

GASOLINE SUPPLY IN OREGON CITIES ENOUGH FOR WEEK

Dealers Arrange Pools—Salem Faces Shortage—Klamath Has Ten Days Ration.

Shell Oil authorities in this city announced today that their supply of second grade fuel is rapidly dwindling, and that probability of obtaining new shipments is very slight. The supply is said to be sufficient for several days to come, but that if present conditions continue, it will then be cut off entirely. First grade fuel shipments have been unaffected as yet, it is stated, and no immediate change in this supply is expected by distributors. One Shell service station operator is said today to have warned a motorist that a tankful of Green Streak gasoline pumped into his car today will probably be his last for some time.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., July 14.—(AP)—A gasoline supply sufficient to last ten days exists in Klamath Falls, it was announced today following a meeting of all dealers in the district.

Tentative plans have been made whereby one dealer will co-operate with others in the event of a shortage in any one company. Railroads have been shipping fuel in here steadily since the first of the month. There has been no increase in price.

ROSEBURG, Ore., July 14.—(AP)—Major oil companies serving Roseburg and vicinity last night arranged a pool of gasoline supplies to meet the possibility of a shortage in this district. Reports of the existing reserve show sufficient gallons to supply all ordinary needs for at least one week without restriction. Three of the companies expect delivery of tank car shipments by Monday. Prices are unchanged but dealers report they expect an advance sufficient to meet the advanced cost of rail transportation.

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—Shortage in gasoline stocks here has as yet brought no raise in price, the first structure motor oil still selling at 22 1/2 cents per gallon.

L. B. Endicott, spokesman for the oil company managers in this district, stated the combined stock of all companies here amounted to about 60,000 gallons, which would take care of the normal demand until over the week end. About 24,000 gallons had been received by rail shipment, and more was expected soon.

MORROW EDUCATOR NAMED STATE HEAD SUPERINTENDENTS

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—Lucy Rodgers, superintendent of schools of Morrow county, was today elected president of the county school superintendents' association at the closing session of the group here today. The convention has been in progress here since Thursday.

The new president succeeds T. F. Brumbaugh of Wasco county. Other officers elected today were Laurence Moffitt of Lane county, vice-president, and Anne Lewis, Clatsop county, secretary-treasurer.

The association today went on record as stressing "national patriotism and love of country," in order to build into the character of the boys and girls the "right attitude toward our sacred institutions of home, school, church and state." This was one of the chief objectives of the next year. Other objectives approved were maintenance of rural schools for a minimum of 8 1/2 months of school in every operating district; promotion of consolidated schools where local conditions will permit, promotion of music and health programs.

Game warden of Santa Barbara county, Cal., seized several creeks of 2,120 young steelhead trout and transferred them to deeper streams as they were about to be landlocked owing to low water.

PICTORIAL RECORD OF JUBILEE TO BE SHOWN AT GRANGE

Motion pictures of Oregon's Diamond Jubilee celebration will be shown at Central Point Grange hall, Friday evening, July 20, at 8 o'clock. These are the pictures taken by H. D. Kern, of Medford, and were made to obtain a historical record of the celebration of Oregon's 75 years of statehood. Members of the Jubilee committee have previewed the films and are enthusiastic in their praise of the excellent photography and treatment of a difficult subject. The true pioneer spirit back of the celebration has been captured by the camera and a complete story is told in a most entertaining manner.

Mr. Kern is head of the advertising department of the California Oregon Power company.

Beginning with the first announcement that the celebration of Oregon's 75th anniversary would be held in Jackson county, the smooth flowing story proceeds to show the spreading of the news of the forthcoming celebration, the hurry and bustle of preparation in advance of the crowds, the arrival of visitors including the special trains of the Shriners and the 17 airships from southern California (showing their flight over the Siskiyou from the air), the true pioneer spirit of the United States Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's visit to honor Oregon pioneers, night scenes of the coronation of the daughter of Oregon's first governor, as queen, the rodeo, with close ups of its thrills and spills, the crowds that filled the streets, the preparation and assembling of the multitude, in pioneer costumes, that participated in the parade (many of them real pioneers), the magnificent spectacle of the parade, and the fashion show of the historical wedding gowns that were worn when Oregon was born, are some of the highlights of the film.

Some of the scenes photographed are the only records in existence of these historical events. Mr. Kern was persuaded to go to considerable personal effort and expense to obtain these pictures because of the historical importance of the celebration.

W. B. Roberts, of Medford, will supervise the musical accompaniment and sound part of the program. In addition to the three reels of Diamond Jubilee pictures a two reel amateur comedy will also be shown. Miss Harriet Sparrow, of Central Point, is in charge of the program and is receiving congratulations upon the success of her efforts to secure the first public showing of this picture. The program is open to the public and a large crowd is expected.

