DOG CAN WARBLE 5 MUSICAL NOTES
CINCINNATI—(UP)—Did you ever hear a dog singing? Well, Mrs. Anna Alexander did. She owns such a dog, Tim.

Irene Dunn Scores in Craterian Film
For those seeking real entertainment, and for those who appreciate good singing, "Stingaree" now at the Craterian theater, will completely satisfy.

A dramatic romance, colored by charming music "Stingaree" is well acted by Richard Dix in the title role and by Irene Dunne, whose lovely voice is heard in several song numbers, both popular and operatic. Her singing of "Tonight is Mine," particularly is of exceptional value.

The only disappointment in hearing her beautiful voice is that it has taken almost five years to bring it to the screen, even though it was her success in musicals that first won her fame on the stage.

Like many other geniuses, Tim had humble beginnings. His lineage is undistinguished and in appearance he is part spaniel and part wire-haired terrier.

Tim has made one public appearance. Last year, he participated in an amateur night at a theater and was awarded a prize for his ability.

"Massacre" Opens At Studio Today

"Massacre" is an unusual romance with the unique love triangle of a wealthy white society girl as the rival of an Indian maid for the heart of a Sioux brave.

Barthelmess has the role of the Indian youth, whose magnificent physique and dare-devil riding sets the hearts of the gentler sex a-flutter.

Ann Dvorak plays the part of the Indian maid, while Claire Dodd is the flirtatious society siren.

The picture is said to be crammed with fast action and thrilling episodes.

Western Star on Rialto Bill

John Wayne, popular western star, is at the Rialto theater today and Saturday in "The Man From Utah" as one-half of the double feature program. Crammed with action and horsemanship, "The Man From Utah" should satisfy all lovers of outdoor drama. Tim McCoy is on the same program as a daring firefighter in "A Man's Game."

Australia is the locale of the story; the time is the 70's. Ambitious, but impossible to the point of being laugh-packed farce comedy, Mary Boland sings and waits for the arrival of a famous British impresario, while her household is being tortured.

Stingaree, the Robin Hood of the era, and Stingaree is captured and sent to jail. Later he escapes, and when Miss Dunne in the role of Hilda, the maid, sing. Posing as the long-awaited impresario, he gives her the theme song, and learning her story of dejected opportunity, he kidnaps her. Later, after love has blossomed between the two, Stingaree and his gunman, Andy Devine, hold up the musical and force the impresario to listen to Hilda's singing. She wins fame, and Stingaree is captured and sent to jail.

Later he escapes, and when Miss Dunne in the role of Hilda, the maid, sing. Posing as the long-awaited impresario, he gives her the theme
