LUMBER QUOTAS UNDERGO SLASH
SEATTLE, June 29.—(AP)—Temporary lumber production allotments from July 1 to September 1 were slashed by the West Coast Lumbermen's association today to the 368 mills in the Douglas fir region which had applied for them.

Each mill, regardless of its size, was allotted 216 hours of production for the 9-weeks period, with additional allotment expected to be made later covering the balance of the quarterly period.

Total footage of production for the third quarter allocated to the west coast by the national control committee of the lumber code authority totaled 1,100,000,000 board feet, about 14 per cent less than that allotted for the preceding quarter.

The decrease in allocation was attributed to low demand for lumber in the national markets and the accumulation of stocks at mills.

TALENT HEALTH GROUP REVIEWS WORK FOR YEAR

Talent committee of the Jackson County Health association held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Terrill Wednesday afternoon, with the following members present: Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Ashland; Mrs. Walter Engberg, Mrs. Ora Manning, Mrs. W. H. Higgins, Mrs. Everett Benson, Mrs. Ruth Holmes, Miss Blanche Runels and Mrs. Terrill. Mrs. Grant of Roseman, Mont., and Mrs. Frank Spencer of North Talent were guests.

Report of the annual meeting of the Jackson County Health association at the home of Mrs. Corning Kenley of Medford was read by the secretary.

Miss Runels also gave a report of the health work accomplished in Talent schools for the past year. Probably the most important phase in Talent this year was the tuberculosis testing. Miss Runels stated, "Eighty per cent of the school children, including high school, were tested, 5 per cent of which were positive. This percentage compares very favorably with other parts of Oregon, where it runs from 12 to 20 per cent positive. X-rays will be taken of all those who had positive reactions."

Miss Runels also reports that 87 per cent of the Talent school children are protected against diphtheria.

Dental care has been given to 38 children, and several pairs of glasses arranged for the family paying as much as they can and the Jackson County Public Health association the balance.

Talent had a number of crippled children attending the Dixon-DuRhunt clinic for crippled and psychiatric cases in October.

Miss Runels expressed appreciation for the excellent co-operation received from the school board, faculty and community.

July meeting of the Talent committee will be at Jackson Hot Springs with a picnic lunch at noon. RUTH A. HOLMES, Secretary.

Those killed while at work were W. E. Butler, Portland glass cutter; Leslie Barber, Nehalem truck worker, and H. S. Haling, Vernonia night watchman.

destitute citizens, in proportion to federal funds received for relief, than is indicated by statistics cited by Hopkins.

Hopkins recently telegraphed Governor Meier, who met with the committee today, that counties of Oregon are not contributing enough toward relief of their own unemployed, and that unless more was given, federal money would be withdrawn.

The relief committee expressed belief today that threatened withdrawal of a large share of the Oregon quota by Aug. 1 may be averted.

Pioneer's Talk Enlivens Dedication Program of New Span at Applegate

By Maude Pool

BIG APPLGATE, June 29.—(Sp.)—What might otherwise have been a somewhat solemn occasion was given a dash of old-fashioned humor when Logan Woolridge, graduate of a log school house at Missouri Flat addressed his audience as one of eleven pioneers honored at the dedication of the "Pioneer" bridge at Applegate Saturday afternoon.

"In the healthiest person in this crowd, have had no doctor bills in all of my seventy-nine years, and have never been in a hospital," Mr. Woolridge declared, "and I owe this to practice of the Golden Rule and to always voting the Democratic ticket." The pioneer climaxed his speech in a booming voice that carried to his listeners, in spite of the annoyance of a stiff afternoon breeze.

Assured in striped overalls, and with a corner of a blue bandana characteristically edging from a coat pocket, the rotund Mr. Woolridge opened his address with "young, good looking, bad and old," and told of his early boyhood at Missouri Flat, where there was no school district and where he attended school in a 1x16 log house in which a piece of muslin served in an aperture as a door.

The cabin stood on the Bassy place, now owned by Jim Cook, and possessed no desks and only backless benches to sit on, but to add interest to the school day routine, the speaker declared the teacher whipped him every day for three months.

This pioneer, who has lived on Applegate longer than any other person, has been away from his ranch home but a few times in his life, and says he has read but very little, drawing his conclusions from his own observations. He spoke briefly of the days of ferry boats, toll bridges, and lumber schooners at Crescent City. Mr. Woolridge is a good friend of everybody, and likes his neighbors and their wives, he declared, and for that reason "takes no stock in the tenth commandment."

In the zest of his speech he forgot a favorite topic, and later asked for a few moments in which he recalled among other historical facts, the naming of Graves creek, where a young girl, a member of a party of early adventurers piloted through southern Oregon by Lindsay and Jesse Applegate in 1846, was buried after a brief illness. Today the white oak tree that stood over the grave is destroyed, Mr. Woolridge said, and the Pacific highway covers the location of the grave.

Asking her mother, as a little child, where the gate was with the apples on it is the earliest recollection which Miss Mary A. Mee, 72, who has charge of a drug store at Central Point, has of the Applegate, she said. Miss Mee spoke to some extent of the terrific floods of '81 and '90, which swayed the first bridge in southern Oregon built at Applegate by her father, the late Thomas Mee, in 1873.

WOMEN PREFER BEARD IS CLAIM

MODERN women, like their sisters of '48, prefer bewhiskered men, Joseph Harris, veteran Ogden barber contends.

Freshly shaven men lack the masculine air of the heavy bearded wild western type, Harris said. Even today, a stocky growth of whiskers denotes real manhood and romance to the "weaker sex," though they won't admit it.

"Women still feel, down deep in their hearts, just as the actresses of '48 did, that a kiss without a beard is nothing, but one with a full beard is heaven."

However, the beard must be a type which meets the desires of women,

Harris said, and, because it takes too much time to train them, popular return of the Van Dyke beard, at least, is remote.

THIS LOST LUXURY CAN NOW BE YOURS

In the days of sailing ships there was keen rivalry to buy coffee that arrived in slow sailing packets from "round the horn." Such green coffees had aged or mellow'd during months of passage and, after roasting, made a rare brew. With the coming of rapid steam transportation, green coffees did not have time to age in transit. Mellowness became a lost luxury for years.

Today S&W achieves full mellowness in coffee by the art of blending. Many varieties of rare green coffees from different lands are used. Shade of flavor is added to shade of shade, until there results a MASTER FLAVOR... full, deep, mellow'd. This extra richness... this lost luxury... costs you no more.

BICKERDIKES TAKE 4-SQUARE PULPIT

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Bickerdike have just been appointed by Rev. T. R. Jackman of Portland, assistant district supervisor of the Foursquare church, as pastors of the Medford church of that denomination. Mr. and Mrs. Bickerdike have taken up their abode in the Foursquare church building, corner of Fourth and Bartlett.

Both are graduates of the Angelus Temple Theological school at Los Angeles and have had several years' successful service in their field of labor in California and Oregon. They are well known in the Rogue River valley, having moved from Illinois in 1913, residing in the valley many years since that time.

SKILLED LABOR SHORTAGE SEEN

SCRANTON, Pa.—(UP)—An increase in the tempo of industrial activity has revealed a dearth of skilled labor in many lines, regional directors of the International Correspondence schools report to officials of the schools here.

"One of the unexpected results of the depression years," Ralph E. Weeks, president of the schools, said, "is that now when an industry urgently needs highly skilled men, it finds in many cases there are not a sufficient number to fill the demand."
