WRITERS' LEAGUE HEARS REPORT ON RECENT CONCLAVE

At the convention of the League of Western Writers held in Portland last month, particular honor was conferred upon Southern Oregon when Mrs. Atlanta Parker Satchwell of Medford was elected to the national board as state organizer. A report of the convention was given at the regular meeting of the local Writers' League held here Saturday by Miss Maude Pool, who attended the Portland meeting with Mrs. Satchwell, Mrs. Louise Hedges, and Mrs. Anna Winterhalder.

Mrs. Satchwell, president of the Medford branch, took an active part in convention, giving much valuable publicity to Jackson county through numerous talks. A special guest at the Portland Kiwanis club luncheon, the local president spoke briefly of pioneer days here, and at another luncheon emphasized the industrial and scenic values of southern Oregon, extending an invitation to Pacific coast people to visit here. Mrs. Satchwell appeared on the program in the poet section, reading her poem entitled "Old Oregon Trail," and also was a member of the resolutions committee.

Convention, held at the Multnomah hotel, was attended by writers from Oregon, Washington, and California, and was reported as the most successful ever held there. Judge L. D. Malone of Portland is the newly elected president of the national league, succeeding Orra E. Monette of Los Angeles.

Former residents of this county appearing on the program were Mrs. Agnes E. Hines of Forest Grove, Col. Robert A. Miller, and B. F. Irvine of Portland. Two songs written by Mrs. Hines, "In That Vine Covered Cottage" and "All Hail Our Northwest Grandeur," were sung as the opening number of convention program.

Mrs. Hines, having served as Oregon executive, during which time she organized the Medford league, was selected to the board of national directors. She also presided during one of the luncheons. Col. Miller spoke on "A Century of Education and Progress in Oregon."

Among other speakers on the program were Prof. L. E. Nelson of University of Redlands, Cal.; Ben Field of Los Angeles, who spoke on his recent 50-day trip to the south sea islands; and Prof. N. H. Comish of the University of Oregon. Fiction, drama, and poetry were featured during the four days of convention, which closed with a banquet in the evening, following a delightful motor trip over the Columbia highway to Bonneville dam project, with transportation furnished by the Portland auto dealers.

At the local meeting Saturday interest was centered upon poems and articles written by members on the subject of "shadows," some of which will be sent out for publication. Members are requested to write a story of the "short short" type for the next meeting in October.

Mrs. Mary Graves, secretary and treasurer, has had a poem entitled "Life's Treasures," accepted by the Detroit News recently. Her poem on "Words" was published last month in the Portland Journal, and a third poem appeared in a South Dakota paper.

Regret of the league was expressed Saturday over the passing of the fountain in the city park, installed by pioneers of Medford. Owing to vandalism and repair work under way at the Hotel Holland, the meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Louise Hedges.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this better than taking patent medicines—so often harmful?

Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily, relieve most types of constipation. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Get the red and green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

500 CARS OREGON HAY BOUGHT FOR DROUGHT RIDDEN STATES EAST

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Leaving about $100,000 in cash with Willamette valley farmers, C. H. Gunn of Lexington, Neb., left Portland by plane last night after having dispatched several train loads of baled hay to South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Gunn, a Lexington hay dealer, was here as an agent for the federal emergency relief administration. The fodder he bought went to drought-ridden sections of the two states.

He arrived without announcement and went quietly from farm to farm, buying the hay at from $9 to $10 a ton.

"I found a great store of hay in the Willamette valley," Gunn said. "It is good hay, but not exactly preferred grade. The market I opened for the growers here was an unexpected and a welcome one."

Gunn said he bought about 500 carloads in the Willamette valley, and about 100 cars in western Washington.

ALL SCHOOLS IN SESSION MONDAY

All the schools of Jackson county are now open with the exception of Medford, Central Point, and Griffin Creek, which will start next Monday, September 17. Practically all the rural schools are now in operation. About half the number opened Monday, September 3, and the balance yesterday. The Ashland schools opened yesterday.

No accurate figures on the attendance will be available until a month of school has passed, according to Mrs. Tina Inch, rural school supervisor. It is expected to be about the same as last year, in most districts. Increases in attendance are expected in the Central Point and West Side, where a number of families have moved during the past three months.

Notice. JOB'S DAUGHTERS are requested to call at the East Side Pharmacy between 10 and 12 and 1 and 5, from Monday to Friday. Dance invitations will be issued there.

14 ARE CHARGED IN TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS AND PETTY THEIVING

Fourteen complaints—the largest number in two years—were filed yesterday by the district attorney's office in justice court. They were chiefly for violations of the auto laws, with a few charges of petty thieving.

Geraldine Stansell, 21, of Klamath Falls, is charged in a complaint filed by the state police, with failure to procure an operators' license. Miss Stansell was the driver of an auto which plunged off the Green Springs Mountain grade Saturday night. Three other occupants of the auto—Donald Stansell, a brother, Mrs. J. G. Brown, and Charles MacMurdo of Klamath Falls—escaped with minor hurts. The accident was attributed to skidding when the vehicle hit loose gravel.

Harold Brookerling, 25, resident of this city, was given a jail sentence for theft of two gallons of gasoline from the tank of an auto belonging to Dr. I. H. Gove of this city. Sam Dale, arrested by the city police, was sentenced to 30 days in jail for theft of ten spark plugs, from an auto supply store.

The other complaints charged reckless driving, speeding, improper license plates, or improper lights.

Smith is taking the place of E. H. Hedrick in the city superintendent's office, during the latter's absence, due to illness. Mr. Hedrick is reported rapidly improving at a hospital at Belmont, Cal., and is expected to return to Medford within a few weeks.
