

BOY SCOUT CAMP AT LAKE O' WOODS TO OPEN JULY 8

Ideal Location for Boys' Camp — Many Activities Offered—Life Guards and Other Supervision Given

Camp McLaughlin, the boy scout summer camp for the scouts of the Crater Lake Area Council, will open Sunday, July 8, for two two-week periods. The camp, on the north-east shore of Lake of the Woods, is ideal for a boys' camp, offering almost every advantage one could wish for.

During the two weeks the scout is in camp he is kept busy with many activities, swimming, boating, games, evening camp fire sessions, hiking, and instruction in general camp craft and scoutcraft. Scout camp offers splendid opportunities for the development of the scout physically, mentally and morally. He learns to do things for himself.

Housed in Cabins.
The boys are housed in large screened cabins in which are individual spring cots. The camp will be divided into three troops, "Mountaineers," "Pioneers," and "Life Guards." This division makes possible interesting competition between troops in games and activities. The "Mountaineers" and "Pioneers" are open to all scouts. The requirements for a boy to be in the "Life Guard" unit are that he be at least a first class scout. The program of the "Life Guard" unit will center around the water activities. Scouts desiring to receive instruction and complete their swimming and life saving merit badge work should be in this troop.

Bob Haines, registered scout life-guard and senior Red Cross lifesaver, will have charge of the swimming and life-saving activities. He is an Eagle scout and has had considerable training in water front safety. The other leaders of the camp will assist the water front director in making the water front safe. Both the buddy and check systems will be used in order to keep check on all scouts while in the water or swimming area.

Life guards will be on duty during the swimming periods at various points where they may be ready to render help if needed. It is expected that a large number of scouts will complete their swimming and life saving merit badges during their stay at camp.

Special Swim Classes.
Special classes are held each day for boys learning to swim or desiring to increase their swimming ability. During the past year 17,164 scouts were taught to swim in scout camps throughout the United States. A scout desiring to learn to swim will find that attendance at scout camp provides the best opportunity for this instruction.

Raymond Erickson, life scout of Troop No. 5, will have charge of the handicraft department. Scouts will have the opportunity to make pack boards and various articles in leather work. Raymond has been making advance preparations and promises the scouts an interesting activity for their leisure moments at camp.

Dick Roberts, Eagle scout, will have charge of scout advancement. The camp offers the best of facilities and conditions for receiving instruction in the passing of scout requirements. It is expected that a large number of boys will complete merit badges and first class and second class ranks. A court of honor will be held on the second Sunday of each period, at which time recognition will be given to those scouts who have completed the various ranks of scouting.

Plan Campfire Program.
Bob Blundt will have charge of the camp store and the campfire programs. The campfire is the high spot in many scout summer camp experiences, and considerable time is being given in the careful planning of the evening program, so that the campfire sessions will be made interesting and attractive.

Frank Nelson, as cook, promises to satisfy the appetites of the scouts. This is Mr. Nelson's third season as cook for the boy scouts at Camp McLaughlin. He has established quite a reputation as cook and the boys are all looking forward to his splendid meals.

The camp menu is worked out in advance and is planned so that the scouts will have ample fresh fruit, vegetables and milk.

Stuart Forbes, life scout of Troop No. 35, will have charge of the dining room.

D. F. Parker, who is a medical student of the University of Oregon, and has had considerable work in connection with hospitals, will be the camp doctor. He is well qualified to look after the health of the scouts. All scouts are taking a medical examination prior to leaving for camp for the purpose of determining their physical condition.

Soderberg Director.
Scout Executive A. O. Soderberg will be the camp director. He has been connected with the Portland summer camp for the past eleven years. A number of the scoutmasters will also be in camp with their troops to assist in the leadership and instruction.

The scout executive urges all scouts to take advantage of summer camp, as an experience that no scout should miss. When boys reach the scout age they perhaps will have only one or two seasons in which they may enjoy the experience at a scout camp. In two or three years they will have reached the age where it is necessary for them to assume the responsibility of making their own way and perhaps help to provide at home. When this time comes, experience at scout camp is past. Parents are urged to make possible a two-weeks stay at camp for their sons before it is too late.

A number of scouts have already signed up for one or two periods at camp. Those who have not signed up are urged to do so as soon as possible.
