There's a new twist in "Charlie Chan's Courage," which opened at the Rialto theater yesterday, that makes it different from any other Charlie Chan picture. As soon as you get into the story, you know that there is skulduggery afoot. Finally, aided by the enigmatic Chan, you see the bloodstains where the supposed murderer was committed. But where is the body of the slain man?

WALNUT GROWERS TO MEET MONDAY

An important meeting of the walnut growers of southern Oregon has been called for next Monday by W. A. Gates, who is chairman of the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock at the chamber and the purpose is to explain and discuss the AAA regulations regarding local walnuts, inasmuch as the new regulations make it almost prohibitive to buy the local product. All growers are particularly urged to be present.

NEGRO BUM LOSES TUXEDO AND SPATS

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Police eyebrow wagged to a new high today when a negro transient, fresh from a boxcar journey, complained bitterly he had been robbed of his tuxedo and a pair of spats. "I go first class as far as dressing is concerned, but I'm not so particular about transportation," the complainant, Buddy Collins, explained. He blamed a white youth, his fellow passenger on the freight train from Seattle.
