

CRIMINAL EXODUS IN OKLAHOMA ON STERILITY THREAT

New Law Affecting Three-Time Losers Causes Fear Among 500 Convicts — Test Case Is Ordered

STATE PENITENTIARY, McAlester, Okla., July 31.—(UP)—An exodus of habitual criminals from Oklahoma was in prospect today.

A ruling late yesterday decreed that in accordance with a new law, third term convicts must be sterilized "for the good of society."

Warden Sam Brown took extra precautions against possibility of an outbreak as prisoners excitedly discussed the ruling of the state board of affairs, controlling state penal institutions.

The board ordered George S. Winkler, youthful third term convict who volunteered for the test case, sterilization in Oklahoma's drive for an eugenic society.

Winkler, who had lunch with his wife today, smoked cigarettes nervously during the lengthy hearing. He was visibly shaken at the verdict. He has no children.

With him was a committee of three convicts. Warden Brown gave them permission to attend the hearing and report it to their "cell mates" outside when the prison began to seethe with unrest.

Winkler's attorney gave immediate notice of appeal to the district court, as provided by the sterilization law. If the board's decision is upheld there, the convicts plan an appeal to the state supreme court.

United in their fight against sterilization, they two months ago began a campaign whose slogan is "Save your manhood."

The convicts attempted unsuccessfully to engage Clarence Darrow as their attorney. Sympathetic, he said he was too busy.

The real test of the law will come in the courts, but there is little doubt it will be upheld. The law authorizing sterilization of incurably insane went its course through the courts. Eleven women and several men were sterilized under its provisions. All operations were successful.

"Just because I am a third term convict is no reason I shouldn't be allowed to raise a family," Winkler said.

Evangelists Tent Service Attended By Crowd Sunday

(Contributed.) Evangelistic meeting in the tent, North Central and Third street, was well attended Sunday. Evangelist A. R. Dollard spoke from the text in Hebrews 2:3: "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?"

The message was presented in a manner that reached the hearts of the hearers. The evangelist told how men and women were neglecting the salvation of their souls. At the close of the sermon an altar call was given where those who had neglected salvation sought and found pardon.

The evangelist is speaking tonight on the doctrine of baptism, dealing with both water baptism and the baptism of the Holy Spirit.

If you have not heard this forcible young evangelist, it will do you good to hear him tonight.

TRAVEL TO PARKS SHOWS HUGE GAIN OVER PAST YEAR

CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK, Ore.—(Special)—In direct contrast with the 1933 travel season, 1934 attendance totals throughout the national parks have shown gains from 25 to 400 per cent, Dr. H. C. Bryant, assistant director of the National Park service, said when at Crater lake this week while on a general visit to western parks.

Dr. Bryant reported increased interest in naturalist services offered in each of the parks, providing visitors with opportunities of better understanding and appreciating the scenic wonders of the nation. First begun in Yosemite and Yellowstone National parks, these educational services struggled along for years during a difficult pioneer stage. Then every effort was necessary to determine what features would be best greeted by the public.

No wise pioneering era has been passed. People have learned what to expect when visiting a national park and are anxious to take advantage of all naturalist services, including hiking, informal scientific discussions of features within the respective parks, guided motor trips, mountain climbing, launch trips and other features.

Dr. Bryant learned that such interest in Crater Lake National park has shown commendable increase, especially in regard to services offered at the Sinnott memorial observation station along the inner rim on Victor Rock. This station enables the visitor to learn by his own efforts much of the story concerning Crater lake and its environs without undergoing the rigors of a technical lecture. In this way it is possible for the visitor to fully understand the scene before him and appreciate its beauty.

Travel increases of the current season are attributable to special efforts being made to make 1934 a national park year and also to improved economic conditions, reviving interest in traveling, especially to the scenic spots of the nation.

A. E. Reames, state democratic committeeman, and Ralph Stephenson, democratic county chairman, among several others will go to Portland this week to attend a meeting of the state democratic committee, at which a chairman, secretary and other officers will be selected.

Carl C. Donough, U. S. attorney for Oregon, is the retiring chairman. According to Frank DeSouza, the two leading candidates for the state position are George R. Wilbur of Hood River, and Arthur McManis of Albany.

Several prominent democrats will attend the meeting, including Congressman Walter M. Pierce of La Grande, and R. R. Turner of the Dalles. Walter B. Gleason of Portland, and General Charles H. Martin, democratic candidate for governor, will also be present.

It is likely that many from this city will stay over in Portland, with others of the notable democratic gathering, to see President Roosevelt.

SMITH TELLS OF ROTARY CONCLAVE

Glenn Smith, president of Medford Rotary club, was the speaker at Kiwanis yesterday. He gave a most interesting talk on his recent trip to Detroit where he attended the Rotary International convention. Besides telling many interesting highlights of the session he told of his visit to the World's Fair at Chicago.

That conditions are improving throughout the country was evident from the increased orders for automobiles being received in Detroit, which are about twenty five per cent better this year than last year at the same time, he reported. Mr. Smith informed the Kiwanis members that Superintendent of Schools E. H. Hedrick, who is now in California, is rapidly regaining his health and reported that he will be back in Medford and his desk August 15.
