

SHAMEFUL WASTE OF WATER SUPPLY SEEN IN MEDFORD

Referring to a notice to water users elsewhere in this paper, Water Superintendent Robert A. Duff had the following to say:

"It seems to be a trait of some humans to waste when there is plenty. This peculiarity is demonstrated by some of the citizens of Medford in the way they abuse the unrestricted water privileges.

"On some streets and in some blocks water runs for hours from saturated parking strips and lawns into the gutters. This water benefits no one, and is an absolute shameful waste. No doubt these individuals do not realize that they are hastening the time when the whole town will be put on meters." Duff pointed out that many towns and cities in the country today due to conditions of drought have no water at all for lawns or gardens and that domestic supplies are being rationed out to some. "How welcome that water that washes our gutters would be to these people," he continued.

"Perhaps if these people that continually and wantonly waste water knew of the impression that this practice creates with their neighbors, their pride at least would deter them."

INSURANCE COMPANIES INVEST MOST MONEY IN MORTGAGE LOANS

SALEM, Ore.—(UP)—Nearly half of the money invested in Oregon by insurance companies is in mortgage loans on city and farm property, records of Insurance Commissioner A. H. Averill showed today.

Of the $118,658,182 invested at the close of 1933, $56,092,16 was in mortgage loans.

Next largest investment, $39,028,850, was in interurban, street railway and railroad bonds, school, state, road, municipal and miscellaneous bonds purchased amounting to $25,139,905.

Life insurance companies owned $5,982,682 in real estate.

They had the following investments in Oregon: Mortgage loans, $54,808,844; interurban, street railway and railway bonds, $24,800,872; state, school road, municipal and miscellaneous, $14,850,519.

Prudential benefit societies had $7,954,951 invested, including $5,838,059 in state, school, road, municipal and miscellaneous bonds.

Eagles Auxiliary Aids Grants Pass Unit Organization

On Saturday afternoon, July 7, a group of 16 ladies of the auxiliary of Crater Lake Aerie, P. O. E. journeyed to Grants Pass to witness the organization of an auxiliary to the Grants Pass Aerie by State President D. D. Hale, who signed up a membership of 32 charter members.

Local ladies who assisted in the organization were: Lula E. Thurston, M. P.; Bertha Coats, conductor; Mrs. Geo. Tucker, Mrs. Geppert, Catherine Gillette and Mrs. Shafer.

In the evening, the Medford mixed drill team, which received third prize at the state convention, took part in a street parade led by the Grants Pass Eagle drum corps. This was followed by a dance and supper.
