

KARASICK, LETHERS GRAPPLE FOR HOUR, NEITHER GET FALL

Heat Takes Snap From Texan's Rubber Legs — Willy Russian Near Exhaustion — Wilson Wins

Two bettered hulks of grapplers emerged from the main event of Promoter Mack Lillard's wrestling card at the armory last night on even terms, after Al Karasick, 190-pound Russian, who left the ring stop Referee Billy Newman's shoulders, had gruelled for one hour to a draw with Sad Sam Lethers, 200, lean Texan mat artist whose rubber legs had lost their snap. The match ended with the first fall still in the dope bucket as the limber Texan rushed the Russian to pulp in a steadily weakening rolling scissors.

May Have Been Heat It may have been the heat that took the stretch out of Sad Sam's famous elastic limbs, or it may have been the clever matwork and knotty muscles of the veteran Russian. Lethers applied three figure-four head scissors and worked on Karasick for 15 minutes with the final rolling clamp, but his stocky opponent came up for more time and again, with frequent threats of ending the fray himself with grinding head locks, arm holds and barrages of rabbit punches.

The bout started with a spattering of face slapping tom-foolery, and short holds which later lengthened into the grueling entanglements which finally wore down both grapplers to panting, slow-moving monkey-men, often including in their twisting melees the third man in the ring.

Pete Belcastro, wild Italian muscle-mangler from Sacramento, was left up in the air by Referee Newman's decision, after issuing a challenge to the winner of the main event.

Wildcat Wins

In the semi-final bout, George "Wildcat" Wilson, 203-pound ex-All American football player from University of Washington, raised the ire of none other than Harry Demetral, Chicago's "Terrible Greek" of the clinch and crunch game, by flattening the burly Chicagoan with sponenbergs to win two out of three falls in a hectic match that went 20 minutes.

The sensational ex-gridster, who ranks as one of football's greatest halfbacks, brought his flying tackle into the ring last night and slid all over Demetral, flattening him in 14 minutes for the first fall and three for the odd. The big Greek took the middle fall in three and one-half minutes with a body press amid a din of boos, with Wilson in a daze from rabbit punches.

Demetral used mainly choke holds and flats, taking his punishment in a series of leg splits, before the wildcat unleashed like a pent up battering-ram. Newman held the irate Greek in his corner as Wilson took the laurels.

Another record crowd got off to a wild start with the first event, then settled down to a hard duel working up to a frenzied climax as Timekeeper Viv Beach's watch ticked away the final seconds of the main bout.

GILMORES READY TO GIVE ROGUES BASEBALL LESSON

At 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon Medford's Gilmore Lions will meet on the fairgrounds diamond Hal Haight's Rogues, and according to Manager Bob Lewis, will attempt to give the elder boys a few lessons in the game of baseball.

Ray Tungate and Calvin Stoddard have been elected to try their hands at putting the Rogues in their places, with Tungate doing the pitching and Stoddard the receiving.

In the Lions' lineup there will also be such stars as Dick Sakrads, center fielder who has a record all his own of dropping only one fly ball in the past two years. Dick Lewis, hard-hitting short stop, will be on duty at his favorite trick of stealing his way around the diamond.

"Iron Arm" Jim Tungate will hold down third base, with flashy George Smith at second and the veteran Tommy Kenton at first. Bob Smith will take care of the left field position, and will also be on hand for reserve pitching. Speck Hurst, fleet-footed boy from Eagle Point, will cover right field. Leo Sakrads and Frank Smith will be on hand as reserves.

According to Basil Harry Bigham, assistant Lion manager and trainer, the Gilmore boys are all in wonderful condition, presenting a lineup which some say is unbeatable.

LEGION JUNIORS IN FINALS TODAY

ASTORIA, Ore., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The Woodburn and Portland Legion Junior baseball teams will play here today for the state championship, both having started off opponents' rallies to win in yesterday's semi-finals.

Woodburn beat Roseburg 7 to 6 and Portland beat Hood River 7 to 4.

The Woodburn team grabbed a 3 to 0 lead over Roseburg and knocked Roseburg's pitcher Lyle Turpin out of the box during the first five innings.

But with the score 7 to 1 against them in the last inning Roseburg set the crowd wild with a riotous five run rally.

The Postoffice pharmacy team of Portland also gained a 3 to 0 lead which it likewise had a hard time to protect once the Hood River batemen got the range and outbit Portland.

CATBALL TILT TONIGHT MAY GIVE OFFICE BOYS REVENGE OVER PUHLS

In what "Scoop" Puhl, manager, states will probably be the last game of the season, the South Ivy Street Rinky Dinks will tangle tonight on their home katball diamond with Sam Colton's Office Boys.

Scoop believes the battle will be a hectic one, as Colton's outfit is out for revenge for a 2-0-1 tangle last week, administered in a bitter contest. The Rinky Dinks have steadily mounted the ladder in scoring, emerging with bowed heads at the beginning of the season, but lessening the margin of defeat in each game until last week, when the tables were turned and spiked down by the one-point victory.

Manager Puhl hopes to have the same lineup in action tonight that took the measure of the Office Boys last week, and urges his team to be at the diamond no later than 6 p. m. for the first bat-rack.

Sam Colton is confident that his boys will show better form tonight, but is up against a tough aggregation. The Rinky Dinks have previously lost so consistently by such fat scores to various katball clubs of the city that they figure it is now their turn to howl.

GIANTS BEAT DEAN AFTER MANY TRIES

By Associated Press.

The Giants finally have beaten one of the pitching Dean boys from St. Louis—and that, in the light of what has gone before, ranks as one of the season's major achievements.

The feat was enough to give the league leaders a margin of 6½ games over the Cubs and seven over the Cards as they pulled out a last minute 5-3 decision over Paul Dean, the younger of the pair at St. Louis yesterday. At the same time the Cubs

CHILD IS VICTIM OF RARE DISEASE

Washington.—(UP)—Children's hospital physicians here believe the strange muscular atrophy which has attacked 22-months-old Sally Lou Housley is one of the rarest child diseases.

Diagnosed as Myotonia Gravis, the affliction has kept little Sally Lou in its grip for several months. There is no known cause of or treatment for the condition.

Aside from her muscular affliction, the little girl is quite normal. Her bones and teeth are well developed.

The disease usually develops later in childhood and is characterized by extreme stiffness and clumsiness. It is believed to have its origin in faulty functioning of an endocrine gland, preventing proper muscle metabolism.

Extreme youth of the patient has made the case of special interest, with possibility that the condition may be outgrown if the victim survives a few years.
