Romantic Film on Rialto Bill

Pat Paterson and Charles Starrett furnish song and romance in "Call It Luck" at the Rialto theatre for three days starting today, while Herbert Mundin, fast becoming a screen favorite, takes care of the comedy. "Call It Luck" shows Mundin as a London caddy who wins a fortune on the Irish Sweepstakes and with his newly found wealth proceeds to do all the things he has always wanted to do, leading to some hilarious complications as he tosses his money to the four winds.

"By Candlelight" Heads Roxy Bill

Sophisticated comedy at its best is presented in "By Candlelight," gay tale of Vienna and Monte Carlo, which heads the double feature program now at the Roxy theater. This sparkling screen play features Elissa Landi, Paul Lukas, Nils Asther and Esther Ralston in leading roles, and tells of the complications which ensue when a maid and a butler, servants of the nobility, pretend to each other that they themselves are of royal blood. The philandering habits of Count Von Rommer, employer of the butler, bring about a series of ludicrous situations which keep the servant in continual hot water, though this very fact serves to make matters easier for the trifling master.

"Orient Express," the second feature is a story of seven people who meet on board a train headed from Ostend to Constantinople. Each one has his own ambition and goal in life, but by a trick of fate they meet and, at the end of their journey, they find their lives completely changed. The splendid characterizations of the principals together with the swiftly mounting suspense, romance and intrigue brings the picture to an exciting and smashing climax.
