BIBLE CONFERENCE CONCLUDES TODAY The annual Bible study conference for young people is in session at the Central Point Federated church. Practical, timely, inspirational messages have been given by Rev. E. R. Martin, of Portland, Ore.; Rev. W. C. Phucette and Rev. Mulholland of Roseburg, Ore.; and Rev. Lambkin of Murphy, Ore. A very good attendance, considering the busy time of the year, is an inspiration, and the students are giving close application to the studies.

The young people are being taken care of in the homes of the Central Point people, and some of their meals are served in the dining room of the church. The entire conference enjoyed a weiner roast and a playtime at Bybee bridge on Friday evening.

The conference closes on Sunday evening. In the Sunday morning service the pastor will preach on the subject: "The Personality and the Power of Satan." At 3:30 in the afternoon the young people will hold a service, in which various members of the conference will take part and make it a young people's service throughout. All are welcome to all these services.

The closing service will be held in the evening. A great joint young people's service will begin at 7 o'clock, and the final service of the conference at 8 o'clock with Rev. D. D. Randall bringing the message.

Young people from Griffin creek, Willow Springs, Howard, Medford, Murphy, Antelope, Reese creek, Table Rock, Tolo, Grants Pass, Wolf Creek, Roseburg, Missouri Flat, Central Point and other places have been in attendance.

All kinds of legs, blanks for sale for rent, no hunting, no trespassing and other cards for sale at Commercial Printing Dept. of Mail Tribune.

REV. WEATHERFORD ASSUMES PULPIT NAZARENE CHURCH Rev. Fred M. Weatherford, who succeeds the Rev. J. T. LaRose as pastor of the local Church of the Nazarene, at Central and Jackson streets, will make his first appearance today. He will be heard at 11 a. m., and at the eight o'clock evening service.

Rev. Weatherford comes to Medford from Santa Rosa, California, where he recently concluded a pastorate of five years duration. Prior to that time he served a term of four years as pastor of the Oakland First Church of the Nazarene, of California.

The new pastor is a native of Oregon, and received the major part of his education in this state; having spent two years in the Eastern Oregon State Normal school, three years at the Oregon State college, and two years and a half of theological training at Pasadena university.

For two years past and up to the time of his resignation to accept the local post, Rev. Weatherford served as editor of the official church paper of the Northern California district. He also served on the board of education of Pasadena college for a period of nine years.

Rev. Mr. Weatherford is a brother of Attorney Mark V. Weatherford who has been engaged in the law practice in Albany, Oregon for a number of years past.

Comment on the Day's News

HERE'S a good one: The grounds of one of Southern Oregon's gun clubs have been mined recently for the lead the trappers have been scattering there for years, and the project was so successful from the standpoint of a business enterprise that the club received in the neighborhood of $500 as a royalty for its share of the proceeds.

SOMEbody, you see, did a good job of quick thinking there, and cleaned up a modest little profit as a result. Quick thinkers are pretty apt to get ahead in this world, and practically nobody begrudges them their success.

Everybody admires nimble brains—that is, if they are HONEST as well as nimble. ANOTHER case of quick thinking, resulting in a nice little profit, occurred over in the Coos Bay country a few years ago.

Somebody, observing the huckleberry brush that grows so luxuriantly there in the winter season, was struck by a bright idea. The big eastern cities buy vast quantities of greenery at the Christmas season. Here, in the forests along the mild Oregon coast, was an unlimited supply of beautiful greenery.

Why not put this supply and the demand together and make a profit as a result? SO he did just that. He went to the manager of one of the big timber companies and contracted with him for all the huckleberry brush on his company's holdings. This manager later commented laughingly: "I'll bet I'm the only lumberman in Oregon who ever sold huckleberry brush on the stump."

He put a crew of men to work cutting the brush, crating it and loading it onto express cars. He sold it in Philadelphia, Washington and New York at a good price.

This, of course, was back in the big days when people had the money with which to buy such things freely. THIS bright idea, the product of somebody's quick thinking, brought a nice little sum to the timber company owning the land. It brought a considerably larger sum to the express company that hauled the greenery from the west coast to the east. It brought the quick thinker whatever profit he made on the transaction.

And don't forget this: It brought employment at fair wages to the men who did the cutting of the brush, to the employees of the express company that hauled it and to the salesman who sold it after it reached the east.

THAT'S the beauty of quick thinking that recognizes business opportunities that so far have gone unrecognized. It applies employment that didn't exist before and profits that didn't exist before, thus ADDING to existing wealth, without taking anything from anybody, and making EVERYBODY happier.

The more of these quick thinkers we have, the greater will be our progress in the future. JUST how many of these unrecognized opportunities, do you suppose, are lying around in Oregon? There must be thousands of them—for this is a vast state, whose real development has hardly been scratched as yet.

We need more of these quick thinkers to see these hitherto unrecognized opportunities and add to our prosperity by developing them.
