Ye Smudge Pot
By Arthur Perry.
Citizens continue to take to the woods, on vacations—not because of the general mess.

Members of the state division of the Postcard Readers Union met here Sat. and closed their session with the inevitable dance.

Fine ice cream parlor weather prevails, with a breeze in the afternoon, that leaves the pears on the trees, but blows things off desks.

The Bob Strang mustache has taken another twist for the worst, after being shaped like the letter L for a long period.

A gent who was on the courthouse steps the last three months of 1933, passed through Thru, and issued an ultimatum to the Red Cross to "fork over some of that government money, as I got to get to Seattle."

Candidates have started clearing their throats for the autumn election horrors.

The oldest Carl Fichtner boy has laid himself liable to a shivaree.

The Bill Gore Corner diplomats have adjourned to the shade.

Col. Tou Valer of Jville has returned from a sortie into the south.

Conditions are beginning to shape up so Mr. and Mrs. John J. Public will know how to vote in the fall, without anybody telling them.

A California millionaire was here two days last week, spending money like he was getting it from the government.

O. Hunt of the magic lantern show had a man making his organ last week. The musician astounded the audience by maliciously executing a tune they had heard before, instead of a classical number in F.

Editorial Correspondence

ROCKFORD, Illinois, July 11.—One is inclined to regard this part of Illinois as much older than Oregon. As part of a state it is older of course, though not much older,—but as a settlement, it is younger.

We have heard many comments on this pioneer pageant, which establish the fact that it had its amusing features. For example: the first scene was an Indian camp, established at the portals of a GREEK TEMPLE!

Directly FOLLOWING a Civil War panorama, showing the boys in blue and the boys in grey engaged in mortal combat, a tableau depicting the Underground Railway was put on. This was only a slight anachronism.

Among the theatrical impedimenta from the Century of Progress, was a dilapidated stage coach, so of course a stage holdup was in order. Then to show that in the good old days—in contrast with modern—justice always prevailed, the two highwaymen were stood up, and shot down by a posse of avenging vigilantes.

This tableau went off satisfactorily until the last night. The vigilantes raised their wooden guns, and a certain property man back stage fired a six-shooter, whereupon one of the blindfolded bandits dropped.

On the last night however the off stage gun shooter, probably relieved that the celebration was about over, filled up liberally on ten percent beer. The vigilantes raised their wooden guns, the order to fire was given, but there was no bang, and so of course Bandit No. 1 did not drop.

We know by sad experience how dangerous it is to write humorously of such an epoch making event, as a city's Centennial celebration, and while the Mail Tribune doesn't circulate very extensively here, we know that there will be at least ONE ex-Rockfordite in Oregon, who will send this article to some of the old folks at home, and the present writer will be held up as a traducer of his birthplace, and a liar par excellence.

It is their story not ours. We are merely repeating it, because we are shy of material for today and think that with the Diamond Jubilee, in Medford so fresh in the minds of the people, such incidents may be of general interest.

We might add the Rockford Centennial was an outstanding success, financially, the net proceeds being turned over to the Community Chest. Everyone had a good time, particularly the boy and girl scouts, who whenever there was a hull in the program were allowed to march around the stage so there would be no hitch in the proceedings.

A Practical Message

To the Editor: Before me is the printed broadcast message of President F. D. Roosevelt of June 28. A very practical message, full of courage and the will to do.

1. Are you better off today than you were a year ago?
2. Are your debts less burdensome?
3. Is your bank account more secure?

4. Are your working conditions better?
5. Is your faith in your own individual future more firmly grounded?

6. Have you as an individual paid too high a price for those gains?
7. Have you lost any of your rights or liberty or constitutional freedom of action or choice?

8. Have you as an individual paid too high a price for those gains?

Personal Health Service

By William Brady, M.D.
Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene not to disease diagnosis or treatment will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

WINE IS A MOCKER
The alcoholic propaganda is a subtle, there is a lot of hokum relating to the choice, storage and serving of wine, and the pathetic eagerness of the would-be snobs of this country to seem sophisticated.

Wine or beer, thanks to the effective alcoholic propaganda. These people should have no illusions about the effects of alcohol upon youth.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY
BY O. O. McIntyre
NEW YORK, July 14.—I dipped far back into the past a day this week and visited the incubator of these daily trifles.

On which I typed and mimeographed my screeds to send free, hopefully and vicariously to editors over the land.

To be sure I had often returned crushed and dumb to stare out the window in melancholic stupor most of the night.

The little bathroom, outside of which I smoked cigarettes furiously while my wife fractured the inviolable rule "No talking allowed," seemed in advanced stages of lost grandeur.

Our New York neighborhood of 20 years ago was to us exciting, vital and thrilling. From our cubby hole we looked out upon rows of the stately and vanished brownstones.

Through the Archway of Room 121, however, was a vista of many pleasant backward memories.

SALEM, July 14.—(AP)—Opposition to the 20 per cent tax limitation initiative measure which will be on the November ballot, because it has "no provision for our public schools to obtain any portion of the funds taken from them," was voted in a resolution passed by the County School Superintendents' association in session here today.

The resolution, prepared by the committee on "school legislation," of which C. R. Boehman of Jackson county is chairman, stated that "until a plan for financing the schools can be made complete, it is the opinion of this committee that no such drastic legislation can receive its recommendation," adding however that "the idea of obtaining relief for property tax is one in which we are all interested."

Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
AS THESE lines are written, this ominous headline stares from the front page: "GENERAL STRIKE DRAWS NEAR."

THERE are two parties to the strike controversy—employers and employees. Each wants what the other is unwilling to give.

AND when wars get started, EVERYBODY loses. It will be the same way if there is a general strike.

IT isn't strictly accurate to say there are only two parties to the strike. There are THREE, the public being the third.

EVERYBODY who is fat wants to be slim, because at this particular period of history it is FASHIONABLE to be slim.

IT seems a pity we can't convince fat people that the REAL way to get slim is to eat potatoes and pears and prunes—all good products of Southern Oregon.

IF PEOPLE can't get bananas, they will have to eat something else to get slim. Maybe they'll turn to potatoes, pears and prunes.

AND here's a curious thing: If people quit eating bananas, because they can't get them, the banana belt will lose its markets, and when it loses its markets it will lose its BUYING POWER.

When it loses its buying power, it will no longer be able to purchase the things we have been selling to it in the past.

So, you see, we will suffer along with the banana belt because we are no longer able to eat bananas.

PORTLAND, July 14.—(AP)—James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman for the national Democratic committee, will be in Portland July 24. He will arrive from San Francisco at 3:45 p. m., and will leave for Seattle at 11:30 p. m.

SALEM, Ore., July 14.—(AP)—The state board of control would not have authority to enter into a contract for payment of rent in the new city-county-state building in the city of Portland, if the sum exceeds the constitutional indebtedness limitation of the state—$50,000—Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle ruled in an opinion today.

The Montana Lumber Manufacturers' association reported its mills cut more than 102,000,000 board feet during 1933 and that shipments exceeded the cut by one-fourth.
