What the Girl Scouts Are Doing

Two interesting letters, written by Jewell O'Neal of Girl Scout Troop No. 2, and Vera Witcher of Troop No. 6, both of Medford, have been submitted, which show briefly the activities of the girls at Lake of the Woods scout camp, and interesting events enjoyed by them.

The letters follow:

Dear Friends: This year Girl Scout camp was enjoyed at Camp McLaughlin, Lake of the Woods, Oregon. Camp lasted three weeks, from June 17 to July 7.

The girls were divided into six groups which were named for insects. They are from the smallest on up, Lady-bugs, crickets, beetles, butterflies, grasshoppers and dragonflies.

The activities at camp were: archery, boating, handicraft, singing, swimming, horseback riding, nature work and hiking and first aid.

The camp director was "Wapiti." Every girl found in her an understanding friend.

These are the other counselors: Kangaroo-Archery; Thrush-Singing Mustang-Basting; beaver-Bugler and Swimming; Minkat-Swimming; Hop-toad-Handicraft; Door Mouse-Puppets and Costumes; Dolphin-Swimming; Ricky Tekey-Nurse for the first week; Cotton Tail-Nurse for the second week; Badger-Third week nurse; Oriole-taught weaving; Unicorn, Dodo, Brutus and the great owls were the kitchen flunkies. The cook was Squirrel.

Interesting hikes were taken: Several patrols went to the sand bar and we had overnight hikes as well as breakfast hikes.

One interesting and successful hike taken by the Dragon Flies and four counselors, Beaver, Thrush, Mustang and Minkat, was around the lake.

There were two treasure hunts taken the second and third weeks of camp in which every girl was a part of the fun.

My two weeks at camp seemed to me valuable and successful. Best of all I liked archery, swimming and handicraft. I am looking forward to better times at troop meetings next year.

Jewell O'Neal, Troop II, Medford.

Dear Readers: At Scout Camp, which was held at Lake of the Woods this year, June 7 to July 7, inclusive, Girl Scouts from all sections of Oregon were present.

The second week which I attended was a very busy one. There were about 18 girls present. We were all placed in cabins and tents. The cabins were each named after a bug. The older girls were the big bugs, and the younger the little bugs.

Inspection was held each morning at 9:15. If our tents and cabins were clean and neat we received a star and at the end of the week if we had five stars our mark was a gold one. Inspection was not held on Sunday.

Activities were between 9:30 and 12. We had our choice of leather work, nature study, archery, boating, first aid, and dramatics. There was a counselor for each of the activities, each being named after an animal with the exception of the songleader which was Thrush.

After dinner we had an hour to rest in. Complete silence stole over the whole camp. When rest hour was finished the bugle blew and we could go swimming, boating, or surfboard riding. There were four counselors in charge of the swimming.

About four o'clock we generally got an afternoon drink. It was sure needed after such vigorous exercise. From four o'clock on, we had free time in which we could resume our morning activities.

After supper, which was at six, the girls gathered around campfire to sing, play games, and find other bits of entertainment.

From campfire we went to bed tired and sleepy for we had played so hard but what is camp for if it isn't to play and have a good time? Vera Witcher, Troop III, Medford.

Baldwin-Lombardi Wedding at Ross Of Interest Here

Of interest locally is the announcement of the wedding on Saturday afternoon, July 21, of Miss Edith Berry Baldwin and Oliver Lombardi, which was solemnized at Ross, Calif., by Bishop Edward Lambie Parsons, assisted by the Rev. John C. Leffler.

The bride, who has a number of friends in the Rogue River valley, whom she has visited here, was attired in a wedding gown of heavy white crepe. Miss Peggy Hamill of New York, the guest in Medford of Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding, and wore a dress of yellow organdie with a green sash and also a wide yellow hat.

Reporting the wedding, the San Francisco Examiner states: "The bride who returned recently from a year abroad, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Baldwin, and was graduated from the Branson school in Ross. Mr. Lombardi is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lombardi and is the brother of Mrs. Charles McCormick, Jr., and of Mr. David Lombardi. He graduated from Yale in June.
