

UNFAITHFUL WIFE FIGHTS TO CLEAR SLAYER HUSBAND

Kiwanis and Rotary Members Raising Funds to Aid Judson Duke's Defense—Still Loves Wife, He Says

WOODLAND, Cal., July 30.—(UP)—Judson C. Duke's potense wife went to her family home at Losi today to obtain funds for his defense to a charge that he murdered her alleged lover, Lamar Hollingshead, University of California junior.

Freely admitting her infidelity, Mrs. Duke asserted that she still loved her husband and would fight to clear him of the charge. She has published numerous verses under the name Helen Louise Jorge.

San Leandro where Duke was health inspector, stood behind him. A committee representing war veterans, Kiwanis and Rotary, is raising funds for his defense.

Duke shot the college student after obtaining possession of passionate love letters exchanged by Hollingshead and Mrs. Duke. He sought to force Hollingshead to write a letter to Mrs. Duke saying her attraction was only physical.

Hollingshead, campus author and poet, refused. Duke said he must have "lost his head."

Duke remained alone in his cell today, wearied by continuous questioning and conferences. Mrs. Duke planned to move to Woodland this week to be near her husband.

Charged With Murder.—An inquest was set for Thursday. No date was set for preliminary hearing. Duke was charged formally with murder in a complaint signed by Paul Hollingshead, brother of the slain youth.

It was revealed that Duke's first marriage collapsed in a Denver, Colo., court. His wife divorced him in 1925, charging he associated with other women and boasted about it to her. They have two children, Charles, 18, and Judson, Jr., 15, beliered with their mother in Seattle.

Duke said he knew of his beautiful young second wife's affair with Hollingshead, and tried repeatedly to end it.

What Got Him Down.—"The thing that really got me down in those letters," said Duke, "was his calling her his 'lovely bride.' Most of the rest of it sounded like the Song of Solomon. That and his being willing to leave her stick around with me while he took his time earning some money to take her away."

"I wouldn't have thought I would have done anything like shooting him—but you never can tell what you'll do in a case like this."

"I love Helen Louise. I don't think she meant anything by it, really. She's romantic, and I guess she got carried away."

Duke sent flowers to the funeral of his rival Saturday.

LONDON, July 30.—(AP)—A reliable source stated tonight that the British government has learned that an official statement was issued in Berlin last Wednesday evening proclaiming the overthrow of Chancellor Dollfus of Austria in "a great popular revolt."

This statement, according to the same source, was withdrawn a half hour later before it could be published in any of the newspapers of Germany.

Quarters close to the British government attach great importance to the fact that this statement was purported to have been issued by the official German news agency in Berlin in view of protests emanating from the German capital disclaiming any connection with Bavarian activities and Austrian internal affairs.

"It was in circumstances such as these that we have seen in the majority of the nations who are working on this question of disarmament—whether actively at Geneva or with sympathy, as in the case of the United States, which is not a member of the League of Nations—within the last year or two rather move toward increasing their armaments than decreasing them."
