Star Rialto's Double Program

Pat O'Brien, cocky as ever, plays the part of a Maxey Bear type of prizefighter—always clowning and wisecracking, but with a wallop in both hands in "The Personality Kid," on the Rialto theater's double feature program for today and Saturday.

Glenda Farrell and Claire Dodd are also in the cast.

"Where Sinners Meet," a comedy written about the antics of wavering husbands and cheating wives, and with Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard featured, is the other picture on the program.

Suffering from Palsen—Clyde Harmon of Central Point is receiving treatment at the Sacred Heart hospital for pneumonia poisoning, having been taken there yesterday. He was reported this forenoon as getting along satisfactorily.

Shirley Temple Heads Cast New Craterian Film
(Contributed.)

If you are one of those myriad millions who subscribe to the oft-quoted aphorism about good things coming in small packages, you belong at the Craterian theater, where Damon Runyon's "Little Miss Marker," which opened last night, is now showing.

This particular good thing's name is Shirley Temple. Although she's barely five and weighs little more than 40 pounds, we'll wager that you

Here Sunday

Yowah! It's the "Old Maestro" himself, Ben Bernie, who makes his initial screen appearance in "Shoot the Works," opening Sunday at the Craterian theater. Jack Oakie, Dorothy Dell, Arline Judge, Roscoe Karns, William Frawley, Paul Cavanaugh and Lew Cody, in what turned out to be his last screen role, are all in the supporting cast.

Double Feature Showing at Studio

The country made famous by Billy the Kid and his gang nearly 30 years ago is the picture locale of the Four-Star western starring John Wayne and his "wonder horse," Duke. "Somewhere in Sonora," which is now being shown on the Studio theater double feature program.
