MRS. SATCHWELL AMONG SPEAKERS AT WRITERS' MEET

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 17—(AP)—Self-expression for the sake of self-expression is all right, but Professor L. E. Nelson of University of Redlands, California, raises the question as to why it should be designated "art" and be thrust upon other people.
Prof. Nelson raised that question and several others Thursday when he discussed "modern poetry" at the convention of the League of Western Writers, in session here.
"The writer who insists he must express himself and that it doesn't matter whether others receive any impression," Prof. Nelson said, "should, like Robinson Crusoe, go and stay on an island, but he shouldn't try to foist his work on society."
"He is talking to himself," the professor concluded, "and is mighty proud of both speaker and listener."
Nelson made the observation that much of the verse he has read does represent trains of thought, "but the cars are empty."
Other speakers included Jay Roderie DeSpain of Battleground, Wash.; Mrs. Atlanta P. Satchwell of Medford; Prof. R. R. Upton, University of Washington; Anna W. H. Nelson of Salem; Ray Penny of Tacoma, and Pamela Pearl Jones of Seattle.

OREGON DROUGHT AREAS GET HUGE SUM FOR RELIEF

PORTLAND, Aug. 17—(AP)—About $100,000 already has been appropriated by the state emergency relief committee for use in the drought areas of Oregon. A score of wells are being drilled, and dozens of springs have been developed so that livestock will not perish from lack of the vital water.
The emergency relief committee announced that nearly 50,000 square miles—half the area of the entire state, and equal to the combined areas of Pennsylvania and Connecticut—has been designated as a drought area in Oregon. This land embraces 11 counties, including Baker, Crook, Grant, Harney, Jefferson, Lake, Malheur, Morrow, Umatilla, Wasco and Wheeler. The great area has a population of 95,000.
During August about 300 persons had employment in well drilling and spring development. Wells were drilled in Crook, Harney, Jefferson, Lake, Wasco and Umatilla counties.

Congressman Chas. H. Martin, Democratic candidate for governor; Representative Walter M. Pierce, who seeks re-election from the second district; R. R. Turner, who aspires to succeed James W. Most as congressman from the third district; and Horace E. Walters, the party's candidate for secretary of state, as well as others on the state Democratic ticket, will speak.
The picnic will be an all-day affair, opening at 9 a. m. The speaking program will be consolidated with and immediately following the noon luncheon.
A large attendance from all over the state is expected for this biggest of all Democratic get-togethers.
