Ye Smudge Pot By Arthur Ferry. Considerable excitement was caused yesterday by the report some gambling not connected with a carnival, was going on in our midst.

A mild controversy is raging in diver and sundry upstate papers, whether or not the state grange leaders are "in politics." The master's orders to defeat all legislative candidates, who favored the late Sales Tax, has a slight political tinge.

G. Fujimoto, with characteristic Oriental thirst for knowledge, wants to know how to commit a shivaree. This indicates that the younger members of the Nipponese colony have become sufficiently Americanized to hold hands with a member of the contrary sex.

"I understand that in this report," said he, "I have been accused of 'dishonesty,' 'gross misconduct,' 'inefficiency,' 'inaccuracy,' 'unreliability,' 'incompetency,' and 'mismanagement.'"

Several rural gasoline tanks have showed up empty, so the "Self-Help" movement is getting underway again.

"Often baby's protracted crying can be stopped by simply turning on the radio." (Infant care hint, this paper)—This should help a lot.

H. Flewther, the demon baker, is going to join the Sunrise club, the purpose of the organization being to get up and see dazzling sunrises. It should be understood by Mr. Flewther, before he signs on the dotted line, that if he is not there on time, there will be no delay in the sun-up, and same will proceed without him.

Several more social lions have purchased dress suits, and, as yet, none have been mistaken for a head-waiter.

The valley is completely out of rumore, except that the Bonneville Dam will divert the Columbia River into Rogue River, and spoil the fishing.

"Too many parents are not on spanking terms with their children." (Readers Digest)—And, the bartender has no legal right to do it.

The architectural lines of the new 4ds compared with the rest of the new models. It is hoped the improvement will instill the owners with enough gumption to get out and see what the damage is, when they have an accident.

WHAT AILS EVERYBODY. Of all the passions, that which is least known to us is idleness; she is the most ardent and evil of all.

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M.D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

THE NEW REDUCTION MEDICINE KILLS A PERSON HERE AND THERE. Not so long ago I told here the news of the introduction of a new medicine which seemed to be the answer to the maiden's prayer—something that would reduce weight regardless of diet and exercise and massage and style of dress.

I explained that I had been trying it out on the dog named Tony. The "Weight Terror" was not by a jugful, but the sly dog who conducts this contemptible column—and that it had kept me quite warm but I had lost a couple pounds a week and didn't mind the discomfort from the increased warmth and increased sweating.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Please tell me of some pleasing way of taking olive oil each day, still getting its benefits and not being so hard to take.

Answer—Mixed with vinegar or lemon juice and a wee bit of sugar it goes well on iceberg lettuce. Emulsified with egg and a little flour and stuff it in pretty good dressing for salads, fish and things. But why should you want to take olive oil if you don't like it?

Lead Poisoning. I contracted lead poisoning by inhalation of dust while dry-scrapping five coats of paint from some old furniture. Doctor says I have to wait for my system to eliminate it naturally.

Answer—If you can't break the habit, let your dentist fit an appliance upon your teeth which will retain a smooth shield so that the tongue can't get between the teeth. Where the cheek is bitten or chewed, a quarter or half dollar serves the purpose.

Unhidden Guests. Borax for roaches! Safe and sure! I testify to your much experience. But, oh, for an effective agent to rid the place of ants.

Answer—Send a dime and stamped envelope bearing your address, for the booklet "Unhidden Guests." (Copyright 1934, John F. Dille Co.)

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY BY O. O. McIntyre. NEW YORK, June 21.—New York's over-supply of "hotels" may seem like a miracle that will fill them again.

There are several hundred in midtown not earning their salt. The sudden swing from them to big hotel dining rooms seems permanent.

Even law abiding cafes grapple with the same desolation that hit legitimate theatres. The boomers are in that patron believe that hotel restaurants, with their heavier investments, are likelier to serve a better grade of liquors.

Liquor stores also are in a quandary. Any number of them do not earn enough to pay license fees. Big department stores are not only able to undersell, but again there is the confidence inspired by old-established institutions that have proved their honesty.

