

HITLER EULOGIZES DEAD HINDENBURG BEFORE OFFICIALS

Mag. men and women of the German people! the chancellor-leader spoke. "I implore you all now to look beyond this transitory moment into the future. Let the strong realization enter our hearts; the Herr Reich-president Field Marshal General Von Hindenburg is not dead.

"He is living. For in dying he now wanders above us amidst the immortals of our people surrounded by the great spirits of the past as an eternal patron and protector of the German Reich and the German nation."

Retired Before War

Hitler declared the late president was "as innocent of the beginning of the war as anybody in the world could be," pointing out that when the conflict began in 1914, Von Hindenburg was living in retirement, having taken his discharge from the army at the age of 64 on March 18, 1911.

The new leader of Germany praised Von Hindenburg as a military commander and declared: "Had the political leadership of our people during this period been congenial with the military, Germany would have been spared the greatest humiliation ever to go down in history."

He said that the World war broke upon a German people "sacredly convinced of having been attacked without their guilt."
