Here Sunday

MYRNA LOY

The film version of Dashiell Hammett's latest and greatest detective mystery, "The Thin Man," will open Sunday at the Craterian theater.

And the best of the screen detectives, William Powell, plays the leading role, with lovely Myrna Loy as his leading lady.

Different from all other detective films, "The Thin Man" is probably the most exciting and gripping picture that has reached the screen recently, yet it teems with sparkling humor and smart dialogue throughout its length.

The story is Nick Charles' story—a retired detective who is deprived of a pleasure trip to New York on his wealthy wife's money by three baffling murders which he is called upon to solve.

Ann Harding in Craterian Hit

With Clive Brook in the chief supporting role, Ann Harding's new picture, "Gallant Lady," plays today and Saturday at the Craterian theater. Others in the cast include Otto Kruger, Tullio Carminati and Little Dickie Moore.

The story deals with the conflicting emotions in a woman's life—love of a woman for a man or love of a mother for her child. The role gives

Coming to Roxy
