

END CODE MAKING WITHIN MONTH IS HOPE NRA CHIEFS

Bind All Energies Toward Final Cleanup—Next Step in Plan Will Be Pushing of Enforcement Program

By WILLIAM L. BEALE, Jr.
WASHINGTON, July 13.—(AP)—NRA focused every energy today on the big job of completing blue eagle code-making within 30 days.

"We are all set," said Robert K. Straus, youthful chairman of the three-man committee named by Hugh S. Johnson for the clean-up task. "Every division of NRA is pushing the plan," Straus said. "We want to clean up every code in the building in 30 days."

Johnson set limit. The time limit was set by Johnson just before he flew westward on a speaking and vacation trip. Simultaneously, the NRA chief promulgated a "basic code" designed for the scores of still uncodified small industries.

Straus described the program outlined by Johnson to end code-making and free NRA for enforcement work as falling in four parts. "First," he said, "there are industries for which we will continue to develop individual codes."

In this group were ranked 135 pending codes on which NRA wants an agreement within two weeks. Also, there were codes described as having "special and important economic, labor or legal conditions."

These do not come under the basic code offer, but will have individual codes developed. The class includes shipping, anthracite coal, communications, and all the major utility and fabricated structural steel industries.

Some Will Merge. "Second," Straus said, "we have industries which will choose to merge with existing kindred codes."

NRA expects most of the uncodified industries to choose this method. It will speed up the plan of consolidating all blue eagle codes, already numbering 476, to the lowest possible number, probably 300 for the immediate future.

"In the third class we have industries applying for the basic code and finally, those which will do nothing," Straus explained.

Johnson's order "for completion of code making" said "it is not intended by this plan to force all the remaining uncodified industries under codes." But he raised the possibility of imposition of a code on recalcitrants by saying:

"As to any such industry not yet codified which does not apply for such basic code or for consolidation as above, within 30 days after the date hereof and in which the administrator shall determine that wages, hours and conditions of labor constitute an abuse inimical to the public interest and contrary to the policy of said act, the administrator will, within 40 days after the date hereof provide for a hearing to determine whether a code covering hours of labor, rates of pay and other working conditions shall not be prescribed thereunder."

Straus said that each NRA division would contact industries with which it has had negotiations and make suggestions as to the best procedure for codification.

The committee, composed of himself, Leon Marshall and George S. Brady, will receive and assemble reports from the divisions and report in turn to Johnson.

Wages, Hours Blank. The basic code promulgated by Johnson leaves the wage and hour requirements blank. It provided that these figures should be taken from those in related codes.

The basic agreement guarantees labor's right of collective bargaining, bans child labor, sets safety, health and related standard rules, establishes a system of open-price reporting and permits the later addition of other fair trade practices if 75 per cent or more of the industry approve.

Johnson also created a "general NRA code authority" to administer the basic code. It has the general powers accorded code authorities and will designate agents to receive the filings of "prices, rebates, discounts, commissions and conditions of sale."

Price Plan Defined. The price-filing plan corresponds to NRA's recent announcement that minimum prices would not be set in the future except for stated periods of "emergency" which threaten the purpose of the recovery law.

Prices filed are immediately effective as are price revisions. Members of an industry must adhere to their listed prices. The agent for the authority is required to distribute simultaneously to all members of the industry prices listed with him. "Willfully destructive price cutting" is forbidden as an unfair method of competition.

Orchard Workers Being Recruited. Orchard workers for harvesting this year's fruit crop are being lined up for all orchards of the valley by the National Re-employment office in the city hall. Manager Lewis Ulrich has announced. Pickers are being recruited at the re-employment office and sent to orchardists who need men. Picking will start about July 20, it is thought.

Orcharders are co-operating with the re-employment office in securing labor, and together with the managers of major packing establishments, have agreed to hire no outside help this year.
