

MEDFORD LODGE WILL ENTERTAIN GRANGE AT JACKSONVILLE TONIGHT

Royal Neighbors of Medford and Jacksonville will entertain the Jacksonville Grange at its regular meeting tonight. The Medford lodge will present its costume drill work along with several stunts, while the Jacksonville group will present a short one-act play, entitled "While You Wait." According to the lecturer the program will be held before the business session for the convenience of those who are not members of the Grange.

This being the first meeting since May, several matters are expected to be brought up for discussion which will be important to the Grange as a body. Also, a number of reports will be given including the reports of the delegates to the state convention. It is asked that all members make an effort to come as their support is needed.

The Home Economics club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Tom Gifford. Those present were: Florence Severance, Ora Niedermeyer, Ann Wendt, Anna Langly, Beva Hensperger, Clara Dew, Mabel Sims, Matie Mechem, Anna Hartley, Louise Brockway, Emily Meyer, Emma Conger, Leona Conger, and the hostess, Mrs. Gifford.

SOVIET WORKMEN OFTEN TOO HASTY

MOSCOW. (UP)—The ancient joke about the surgeon who sewed up his instruments in the patient's stomach is being revised in reverse form here in connection with the Soviet program.

Under the necessity of high-pressure work, workmen often complete houses before the public utilities are installed. Thus the walls are "sewed up" before the necessary instruments are put into them.

It is not unusual to find workmen tearing up walls and floors of new apartment houses to install water and gas pipes.

This condition became so notorious that the council of people's commissars recently took note of it. They issued a decree that in the future all utilities must be installed before dwellings are completed.

OLD MINE TUNNEL LEADS TO CAVERN

TONOPAH, Nev.—(UP)—A cavern of as yet unknown depth has been discovered in Titus canyon, 24 miles southwest of Beatty, Nev., in California.

The find was made by Roscoe ("Death Valley Curly") Wright of Beatty as he inspected an abandoned 400-foot mine tunnel.

The tunnel taps what appears to be the roof of a great cavern. To descend into the cavern it is necessary to drop 75 feet down a rope. The cavern extends more than 500 feet in depth.

Other caverns of immense size lie below and above the first cavern, Wright reported. The cavern he explored lies approximately 30 feet from another huge cave, he said. He hasn't pierced the wall separating the two as yet, he added.

The ceiling of the cavern is covered by stalactites of sand-white aragonite—a calcium carbonate containing some borax, Wright said.

Phoenix Grangers Plan Spook Show

A "spook" show and dance have been planned by the Phoenix grange for Saturday evening, and an invitation to the public has been extended. Elmer J. Whipple, magician, will be in charge of the mystery features, having returned to this section after a year's absence.

The program is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock, and one admission price will cover both features.

CULINARY CRAFT....

By Estella Dorgan, Director, Home Service, the California Oregon Power Company

Strawberries, raspberries and cherries are in the market right now and, in some places, other fruits are crowding these for canning purposes. Naturally, following the large sale of electric ranges, this spring, more than the usual number of new users are interested in learning the use of their electric ovens for canning. Therefore, we are giving some simple instructions and a little discussion of canning problems.

To begin with, you may prepare the fruit or vegetable in whatever manner you have always prepared it, then process it in the oven according to the instructions given in the book you received with your range. Generally, 250 degrees is the best temperature to use and the time is varied with the type of material being canned. A little space, about one-half inch, should be allowed at the top of the can for expansion from heat. The space will be sterilized so do not fear spoilage, nor open the jar to fill it after sterilization. Even if, for any reason, the material has shrunk or the moisture escaped, the food will be good to use if the can is sealed in the usual manner. Of course, the flavor will not be the same.

In canning berries, the present favorite method is to "plum" the berries by a short pre-cooking in a rather sweet syrup and allowing it to cool for several hours, or overnight. Then, the fruit and syrup are poured into the sterilized jars and processed at 250 degrees for one-half hour. The berries are then filled with the syrup so that they stay suspended in it and do not rise to the top of the jar as they will if canned in the usual manner.

