. An early copy of the Journal on file in the Mail Tribune office tells of when Charles Wilson left the newspaper business to go to England as minister of legations before the Court of St. James, during Lincoln's administration. It was during this time, that Richard L. Wilson's sister, Miss Laura Wilson was presented before Queen Victoria. She was the first Chicago lady to be presented before a queen.

In Chicago, Mr. Wilson was engaged in the wholesale and dry goods business, and eighteen years ago, they came to southern Oregon, making their home at "Rancho El Nido," on Beall Lane. About eleven years ago they moved into Medford, and have since resided in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson have two sons and six grandchildren. Richard H. Wilson and Robert M. Wilson both reside in Medford, as do their children, Richard, Robert, Ida, Norman, J. Anne and Credella.

The couple has a large circle of friends in Medford and the valley, who are today, extending them congratulations in honor of their wedding anniversary.

MINORS THORN TO BEER DISPENSERS

The sheriff's office which keeps an eye on the suburban beer joints of the valley, reports issuing warnings to proprietors not to serve beer to youths who claim to be 21 years old, but are not. The proprietors are anxious to co-operate but in the hustle and bustle of a busy evening, a minor might slip by. Cases have come to the attention of the authorities where youth fooled the proprietor and the law by having an older person order for them. This is an infraction of the Knox law, and subject to prosecution of state. The licenses date from July 1.
