

CCC CONTINUANCE PLANS SUBMITTED BY CHIEF FECHNER

At the request of the president, Robert H. Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, has submitted a report to President Roosevelt, in which he expresses his opinions of necessary changes in the CCC but these will not be made public until submitted to congress, Mr. Fechner said this morning.

The leader in the emergency conservation work said he had several ideas for new legislative enactment, which is necessary if the CCC is to continue after March, 1935. Other persons and agencies taking an active part in the CCC work have been asked for suggestions also, Mr. Fechner said.

"I do not think that conditions will return to normal by the spring of 1935," Mr. Fechner said, "and for that reason I believe new legislation for a movement replacing the CCC will be necessary."

Told of the benefits Medford has derived from being headquarters for twenty CCC camps and the projects accomplished by the men in this section, Mr. Fechner said: "I am tremendously proud of it all."

When asked if Medford is to have a camp located on Rony Anne for the development of the road and park, the director said all such announcements are made out of Washington, and will be forthcoming the first of October.

"That's the penalty of having anything so popular—everyone wants it," he said, stating that the requests for camps are quite numerous.

Mr. Fechner again expressed his appreciation of the reception last night, saying: "I could never have believed a city this size could have turned out a crowd that large for such an affair."

Shortly before 8 o'clock this morning, Mr. Fechner joined Major Clare H. Armstrong, district commander of the CCC, and David H. Canfield, acting superintendent of Crater Lake national park, in an inspection tour. They visited the CCC district headquarters in the old city hall and the headquarters detachment at the Jackson county fair grounds.

The party then left for Camp Upper Rogue River near Union Creek, from where they planned to continue to Camp Annie Springs and Camp Wineglass in Crater Lake national park, returning to Medford this afternoon.

Arno B. Cammerer, director of national parks, buildings and reservations, left Medford for the park following the banquet last night. He also plans to visit the Oregon Coast while in southern Oregon.

BEAT-UP LEADER GETS HARD JOLT

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The heaviest penalty yet prescribed for any longshoreman for violence during the waterfront strike here was handed to Harry McCallum in a night session of municipal court when he was sentenced to a six-month jail sentence, a 90-day sentence and a 30-day sentence on three counts.

Three complaints appeared and told of having been beaten by mobs led by McCallum on different days.

Municipal Judge Long described the case as "one of real violence," and he spoke of a "cowardly and brutal attack," and of "gang rule."

McCallum's attorney filed a motion of appeal on all three convictions.

Undergoes Operation—Miss Lucy Weeks of Trail underwent an emergency operation at the Community hospital Thursday afternoon.

MEIER PRAISES OREGON LIQUOR CONTROL PLANS

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Governor Meier believes the present plan of liquor control in Oregon is "the best available system."

He made that statement to the Associated Press in commenting upon the first six months' operation of the Oregon liquor control commission.

His statement said: "I recommended the so-called Knox plan of liquor control to the legislature because I believed it would avoid all the evils of the old-time saloon and the bootlegger."

"After some initial difficulties and mistakes which are unavoidable in launching an enterprise of this magnitude, the operations of the state liquor control commission are going forward in an efficient and satisfactory manner."

"Substantial revenues are being conserved to the state for relief purposes and the sale of alcohol liquor is being effectively regulated."

"With only minor changes the present plan will, in my opinion, give the people of Oregon the best available system of liquor control."

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 10.—(AP)—The Eastern Oregon Light & Power Co. today filed notice of voluntary rate reductions as high as 30 per cent on power used for commercial, and heating purposes. Charles H. Thomas, public utilities commissioner, announced. The company operates in Baker, La Grande and vicinity.

Hall in Medford—H. E. Hall of Washington, D. C., who is engaged in an inspection of airways communication facilities for the U. S. department of commerce, arrived in Medford this morning to meet Art Johnson of Oakland, who is engaged in the same work. After attending to business here, Mr. Hall will continue north to Portland and Seattle, and Mr. Johnson will return to Oakland.
