In Gambler Role at Craterian

Clark Gable, starred in "Manhattan Melodrama," starting a three-day run at the Craterian theatre today, with Myrna Loy and William Powell also featured, is once again a gambler—suave and reckless, the sort of role that won him screen fame.

Laid in New York, the picture presents Gable as a big shot gambler, powerful and dramatic figure of the city's smart night life—not hesitating to use violence when he is crossed.

Powell is the district attorney who, reared with Gable and always his friend, is forced to choose between faithfulness to his public trust and prosecution of his pal for murder.

Myrna Loy is the woman in both their lives, loved by both.

"Wonder Bar" Romantic Musical

The mammoth musical and dramatic spectacle, "Wonder Bar," opens at the Studio theatre today. Spectacles spice the dramatic production which has been staged on a grand scale, the locale being a night club of gay Paris, the story centering about the entertainers.

Al Jolson has the same role he played on the stage, as entertainer de luxe.
