

ROOSEVELT EYED FOR REACTION TO LIBERTY LEAGUE

I am cooperating with the republican party or with republican individuals, directly or indirectly, is just a pure invention.

Shouse Retires
Jouett Shouse, president of the league which is being launched as a bi-partisan movement to urge the "rights of persons and property" on congress, reiterated that it was not "anti-Roosevelt" or "anti" anything. Some democrats left no doubt that they regarded the league as an attempt to crystallize "rightist" opposition to certain new deal trends, while Secretary of the Interior Ickes, an old bull moose, said it meant the beginning of a division in accordance with the real issue.

"I should like to see all progressives get together in one camp and all conservatives in another," he said. "Then we would always be facing our enemies instead of wondering what was happening behind our backs."

Founders Called "Die-Hards"
While Representative Wadsworth (R. N. Y.), one of the league's "original six," said it would seek to arouse the public to the "character of the attack" being made on the constitution, Senator Pope (D. Idaho) saw in it the "philosophy" of Henry P. Fletcher, republican national chairman, and Senator Thomas (D. Okla.) called its founders "die-hards and standpat-ers."

The executive committee—now composed of Wadsworth, Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, Shouse, Nathan L. Miller and Irene Du Pont—is to be increased to 18. The league asks 4,000,000 members and Shouse said it was being deluged with pledges of support.

NALLEY PRODUCTS ARE COAST MADE

One of the most important contributing factors in the growth and upbuilding of the great Pacific northwest is the development of manufacturing enterprises that insure permanent payrolls and consequent larger purchasing power.

The last ten to fifteen years have seen many new industries spring into existence, but few, if any, have made more rapid strides than Nalley's, Inc., with headquarters at Tacoma and with distributing warehouses throughout Washington and Oregon.

The remarkable growth and acceptance by both consumer and dealer for Nalley's line of food products is due in almost full measure to the high standard of quality that has been maintained. Despite this well-known quality for which a high cost might naturally be expected, Nalley's has always been available to the consumer at popular prices, according to S. F. McApin, representative here.

This week grocers of Medford are celebrating "Nalley Popularity Week" which will begin Saturday and end September 1. Free recipe books are being offered by these participating food stores.

The fact that Nalley mayonnaise, sandwich spread and "Salad Time" jars are suitable for canning purposes and the lids are exactly the right size for Kerr discs, was pointed out by O. C. Weber, district manager for the Nalley company, who was in this city this week on business.

News Behind The News

democratic turtle. The Bostonian insisted he was only playing, but the young democrat exhibited a piece missing from his leg to prove it was politics.

The prize remark of the week was that of Senator Fletcher when asked about Agriculture Secretary Wallace's opposition to an American merchant marine. Said Fletcher, gravely: "Henry had better stay on land."

ROOSEVELT SHOWING STRAIGHT PATH, VIEW

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was hailed by Edward A. Filene as the leader who has shown the way "from here to there" in harmonizing distribution with production.

Addressing a group at the chamber of commerce here last night, Filene, internationally known Boston merchant, declared the administration was going neither left nor right.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—(AP)—After early hesitancy, stocks moved higher today in trading that was less active than that of the previous session. Packing issues and other specialties drew a following and the steel and utilities improved. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 650,000 shares.

News developments of market importance were scarce. Car loadings for the week ended August 18 showed a contra-seasonal decline of 1,969 under the previous week, but rail equities were not particularly impressed.

Grains were apathetic, although they finished somewhat higher. Cotton was a bit better. Bonds steadied. Sterling was heavy in foreign exchange dealings.

$200 Per Month Pension?
To the Editor:
If our New Deals are to succeed in any large way their planning must be mathematically precise. Our columns of figures must add up.

We should admit the debt we owe to our work-out workers that have helped to develop our power-driven machinery. At the same time we must not overlook some provision that will guarantee to all workers, regardless of age, employment, or the stability of our government and domestic tranquility depend upon the solution of this problem of unemployment. Age should be no bar to a job of some kind nor should age entitle any citizen to an extraordinary wage.

The government should put all unemployed workers to work in non-commodity producing enterprises increasing our national wealth, at a minimum wage for common labor high enough to insure every worker a comfortable standard of living. This minimum wage should not be less than 50 cents an hour for common labor. A minimum wage so established by the government would insure a job for every worker but would raise the wages of workers in those industries in which labor is now underpaid. It would, as well, raise the price of commodities in those industries in which labor is now underpaid. Especially would it raise the price of farm products.

The establishment of a minimum wage for common labor would give us a measuring stick that would not fluctuate in value. This minimum wage would become the weighty factor in reckoning the value of skilled labor, the relative value of commodities and finally the value of our dollar.

The establishment of a minimum wage for common labor and employment for every one would bring about a great increase in national income and a more equitable distribution of national income.

The revenue to support such a measure could be collected from income taxes made possible by increased business on the commodity producing side of the fence and by a general reduction of interest charges throughout industry.

I hope we do not give any serious consideration to such an uneconomic proposal as a $200 per month old age pension. Rather, let us plan to give jobs to all unemployed, establish a minimum wage for common labor and so bring about a more equitable distribution of our national income.

J. C. BARNES.

LUMBER MOVING OUT TO DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Continued heavy movement of lumber from mills to retailers during the week ending August 18 was reported today by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association.

While somewhat lower than the previous week, shipments as reported to the association from 1,393 mills totaled 209,157,000 feet. This amount was surpassed only by the movement during the week of August 11 when shipments totaled 225,267,000 feet, and one week in March during the past 12 months.

The association said orders continued to decline, dropping to 184,468,000 feet for the week of August 18, and 194,342,000 for the previous six-day period. Production was lower, totaling 204,703,000 feet, compared with 211,487,000 feet for the previous week.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The North Bend waterfront will be developed and improved under a $28,000 SERA project announced today by the state relief committee.

The improvement project for the Coos Bay city was the largest project of the week. It will include making fills, building a rip-rap wall and replacing wood surfaces.

Additional aid was given the recreational project at Pendleton in improvement at the T. J. Taylor memorial park, a former CWA project. The prisoners at the Jefferson county jail and the judges in the court house are going to have newly kalsomined walls. A general renovating program will be started at once.

PORTLAND WARNED ON HIGHWAY INSISTENCE

McMINNVILLE, Ore., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A declaration that Portland would "suffer" for insistence upon the re-allocation of funds for the Wilson River highway was made by the McMinnville chamber of commerce.

In a letter to Leslie M. Scott, chairman of the state highway commission, the McMinnville chamber protested against the reallocation.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Harold Taylor, accused by police of the murder of Faye New, Howard college co-ed, today was charged with assault with intent to ravish Mrs. Clara Coit in a warrant sworn out by the woman.

The second charge against Taylor, who is held without bond in county jail on the murder warrant came two hours after Judge Russell McElroy had ordered a special session of the grand jury convened Monday to investigate the co-ed murder case.

Mrs. Coit in swearing out the warrant, accused Taylor of making improper advances to her on the Green Springs road Monday afternoon, a few hours before he asked Miss New to accompany him on the automobile ride from which the co-ed failed to return.