HAWTHORNE, NOTED WRITER OF THE 90'S TO FINAL REWARD

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Julian Hawthorne, who died today in San Francisco, was the last of a group of American romantic novelists of the glittering 80's and 90's.

One of the most prolific writers in American letters, far more voluminous than his famous father, Nathaniel, Julian Hawthorne once enjoyed a vogue as a story teller, but today his books are forgotten and his name evokes only a ghost of the past.

Of his literary contemporaries, not one is left, and with Julian's death a phase of American letters, wraith-like now in perspective, comes to an end.

In Julian's heyday there was the social lion, Edgar Fawcett, who wrote sixty novels, and exclaimed that his work would be immortal. He is gone and his books quite forgotten. Edgar Saltus, another contemporary, who recorded Fawcett's remarks only to add "I think he is wholly dead," likewise is dead, and he felt a surer of immortality than Fawcett the world failed to endorse his views.

Harold Frederic was another of the period, a huge, hearty fellow who managed to leave at least one masterpiece. With these costs troop those of John Habberton, Edward Bellamy, Guy Whetmore, Carl H. C. Bunner, Thomas A. Janvier, Henry Harland, and figures even more tenuous and shadowy.

Hawthorne had a hand in nearly a hundred books and in his writing days he was turning them out at the rate of half a dozen a year—novels, biographies, essays, histories, reminiscences.

He probably was the first American author frankly to confess that he wrote for his bread and butter and not for literary fame, although the latter came to his transitory. Fifty years ago he published a book expounding his literary philosophy in which may be found this statement: "Almost everything I have written has been written from necessity; and there is very little of it that I shall not be glad to see forgotten."

But he wrote many volumes after that.

T. B. CLINIC FINDS NEW, ACTIVE CASES BY EXAMINATIONS

A clinic for the early diagnosis of tuberculosis was held in the Sparrow Memorial clinic in Medford Tuesday and Wednesday of this week by Dr. G. C. Bellinger, superintendent of the Oregon State Tuberculosis sanitarium, under the auspices of the Jackson County Public Health association and the Jackson County Medical society.

The importance of early recognition and treatment was brought out by the clinic. According to Dr. Bellinger, tuberculosis is a preventable and curable disease. Early discovery, prompt and adequate treatment gives us the brightest outlook in the control of tuberculosis.

During the two-day period, 48 children and adults were examined, some of whom were old cases, some arrested cases and several new active cases found by the tuberculin testing campaign. The clinic was part of the early diagnosis campaign sponsored by the Jackson County Public Health association, which began this spring.

Approximately 750 tuberculin tests were done on the school children in Phoenix, Talent, Prospect, Rogue River and Gold Hill. Those children showing positive reactions were X-rayed. Funds for the X-rays were provided by the Public Health association in those cases where the parents were unable to pay for this service. These funds came from donations and the sale of Christmas seals.

The transportation of the children for X-rays and examinations was furnished by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary. Many trips were made to distant parts of the county by this organization. This is part of the good work the Legion is doing to aid in the fight against tuberculosis.

Twenty-seven new cases of tuberculosis were reported in Jackson county last year with seven deaths. "Tuberculin testing is of great value, not only in finding new cases of tuberculosis," said Dr. Bellinger, "but also is the only method we have of determining the degree of infection in any group of people. For instance in testing schools it is frequently found that one school has a much higher degree of infection than normal. Investigation will ordinarily disclose an open case is infecting the rest of the children. I understand one of the Jackson county high schools has over 40 per cent positive reactors whereas ordinarily the positives in the high schools in Oregon should be around 18-20 per cent. It has been since found that there is a high incidence of tuberculosis in the milk cattle in that region and also that a positive case of tuberculosis was removed from the school last year by your health department. In other counties in the state similar situations are frequently brought to light by tuberculin testing."

It was also disclosed by Dr. Bellinger that in Oregon the most deaths from tuberculosis occur in men between the ages of 40-50, rather than in the age group 15-25 as in most states in this country.

NRA PROTECTION TO SMALL FIRMS

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—NRA today created an industrial appeals board for the special protection of small businesses against monopolies.

Amos J. Pealoe, a New York attorney, was named chairman, and John S. Clement, a Philadelphia manufacturer, one of the other two members. The third member will be chosen shortly.

The board, which will organize August 1, was established in an order by Hugh S. Johnson. The official announcement did not say so, but at NRA the new appeals court was regarded as Johnson's way of handling the monopolistic charges against blue eagle codes which Clarence Darrow's review board originally was named to do.

The Darrow board, which has passed out of existence by President Roosevelt's order, in three reports said NRA was fostering monopolies. The charges were denied just as vigorously by Johnson.