New York, after years of downing inconceivably vile concoctions, has become amazingly boot-legal leery. The most noticeable result of the clean-up has been the quiet death of the clip-joints, where so many were not only poisoned and hanged but often murdered.

The biggest backlog in the literary blaze. Hervey Allen, appeared to York expectations at his first New York cocktail party. One impassioned gloriator described him thus: "A large, simple, highly unlitary looking man, he seemed a King Canute with tides of gossip lapping, silently at his feet."

Merle Merriman yesterday filed suit in circuit court against John A. Peri for $1475, alleged damages growing out of an auto accident on the evening of June 1, last, at Fourth and Ivy streets.

The complaint sets forth that as a result of the accident Merriman sustained injuries to his arm, shoulders and back which prevented him from working for two weeks and will partially prevent him from the same for some time to come.

Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS.

THIS headline looms big on the front page "3rd Congress Ends Session."

Why is adjournment of congress such important news? The answer is plain. People are afraid that too many more new laws might give a setback to reviving business, and are glad that congress has adjourned so that it can pass no more new laws.

THE 73rd congress was one of the shortest and by long odds the most expensive on record, its appropriations exceeding TEN BILLION dollars.

Ten billion dollars means nothing to us, because we have become so stunned by big figures that we can no longer grasp their significance, but if anybody had mentioned to our grandfathers that an American congress, in time of peace, would spend day appropriate in excess of $10,000,000,000 they would have fallen in a faint.

WHAT of our grandchildren? Will they be doing things on a vastly bigger scale than we are, just as we are doing things on a far grander scale than our grandfathers? Or will they be trying to pay the debts we are now making?

OUR grandfathers, out here in the Far West, lived in log houses, heated by fireplaces and ventilated by the wind that blew through the cracks.

Our children, if we are to believe what enthusiastic lookers into the future tell us, will live in houses that are heated in winter and cooled in summer by machines that wash and condition the air, removing excess humidity in winter and putting back needed humidity in summer.

These houses will make their own climate, and it will always be just right—neither too hot nor too cold, too wet or too dry. And the same will be true of the business buildings in which we work.

IN THOSE happy days, we shall have unpleasant weather only when we go outdoors. Nobody is ambitious enough yet to think of controlling the weather outdoors.

There are some things that even modern man hesitates to tackle. THESE houses of the future will be equipped with awnings that are lowered automatically by electric motors when the sun comes out and drawn up when the sun sets or hides behind a cloud.

They will have windows that close immediately when raindrops fall upon a sensitive reinder, and open again when the rain ends.

These windows will have double panes, with an air space between to prevent loss of heat in cold weather, thus saving fuel.

THE MASTER of one of these houses will sleep in a bed beside which will be a row of buttons, and by pushing these buttons he will actuate motors that open and shut the windows and turn on the heat if it is too cold or turn on the cold if it is too warm.

Whether or not these buttons will light the kitchen fire and put on the bacon and eggs is not as yet stated with authority.

But we can look for most anything. THE interesting part, however, is still to come.

We are told that these amazing houses, with all these conveniences and many others not listed here, will be built for far less than the houses we now live in—so that ordinary people, not just the big bugs, will be able to own and live in them.

IN THE past three or four years of severe depression, when people have been chiefly concerned with getting enough to eat and wear and keeping some sort of house over their heads, the idea has grown up that the good days are all past, and that we haven't much to look forward to in the future.

Don't let yourself believe anything like that. The good days AREN'T over. Sooner or later this depression will disappear and will be followed by a period of comfort and happiness and progress that will exceed any similar period in the past.

ANOTHER thing: The comforts and the happiness and the progress of this era that is coming will be shared by common, ordinary people in a greater degree than in any similar period of the past.

Communications

Would Rationalize Thought

To the Editor: Please accept my thanks for publishing my communication, "Rationalizing the Philosophy of a New Deal."

I have been of the thought that it needs further illustration. I n the issue of the Medford Mail Tribune June 18th, the writer presented the first of his communications upon the philosophy of a new deal.