The usual method of canning is to place the material in the jar and pour over it a syrup for fruit or hot water for vegetables. Add a teaspoon of salt to each quart of vegetables and allow at least one-half inch space in the top of each jar. Adjust the top the same as you would for canning in the hot water process and in the oven which is set at 250 degrees, using lower oven heat only. When the required time has elapsed, remove the tops if necessary and set away to cool without inverting the jars.

There is also the completely automatic way in which the material is placed in cold jars and raw sugar and cold water added (or cold water and salt), then the jars are placed in a cold oven and the heat brought up to 250 degrees and the whole processed automatically in this manner. Any one of these methods is successful. Take your choice as to the one you enjoy most.

Do not allow the jars to touch each other or the side of the oven. They may be placed on the rack or on a pan and you do not need to place them in water or on a pad in the pan.

BED SPREAD MAKING BECOMES INDUSTRY DURING DEPRESSION

DALTON, Ga.—(UP)—Out of the depression has developed a picturesque "million dollar industry" of making candlewick bedspreads in this territory.

Tourists drive along a "bedspread route" for the bedspreads, beautifully made in bright colors, are hung out in the front yards to attract buyers.

To Mrs. W. S. Whitener, living in the western section of Whitfield county, goes the credit for "discovering" the candlewick bedspreads.

Mrs. Whitener had sent some of the spreads to relatives and was surprised to learn that they attracted so much attention in other parts of the country that a market could be found for them. In this section, the bedspreads had been made for years as just a pretty cover for the guest room.

But now they are shipped in large quantities all over the nation.

Approximately 10,000 candlewick bedspreads are shipped daily. They represent the output of the 23 "spread sheds" that operate in this section.

Last year about $400,000 was paid in wages alone. There were benefits in addition to the makers of cloth, yarns and other necessary material, the shippers, the haulers and laundrymen.

REV. HUSTON TO HEAD ANTI-LIQUOR LEAGUE

PORTLAND, Ore., June 22.—(AP)—The Rev. E. J. Huston, pastor of Trinity Methodist church in Seattle, was elected superintendent of the Oregon Anti-Saloon league at a meeting of the headquarters committee here last night.

The Seattle clergyman will succeed Charles Hatke, who resigned June 1 to become superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league.

PARIS SELECTS SITE FOR WORLD'S FAIR CENTER OF THE CITY

PARIS, France.—(UP) The site for the world fair scheduled here for 1937 has been chosen in the center of the city, extending along the banks of the Seine in the vicinity of the Trocadero and the Eiffel Tower.

If the plans, as now drawn up, are completed and approved by municipal authorities, the famous Trocadero gardens will have to be destroyed to make room for the temporary buildings.

To finance the fair, the state plans a subsidy of 18,000,000 francs, and the city of Paris 285,000,000 francs, which will be recovered by a 700,000,000 franc lottery, resembling the national lottery, with tickets to be sold concurrently in 1936.

The Trocadero Palais was built in 1878 by Davioud and Bourdais for the world's fair. It is one of the largest auditoriums on the world today and houses the Musee d'Ethnographie and the Musee de Sculpture Comparee. From the palace of the Trocadero magnificent gardens outlined by enormous trees extend to the river on the right bank and continue after crossing the Pont Alma on the left side of the river to the Eiffel Tower, also a part of the previous exposition.

The city of Paris is offering three portions of ground cleared by demolishing old fortifications, three and a half hectares in size. The department of the Seine will likewise hand over the Grangerie (the domain of Sceaux and 11 hectares of the Park of Sceaux for horticultural exhibits.

PATIENCE NEEDED IN TRAINING DOG

SALEM, Ore. (UP)—Dog owners were advised today by the livestock division of the state department of agriculture to use patience in training.
