GRAND JURY NEAR END OF PROBINGS LIBEL PAMPHLET

The grand jury, Floyd Ross, Central Point, foreman, reconvened this morning, and is scheduled to conclude its session today.

The grand jury adjourned a week ago to await collection of new evidence in the "Black Political Plot Exposed" pamphlet, circulated in this city and county on the eve of the last primary election. E. L. Fitch, detained in the county jail since May 19, and May Murray, at liberty on $1000 bonds, are charged as circulators of the pamphlet, with criminal libel and malicious mischief, under Oregon law.

The text of the pamphlet attacked the state police, district attorney, courts and jury system, and contained personal attacks on individuals. It also contained an affidavit made by a former prison mate of the imprisoned E. H. Fehl, in which he asserted he saw the vote stealing from a county jail window. The evidence in the libel trial showed he was incarcerated in the Douglas county jail at the time. In the pamphlet, the charge is also made that Fehl was "railroaded" to the penitentiary. A Klamath county jury found him guilty in 12 minutes.

The grand jury previously reported four indictments. Three were for liquor violations, and Evan L. Crow and Chester O. Webb, youths, were indicted for taking an auto belonging to Perry L. Ashcraft, Ashland garage-man, without his permission.

Walker says the highlight of the trip was his landing of a 38-pound salmon while fishing in the sound.

Bob Hinman Injured—Bob Hinman was treated Sunday at the Sacred Heart hospital for a fractured kneecap which he sustained several weeks ago when he slipped on a curb during employment for Fisher's bakery. His leg was put in a cast, which will be necessary to remain for six weeks before the injury is healed.
