

NRA STANDS READY SLICE WORK HOURS WHERE ADVISABLE

Roosevelt Has Urged Industry to Cut Hours Ten Per Cent Without Reducing Pay—Opposition Seen

By James W. Douthat. Associated Press Staff Writer. WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The administration is ready to lower the hours of work and keep intact present wages for any industry in which that action is found advisable.

This was said today at NRA at the same time it was disclosed that two officials of the recovery organization had submitted their resignations to Hugh S. Johnson, one during a stormy session of the policy board about two weeks ago and one previously.

Nerves Blamed.

There were Blackwell Smith, assistant general counsel of NRA, and Leon Henderson, chief of the division of planning and research. It was said authoritatively, however, the action during the policy board meeting was due principally to nervous strain on the part of all concerned and was quickly smoothed over.

For months, the administration has desired a further cut in hours of work so as to give employment to more persons, but there have been many difficulties.

President Roosevelt, himself, has urged industry to cut hours ten per cent without any cut in the amount of total wages received. This would be the equivalent of raising hourly wages.

Recently the president ordered a reduction from 40 to 36 in the hours for the cotton garment industry. The manufacturers have determined to oppose the order in the courts and now are planning action.

Employment Plans.

NRA is considering a number of plans for putting more people to work. It is possible that a program may be presented to President Roosevelt by Johnson when they confer at Hyde Park a few days hence.

The tilt at the NRA policy board was described by one who was present. He said Johnson was "tired"—punch drunk in fact—due to his long hours of work and strain over a plan for NRA reorganization.

Richberg, NRA general counsel, was described by Johnson as "playing fast and loose with me."

"But the remark slipped out," the informant added. "If he hadn't been so tired I don't think he would have said it."

Johnson and Richberg have been in disagreement for some time over the future of NRA. It reached such a point several days ago that Johnson left a White House conference abruptly and later submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt. He was persuaded to withdraw it.

Smith Would Quit.

When Johnson made his remark about Richberg, Smith arose, it was said, and told the NRA administrator:

"My resignation is on your desk now."

Johnson was described as assuring Smith he had not meant anything by the remark and told the assistant counsel to forget it. Apparently Smith has.

Then Johnson turned to Henderson and said:

"How about your resignation?"

His manner was said to indicate he was attempting to deal facetiously with the whole affair. Henderson grinned and said his resignation also was ready.

Henderson and Johnson have frequently disagreed on matters of policy but each was described as thoroughly understanding the other.

POULTRY MOVIES AT 7:30 TONIGHT

A. F. Rolf and F. E. La Shelle, Jr., poultry authorities who will take part in the general poultrymen's meeting to be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the Jackson County court house auditorium, arrived in Medford this morning, and were met by Art Endres, manager here for the Sperry Flour company.

On their arrival, the two well-known poultry leaders will prepare the equipment to be used in showing the new talking picture, "What's Ahead," which deals exclusively with poultry problems and will be a feature of tonight's show.

After the last reel of this unusual cinema has been shown, poultrymen attending the meeting will join with Mr. Rolf and Mr. La Shelle in an informal discussion of their individual poultry-raising problems.

ANNE LINDBERGH GIVES COLORFUL STORY OF FLIGHT

Mate of Lone Eagle Makes Debut as Author in National Geographic Magazine's Vivid Travelogue

By Bees Furman. WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Anne Morrow Lindbergh dips her pen in thrills and color to tell in September's National Geographic Magazine how it feels to go globe-trotting with the world's foremost aviator.

Making her debut as author of vivid travelogue, Mrs. Lindbergh tells about the 1933 flight around the North Atlantic, on which she handled the wireless key.

She makes her travels live again: Missionary outposts of Canada; the country dances of Greenland; Iceland, where giants conquered the land; Leningrad, the beautiful city gone a trifle shoddy; Moscow, "amazing combination of old and new."

Flying Fashion Note

Her longest dissertation on her own clothes could hardly be called a fashion note—it was over the Greenland ice cap:

"I was wearing, in addition to woolen underwear, one thin wool shirt, one thick wool shirt, one wool sweater, wool riding trousers, several pairs of wool stockings, fur-lined kamiks and helmet, and over everything the hooded white blanket parka designed for us by Dr. Stefansson. I was quite warm except for my feet, which I sat on, and my hands, on which I put another pair of mittens."

Comfort in Radio

The radio key simply sings through her story:

"Being assured by a radio of a safe anchorage while one is still over icy wastes is a miracle to which there is no parallel. The comfort of it is rather like walking through a dark room, always keeping one's eyes on the light beyond in the hall."

And for pure exultation, there's this passage on the hopoff from the becalmed African coast: "We're off! No—spank—spank—spank—'but almost—I held my breath. We're off! No more spanks. Yes, we're off—we're rising. The engine smoothed off into a long sigh, like a person breathing easily, almost like someone singing, ecstatically. We turned from the lights of the city. The plane seemed exultant then, even arrogant. We did it—we did it!"

CARSON RECALL WILL BE FOUGHT

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—(AP)—An anti-recall league opposing recall of Mayor Joe K. Carson of Portland has formed as a non-partisan group to support "law and order."

The organization's statement of purpose branded the recall attempt as a "repetition of previous movements against public officials, almost invariably sponsored by persons seeking to serve sinister purposes."
