

RESTAURANT CODE MEETS DISFAVOR MANY OPERATORS

Proponents Claim Opposition Comes From Representatives of 'Beer Joints' Where Food Secondary

PORTLAND, June 21.—(AP)—Disension within the ranks of restaurant operators, particularly in Portland, over the provisions of the marketing agreement for the industry as established under the Oregon agricultural adjustment act, adopted by the last legislature, became apparent here today as one group sought repeal of the rule.

Henry G. Kreis, attorney for the Oregon Retail Beverage Dispensers, Inc., said 675 restaurant operators in Portland have signed a petition asking Governor Meier to abrogate the agreement. The law provides the governor may do this if 75 per cent of the industry so demands.

Say It's Unfair. Those opposing the agreement insist it is unfair, unjust and unreasonable; that sufficient regulation from a sanitation, wage and welfare standpoint is afforded by existing state and city laws, and that "the latitude given the board is such that no one with ordinary good business judgment would endorse it."

Provisions Shown. Rebuttal said the principal provisions in the agreement are: The restaurant board shall formulate and prescribe with the approval of the secretary, minimum standards of cleanliness and sanitation; no restaurateur shall serve food or beverages at a price less than twice the actual cost to him; no item shall be advertised at a price less than twice the actual cost to the restaurateur; no item of food or portion thereof previously served to another person shall be served again; no restaurateur shall use advertising which is inaccurate in any material particular.

No More Moths!

A cheap, easy, and entirely effective way to protect your clothing, blankets, furs, etc., from destructive moth pests is to sprinkle your closets and chests liberally with Bu-hach.

Bu-hach is sure death to insect pests. But it's guaranteed safe for human beings and pets, and it positively won't injure your garments. Leaves no disagreeable telltale odor—heat protection against moths that you have ever tried.

Apricots, Peaches

Appear for Sale

First of the Rogue River valley apricots are now being harvested. They are of good quality and commanding a fair price, according to County Horticulturist Lyle P. Wilcox. Owing to the shortage of California apricots, valley growers have a slight advantage as the southern product is not flooding the Oregon market as in previous years. Very few California apricots are being trucked into this district, coming in boxes, where they formerly came by the truckload. The California crop, according to Wilcox, was hit by hail. Early peaches are now being harvested, but the main crop is not expected to reach the market before July 10.

Last of the raspberries in this section will be picked this week, according to Wilcox.
