

SILENT PARTNERS OF MEDICINE RISK LIVES FOR CURES

Four New York Physicians Submit to Trial of New Infant Paralysis Vaccine — Refuse to Discuss Case

By HOWARD W. BLAKELEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Four New York physicians, submitting to the scratch of infantile paralysis vaccine needles, have joined a dramatic but unnumbered company of doctors who have volunteered their own bodies for experiment — the "silent partners" of medical discovery.

The New Yorkers are trying one of the first paralytic vaccines to be used on human beings. Heretofore such vaccination has been too dangerous and doubtful for anything except animals. They say they are taking no risks, and it's nothing to talk about. That phrase — "nothing to talk about" — pictures the whole company, past and present, and the sort of courage they possess, a bravery that does without boasting. Although medical men say there have been thousands of such self-experiments, medical literature runs true to form — it doesn't record them any better than the physicians themselves.

SINCLAIR'S NOVELS BANNED BY NAZIS

BERLIN, July 19.—(AP)—All novels and other literature by Upton Sinclair, widely known American author, were ordered confiscated and banned today.

Sinclair's books have been among the best sellers in Germany. The present ban was described officially as "legal" action, since Sinclair's books have been "morally" forbidden in Prussia by the decree of February, 1933, against subversive literature. Sinclair's volumes were among those burned in the bonfire of Premier Hermann Wilhelm Goering of Prussia, May 6, 1933.

Sinclair for years was a leading publicist of the socialist party in America. But last fall in announcing he would be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of California he said the collapse of socialism before Nazis in Germany showed the "futility" of building up a socialist party in the United States along strict party lines.

ELEMENT NO. 93 FOUND AT LAST

(Copyright, the Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 19.—(P)—A pinch of yellow salt, made largely of something science hitherto supposed likely to exist only in stars, has been extracted from pitchblende in Czechoslovakia.

This salt, 115 milligrams, or about enough to season a breakfast omelet, is the rarest, newest and scientifically the most precious stuff in creation. Its basic substance is reported the heaviest material ever found.

The salt is the first tangible evidence of the existence of the long-sought and long-doubted element number 93. Periodic table scientist, recently announced he had created artificially a heavy substance that appeared to be element number 93, by bombarding uranium, the heaviest known element, with neutron rays.

FOREST SHOW BOAT VISITS ROGUE CAMP

A. C. Jackson and Phillip Baxter of the forest educational service visited Camp Upper Rogue yesterday with their "Snow Boat" truck, entertaining the members with a program of films and colored slides depicting various phases of the work of the forest service in Oregon.

The films were of particular interest to the new men in the company, who joined about July 1. The colored slides of scenic spots throughout the state, were shown and explained by Mr. Baxter.

Mr. and Mrs. McReynolds of the Medford forest service office were guests of the camp last night.

NOTICE

To the people who were up Nine-mile creek Sunday, July 15th, in green Essex sedan, will find it to their interest to call at 308 Hamilton St., Medford, Ore.

NEPOTISM PERILS GAME COMMISSION EFFICIENCY, CLAIM

SALEM, July 19.—(AP)—Charges of nepotism within the ranks of the state game commission, and claims that a plan was on foot to place Marion Corrigan, son of Chairman Matt Corrigan in the position of bird hatchery supervisor, now held by Gene Simpson, were brought forth by a group of 70 sportsmen meeting here last night.

After lauding Simpson as "one of the most efficient pleasant men in the United States," the group authorized the appointment of a committee to investigate Simpson's work and make a public report of the game bird situation. The sportsmen described the present commission as "no friend of game" in not co-operating with Simpson.

The charges of nepotism arose from the fact that Marion Corrigan was employed at the bird hatcheries in Eugene, in violation of a policy ruling by the commission of April 10, 1933, in which it held that nepotism practices were "not sound public policy" and often resulted in "operating inefficiency."

Similar charges, contained in a telegram from the Pendleton Hunters' and Anglers' club were read.

13 OF CIRCUIT JUDGES RESTORE SALARIES TO PRE-DEPRESSION BASE

SALEM, July 19.—(P)—At the present time 13 out of the 28 circuit judges in the state have restored or retained the full salaries to which they were entitled by law, a survey by the Oregon Statesman reveals.

At one time all but two of the judges had taken a voluntary reduction in pay, as suggested by the 1933 legislature, varying in amount from $50 to $100 a month. Monthly salaries allowed by law range from $416.66 to $500.

Any reduction or restoration of salary by a circuit judge in Oregon is purely voluntary, as the constitution prohibits the legislature or executive department of the state from reducing the salary of any judge while he is in office, thus allowing him at any time to increase his salary to its normal rate.

At the beginning of the voluntary salary reduction program a number of judges drew their full salary but refunded 50 per cent to the state. The treasurer's office revealed that no such refund had been made for several months.

The 13 judges still taking the self-imposed cut in salary were George R. Bagley, James T. Brand, James W. Crawford, B. L. Eddy, W. A. Ekwall, Arthur D. Hay, Carl Hendrick, Louis P. Hewitt, Jacob Kanzer, J. W. Knowles, L. G. Lewelling, C. H. McCulloch, C. L. Sweet, W. W. Wood and H. K. Zimmerman.

'MAD' HATTERS BACK TO WORK

DANBURY, Conn., July 19.—(P)—The strike of 1,000 workers in six hatters' fur-cutting factories was settled today, ending a nine-weeks dispute over wages and collective bargaining.

As fast as places could be found for them, the strikers reported back to their machines.

An agreement signed said, relative to collective bargaining: "The undersigned employer agrees to deal collectively with his employees through a shop committee of said