FEDERAL RAIDER HELD FOR DEATH SLEEPING WOMAN

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 14.—(AP)—Lear B. Reed, agent in charge of the department of justice here, was arrested today after the slaying of Mrs. Deate Masterson, shot and killed in bed during a raid by officers at her home.

Mrs. Masterson, 44-year-old mother of five children, was shot in the head as she arose from the bed where she had been sleeping with her 9-year-old daughter.

Reed was arrested on orders from John J. McCarthy, acting chief of police, who said a complete investigation of the slaying would be made. He was released on $5,000 bonds pending the coroner's inquest Monday.

Bond of $5000 was required also for Harry Newbold, St. Louis county deputy sheriff, who was a member of the raiding party. Police said Newbold was standing beside Reed when the fatal shots were fired.

Police said Reed, heading the raiding party, fired two shots through the door of the Masterson home last night when the door was not opened in response to his demand. The officers were searching for the machine gun used in the assassination May 12 of John C. Johnson, negro state witness in the Dr. Isaac D. Kelley kidnaping case.

200 KIDDIES GAIN DAILY JOYS FROM SERA. PLAY PLAN

More than 200 children are taking advantage each day of the recreational and educational benefits being offered in this community by the S. E. R. A., through the efforts of the Jackson county relief committee, as a part of the nation-wide program of the Federal Emergency Relief act. Miss Gilda Boone, recreation project supervisor of the Jackson county committee, is in charge of the work.

At the Howard-Berrydale playground and the city playground located on Bear creek at the Main street bridge, interest is growing among the children in a series of athletic contests including volley-ball, tennis, horseshoe pitching and captain-ball, and in entertainment programs that include boat-building, sewing, and story-telling. Tournaments are now in progress, the winners of which will be announced next week, Miss Boone stated.

An alteration in hours at the playgrounds has been made to accommodate the older people who come for evening recreation, and are now 11 a. m. to 7 p. m. at the city grounds and 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. at the Howard school. The grounds are under supervision during these hours every day except Sunday. For the older evening crowds Miss Boone plans to organize tournaments in horseshoe pitching, volley-ball, kitchen-ball and other interesting activities, so that a full schedule of entertainment will be afforded.

Much interest is being taken by the younger children at the city grounds in the model boat building project being conducted there. A special day has been set for the near future when a regatta will be held in the wading pool which will include contests for boats constructed at the playground, and others for toy boats brought from home. The exact date for this event will be announced later, Miss Boone said. It should prove of great interest to parents and friends, as many attractive models will display handiwork of the youngsters who are taking part.

Life guards will be on duty during all classes to insure the safety of the participants, and the whole program will be carefully handled. These classes are in no way connected with the Red Cross program, and will continue all summer, Miss Boone said, if the turnout is large. All children interested are urged to attend Monday's classes, and 50 or more participants are desired each morning. An admission of 10 cents will be charged for the use of the tank. Miss Boone stated, and it will be necessary to have children furnish their own towels and suits.

Another feature of the S. E. R. A. recreational program that has provided young boys of the community valuable athletic training is the Second League baseball team, sponsored by the American Legion. The league is under the direct supervision of Alexander LeVon, and practices are held at the Jackson school grounds every day except Sunday, from 9 to 11 a. m. C. L. Walsh, athletic director of the American Legion, is in charge of the sponsorship of the league, which, he states, will furnish good material for future American Legion Junior teams. The Legion has provided much of the equipment necessary for maintenance of the league.

Average turnouts of 20 to 22 boys each day have awarded Mr. LeVon's efforts, and he states that the boys are developing into good material. Two teams have been organized to date, and two more will be formed when the league is complete. Mr. LeVon stated. Games are played with in the league, and players will be interchanged in the near future for games with the Legion Juniors. A game will also be scheduled with the Ashland Juniors.

Boys are urged to report to the Jackson school grounds for enrollment. Among those who have been registered already in the league are: Jim Lewis, Bill Andye, Bob Kempe, George Gitzon, Bob Newland, Winston Campbell, John Jennings, Bob Robinson, Al Piche, Glenn Shaw, Eugene Shaw, John Gitzon, Floyd Andy, James Reddy, Bob Chipman, D. Gibson, N. Woods, Bob Vertick, Bob Wilson and Bob Robinson. Campbell and Robinson are captains of the two teams now organized.

Miss Boone, as director of the Medford program, stated yesterday that appreciation is extended for the many kinds of help that have been offered for the maintenance of the recreational work in this community. The P. T. A., Miss Boone stated, deserves praise for the aid its members have given, and for the considerable credit that they have secured from various stores in Medford. Miss Boone also extended appreciation to these stores and to the American Legion, whose support she said, has been invaluable.

The program operates entirely through courtesies and donations, as the committee is provided no money for the many features of the recreational work, and help through organizations and individuals is its chief means of maintenance.