Unless we so systematize our thoughts in this respect we cannot have any grasp of the ideas and ideas behind the philosophy of a new deal. For we treat the philosophy of a new deal as if it were a ground upon which to base our understanding of the processes involved in the philosophy of a new deal.

In the past we have failed to rationalize our attitude toward the objects to be won in this our great struggle to throw off conditions that have a death look upon the institution of our civilization. Because we could not rationalize our thoughts we are unable to form any intelligent idea, upon which to base our understanding of and for the acts and processes we find ourselves facing today.

I am writing simply. Simply because it is my purpose to clear away any ambiguity there may be in your mind, so that the plan and purpose of a new deal in our philosophy of life will present to your mind a new clear, clear picture of the new deal in action.

So that the intelligence of this age will fully appreciate the truth and the splendid American spirit of Democracy that runs through every avenue and angle of the New Deal, this purely and truly American work, a new deal for humanity in purpose, spirit and philosophy.

If you, reader, will it that you will co-operate in this task with the men and women who are the Pilots, in pioneering this philosophy and work of a new deal in a new era, then only can you understand and truly know the spirit and purpose of a new deal, and the full meaning of the words spoken by the martyred Lincoln, that this nation under God shall experience a new spiritual birth, and new consciousness of what is meant by dedication to the ideal of a new deal that this government of, for, and by the people shall not perish from the earth, representing as it does the highest, the most human effort of all time, the past and present to rationalize the life and work of government, to create a greater measure of equality among men, to open to them new avenues of endeavor in their quest for a full measure of life and liberty in the pursuit of happiness.

I am making a plea to you my reader, to join me in the laying aside the conflicting thoughts that have torn our reason to shreds and left our minds in chaos, bereft of Faith, Hope and Charity.

Faith in the sincerity of our President's ideas and purposes for our own concern (we his people) Hope that the intelligence he expresses and has surrounded himself with can restore to us happiness and prosperity.

Such is the will and purpose of God. With all of us, through suffering comes understanding. It is the key to the secret of the compassion lying deep in every heart.

On the recognition of this principle (compassion) lies the verdict of this Western civilization's future—to be or not to be.

To be a new light in this world to guide humanly the stream of humanity's purpose and progress ever onward and upward toward the goal of a grander light (understanding of Life's purpose).

Not to be, then confusion, spiritual, social and economic death, the decline of all our creative work to decay, a memory, a memory such as the ruins in the old world and Europe, represent today, of civilizations, eloquent, pathetic, the living symbols of the destructive principle in nature.

Is this to be with us? I cannot think that this can be. On every side of me I see expressed intelligence of a higher order. I know that by the intelligent use of this wonderful creative tool, applied with purpose and courage we will build toward a successful solution to Civilization's problems.

Come, let us stop for a moment, clearing our minds from the distorted thought forms that bewilder us, forms that our reason vainly strive to assemble into practical plans, the mind would mould to figure and fact to play its game of intelligence expressed vs. Annihilation's Waste.

Come, let us put this tangled skein aside, let us open the doors of the mind so we may again breathe into them metaphorically speaking, a big deep breath of pure life-giving oxygen. Under its stimulus we will proceed in an orderly way to where the philosophy of a new deal leads us. It holds the key to a newer, fuller expression of American Democracy. Let us hope that other publications will take it upon themselves to spread the gospel and shed the true light upon this philosophy of a New Deal.

Very cordially yours, G. I. MAXWELL, 218 Laurel St., Medford, Ore.

bill was blocked; it was a little too raw to stand the light of publicity. That also explains the failure of the senate to pass the house census bill, which was merely to give jobs to census takers who vote right in the November elections.

Speaking of publicity, a certain government official here insists on getting his. He recently took a trip with President Roosevelt and was dismayed to find that the morning newspapers did not mention his name. He induced his press agent to call a world-wide news agency here, asking that the omission be rectified in the afternoon editions.

Piles Go Quick. Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts lifeless. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for hundreds of patients with a marvelous record of success and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Jarman's, Woods, also McNeil Bros. of Ashland says "No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money-back."
